Russians Crack Finnish Line at 3 Points

500 AIRPLANES RAIN BOMBS ON ISTHMUS FRONT

Defenders Admit Foe Has Entered Summa.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Feb. 16 (AP).—The Russian army, with 500 planes supporting a tremendous land attack, has crashed ahead to dearly-bought gains at three places along Finland's Mannerheim line on the Karelian isthmus, tonight's Finnish army communique acknowledged.

It was the second time in three days that the Russian mass drive was admitted to have made a dent in the main Finnish defense fortifications.

Shortly before the communique was issued a military informant admitted that the Red army had captured at least part of the village of Summa, which has seen the fiercest fighting of the 16 day old isthmus battle.

Shells Demolish Village.

The informant said the Russians were in Summa on Feb. 13 and presumably still were there. This Verdun of the Russian-Finnish war, now demolished by shellfire, lies only 20 miles southeast of Viipuri, Finland's second largest city and the apparent immediate objective of the Russian onslaught.

The seriousness with which Finland regards the isthmus battle was apparent in the unsmiling faces of citizens and officials while reading the latest official announcement—a strange contrast to smiling, joking and confident troops seen on Saturday, when the Russian infantry attacks were diminished in force in the Summa sector.

There was no question of any sudden collapse of the Finnish defense, Finnish military men said, but the tremendous pressure of the never-ending attacks put a heavy strain on every fighting man.

Text of Communique.

Tonight's communique said:

"Land: Enemy attacks continued on Feb. 15. The severest pressure occurred between Hatjalahdenjarvi and the Vuoksi [river] and at Taipale.

"East of the Summa sector and at a couple of outpoints on the defile between Lake Muolaa and the Vuoksi the enemy succeeded in penetrating to our positions. Elsewhere the attacks were repulsed.

"Northeast of Lake Ladoga enemy attacks were repulsed both among the islands and on shore. Our forces captured one of the enemy's positions. Enemy losses were heavy. At Kuhmo destruction of isolated enemy detachments continued.

Bombs Fire Soviet Camps.

"Air: On Feb. 15 our fighter planes engaged in several successful air battles. In the course of the day we bombed enemy encampments and railways and stations behind his lines. Fires were observed in the encampments after the bombing.

"Enemy air activity was concentrated in the war zone most severely on the isthmus, where the number of enemy planes was estimated at 500. Besides, the Finnish troops at Lappeenranta and Kakisalmi and Viipuri were bombed. Outside the war zone the enemy bombed Riihimaki."

Reds Claim Two Towns Taken.

MOSCOW, Feb. 17, Saturday (AP).—Two Finnish railroad towns five miles north and northeast of Summa were reported by the Leningrad military headquarters today to have been captured by Red army troops yesterday along with 22 more Finnish defensive fortifications.

The Russian communique said Red troops had occupied Leipasuo and Kamara, Finnish towns on the Viipuri-Leningrad railroad. The Russians reported yesterday that their troops were approaching Kamara.

The capture of the 22 additional defensive fortifications raised to 175 such Finnish positions claimed by Russia since the offensive began 17 days ago.

The communique said 420 machine guns and 170 other guns had been captured in the last seven days of fighting.

Report Finns Bomb Railway.

LONDON, Feb. 17, Saturday (AP).—A Reuters [British news agency] report from Helsingfors early today said Finnish planes had bombed the railroad connecting Leningrad with the Karelian isthmus and that several stations were set afire.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

RECORD SETTING 965 MILLION IS VOTED FOR NAVY

House Turns Down Guam Item.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

(Graph on page 4.)

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—A record-breaking navy appropriation bill totaling $965,779,438 was approved in the house and sent to the senate today. It was accompanied by a warning to both the army and navy that they must stay within the limits of the huge funds granted them for the coming fiscal year.

John Taber.

The house approved a reduction of 112 million dollars in the navy budget estimates prepared by President Roosevelt. Representative John Taber [R., N. Y.], ranking minority member of the appropriations committee, noted that government departments have a habit of evading these congressional economies by applying to congress for so-called deficiency appropriations later in the year.

Taber said he spoke for a large number of members of the committee. If Republicans gain a majority in the house at the November elections, as many political observers believe probable, Taber would become chairman of the appropriations group in January, 1941.

Warns of Economy Rule.

"I want every government department to realize," Taber told the house just before the navy bill was passed without a record vote, "that I shall oppose every deficiency request, and I speak for a very large number of the members of the appropriations committee. I expect all departments, including the army and the navy, to so allocate their funds that they will last thru the year."

By a teller vote of 123 to 114 the house knocked out of the navy measure a request for $1,000,000 to start work on a $3,000,000 harbor dredging and breakwater construction project on the Island of Guam in the far Pacific.

The Guam proposal was defeated amidst a chorus of criticism that it was the beginning of fortification of the tiny, coral outpost. Its isolated position, 3,800 miles west of Hawaii and less than 1,400 miles from Japan, make the island a definite threat to peaceful relations with Japan, members argued. This country seized the island from Spain in 1898.

Base for Clipper Ships.

Supporters of the project insisted that the improvements are merely designed to promote the safety of the harbor for seaplane landings. The island is a stopping point for the Pan-American Clipper ship service.

The house last year also refused to approve a bill authorizing the expenditure of $5,000,000 at the island.

"If this nation has imperialistic desires, then Guam ought to be fortified," declared Representative James P. Richards [D., S. C.]. "Otherwise we should leave it alone."

"Are we refusing to make this harbor usable because we are afraid of some Asiatic country?" responded Representative Millard F. Caldwell [D., Fla.]. "If so, how can we hold up our heads in the company of nations?"

Loses by Mere 9 Votes.

Defeated first on a voice vote, then on a standing vote, 111 to 91, the Guam project finally lost on the teller vote by a mere 9 vote margin. Administration leaders avoided a record vote on the proposal.

The only other attempt to reduce the total of the bill came from Representative Robert F. Rich [R., Pa.]. He offered an amendment preventing the expenditure of $1,500,000 for the laying down of the keel of one of the 45,000 ton battleships in the naval building program. It was defeated, 109 to 52.

The navy bill provides funds to start work on 19 combat ships, five auxiliary vessels, and 352 additional airplanes, as well as to continue work on 79 warships and 18 auxiliary vessels already under construction.

THAT'S HOW WE GOT MIXED UP IN THE LAST WAR

Skeptic's Suit Over Genesis Makes Exodus

New York, Feb. 16 (AP).—After listening to arguments for two days, a municipal court justice today dismissed a $1,000 action which made an issue of the Bible's scientific accuracy.

The first chapter of the book of Genesis was one of the principal points fought over by opposing lawyers in the suit brought by William Floyd, publisher of the magazine, The Arbitrator, against the Rev. Harry Rimmer, evangelist and defender of the Bible's scientific correctness.

Floyd alleged that Rimmer offered $1,000 to any one who could prove any scientific inaccuracies in the Bible, that he [Floyd] produced 51 biblical errors, and that Rimmer refused to pay him the reward. Justice Benjamin Halleck heard the case without a jury.

Witness Enlists Science.

The principal witness today was Wolsey Teller, vice president of the American Association for the Advancement of Atheism, who described himself as an editor, scientist, and writer on astronomy, anthropology, and biology.

He said scientists disagreed with the first chapter of Genesis—the story of creation.

"Science," he said, "does not recognize the words 'created' or 'made' because they involve a maker. The consensus of science is that the earth evolved by evolution."

Argues Earth Isn't Flat.

Teller testified, among other things, that the earth was 2,000 million years old and was round, not flat. He said "no one was there" when the earth was created, "but the theory is that two stars were close together and the larger star threw out a film which condensed into several planets and one of them is the earth." The stars, he added, "came from the nebulæ."

Man, testified Teller, began with the vertebrates and now "is an evolved ape."

These theories, Teller declared, did not conform to the story in the first chapter of Genesis nor to the biblical story that the earth was created in six days.

Denies Belief in Divine.

"Do you believe in God?" Teller was asked by James A. Bennett, attorney for Rimmer.

"No, sir," replied the witness.

"And all your testimony is given from the viewpoint of a man who doesn't believe in God?"

"From the viewpoint of science which has brought me to the viewpoint there is no God," snapped Teller. He asserted he did not "believe in heaven, or hell, or a future life, nor future punishment, for that matter."

"You get your punishment in court," he added.

Judge Halleck found a way to dismiss the suit without ruling on the scientific soundness of the Bible. He ruled the plaintiff had failed to show the defendant was the person who inserted the ad offering the $1,000 reward. The decision, however, deprived Rimmer of the privilege of presenting his evidence that the Scriptures are scientifically accurate.

BRITISH ORDERS GIVEN CLIPPER PASSENGERS; BAN SEALED LETTERS

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 16 (AP).—Passengers boarding a Europe bound Clipper, including a high United States army air official, were given copies of British censorship regulations today advising they would be subject to search in Bermuda.

The regulations warned that in addition to the mail load being subject to censorship, passengers would not be permitted to carry sealed letters, photographs, sketches, or documents on their persons and that regardless of nationality they would be subject to search.

Aboard the Clipper, which arrived at the island tonight, was Maj.-Gen. Delos C. Emmons, commanding officer of the army air corps' fighting squadrons, whose trip was unexplained. The first Negroes to make a transatlantic flight since passenger service started also were aboard, the wife and sister of a Negro attorney in London.

YOU DON'T LIKE SPINACH? WELL THEN, READ THIS

Redlands, Cal., Feb. 16 (AP).—Mother and dad can be wrong.

Dr. Roger Truesdale, nationally known food chemist, told a civic organization science has learned that the calcium properties of spinach are not available to the human system. Only 20 per cent of its iron is available.

"But this is not the worst of it," said Dr. Truesdale. "The oxilate radical in spinach precipitates the calcium from other foods and carries it away. After all, youngsters have been exactly right in their tearful resistance to the supposed builder of sturdy bodies."

Heir to Danish Throne Born to Wife of "Sailor Prince"

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Feb. 17, Saturday.—The line of succession to the Danish throne was secured this morning when Princess Caroline Mathilde, wife of Prince Knud, known as "the sailor prince," second son of King Christian, gave birth to a 7½ pound boy. He is the only male heir in the royal family.

Boy, 7, Shoots Gun in Store; Father Is Slain

Frank Miller, a shipping clerk, his wife, Mary, 26, and their two boys, Frank III., 7, and Bobbie, 2, left their home at 2738 Lake street after dinner last night and headed for the hardware store at 2761 Lake street. The store is owned by Miller's friends, John and Michael Capasso, brothers.

The Capassos weren't in the store when the Millers arrived. Mr. Miller paid a bill to the clerk, William Jones, then stopped to help Salvatore Nuzzo, 13, work out an arithmetic problem. Mrs. Miller sat in a chair with Bobbie.

Young Frank Goes Exploring.

His brother, Frank, a pupil in the second grade at the Beidler school, Kedzie avenue and Walnut street, was rummaging around in the store.

He went from counter to counter, inspecting the shiny hardware. Finally he came to the rear counter, near where his dad was helping young Nuzzo with his school work. It was a dull looking counter with nothing on top.

Frank reached underneath, into a bin full of nails. His hand touched a shiny nickel plated revolver. Frank had never seen a real gun before.

Tries Pulling the Trigger.

He examined it, held it aloft, lowered it, then raised it again. He put a finger on the trigger and pulled.

There was a loud report. The boy's father fell.

Later, over in the Warren avenue station, the boy sat on his mother's lap and cried: "I just picked it up and put my finger in the place to shoot it."

Police didn't try to make him understand that his father was dead—killed almost instantly by a bullet thru the back.

G. O. P. SELECTS PHILADELPHIA FOR CONVENTION

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—The Republican national committee today called the 1940 Republican national convention to meet at Philadelphia June 24. Chairman John Hamilton challenged the Democrats to nominate President Roosevelt for a third term.

Mayor R. E. Lamberton of Philadelphia.

Philadelphia got the convention by outbidding Chicago with an offer of $200,000 cash in addition to the convention hall and all concessions free of charge. Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago offered to pay the expenses of the convention, which he estimated would not exceed $135,000, but declined to offer a cash bonus to the committee. Philadelphia's money won easily, the vote being 67 for Philadelphia, 30 for Chicago, and 2 for Fargo, N. D.

Democrats Meet Here.

The Democratic national convention will meet in Chicago after the Republican convention adjourns. Chicago last week landed the Democratic convention by matching Philadelphia's cash bid of $125,000 plus convention hall rent, which represented a total of $150,000.

However, to obtain the advantage of shaping their platform and nominating their ticket after the Republicans shall have acted, the Democrats delegated to National Chairman James A. Farley authority to fix the time of their meeting.

President Roosevelt and the third term boosters have been advocating a Democratic convention held as late as September. Delay would allow further time for war developments that could be used as arguments for keeping the President in office and in a short campaign no Democratic candidate but Mr. Roosevelt would be able to get his case before the country.

Chicago Presents Invitation.

Mr. Farley, who is opposed to a third term, is in favor of holding the Democratic convention shortly after the Republican, in accord with custom. In Miami, Fla., today Mr. Farley said he would announce his selection within the next few days.

Hill Blackett, national committeeman for Illinois, introduced to the Republican committee the speakers who presented the convention bid for Chicago. William J. Kelley and William J. Hennessy of the Chicago Association of Commerce detailed Chicago's advantages. Mayor Kelly extended a warm invitation.

"We are willing to pay any reasonable costs," he said, "but we are not here to bid against any city. If Philadelphia wants to bid high it's all right with us. We have found that campaign contributions by corporations are illegal."

Mrs. Baur Boosts for Chicago.

Mrs. Bertha D. Baur, Illinois committeewoman, arguing that Pennsylvania already has been reclaimed by the Republicans, urged selection of Chicago to aid the reclamation of Illinois from the Democrats.

Mayor Robert E. Lamberton of Philadelphia wound up the case for that city by offering the convention hall, all expenses, all concessions, and $200,000 in cash. He waved aloft two certified checks for 80 per cent of the amount.

William Stern, North Dakota committeeman, had the committee in gales of laughter with his bid for Fargo, which, he said, has 22 hotels, all protected by the police, and 53 miles of pavements. He offered the committee a blank and unsigned check.

Kelly Offers Expenses Only.

Committeeman R. B. Creager of Texas endeavored to pin Mayor Kelly down on the expenses Chicago would pay. He said the expenses run all the way from $125,000 to $175,000. The mayor refused to take the bait. He said Chicago got the Democratic convention with a $125,000 bid, plus convention hall rent. He added that the Republican convention of 1932 cost $117,000 and that at Cleveland in 1936 it cost $127,000. He reiterated that Chicago would pay only the expenses.

Then the stampede to Philadelphia began. Ralph Williams of Oregon was named arrangements committee chairman and Mrs. Baur as the Illinois member.

Chairman Hamilton, in opening the committee meeting, assailed the New Deal as a colossal failure and predicted President Roosevelt's defeat if he is renominated.

DEWEY CHARGES WASTE IN YEAR OF 107 MILLIONS

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cheyenne, Wyo., Feb. 16.—Propaganda mills of the New Deal are as extensive as those of the totalitarian nations of Europe, Thomas E. Dewey said in a speech here tonight at a dinner and Republican roundup arranged by State Republican Chairman James Griffith.

In all departments at Washington, D. C., the New York candidate for the Republican presidential nomination declared, burocrats are grinding out propaganda in mass production. The United States mails, for example, he said, are carrying four times as much franked matter as before the New Deal years.

Huge Rise Shown.

In 1932, last Republican year, free mailing by the government would have cost $9,100,000 in postage. In 1938 this figure rose to $35,700,000. Dewey said postage is less than one-third of the actual cost of getting out the propaganda. Therefore it would mean the New Deal spent $107,000,000 on its mailed propaganda in 1938.

"There has been considerable serious concern in this country in recent years over the trend toward centralization of power in the national government," said the famous New York prosecutor. "The administration has steadily spread the idea that government should control labor, capital, and agriculture. It has taught our people to look to Washington, D. C., for a living. It has sought to substitute political cure-alls for individual strength. Moreover, the steadily increasing mountain of debt will shackle our people for a generation to come.

"There are many who believe all these factors constitute a dangerous trend toward totalitarianism. This is a very important matter to all of us. You and I want our children to grow up in the same kind of a free country we have enjoyed in the past.

Paid Propagandists Hidden.

"Now nobody can find out by examining the present budget just how many full-time paid propagandists are on the pay roll. These are tucked away by the hundred as secretaries, assistant directors, and assistant administrators of this agency and that. No man can tell whether there are 500 or 5,000 publicity men on the pay roll. Nobody can find out how much you are paying in taxes to support this propaganda machine.

"But there was one spot where the smallest item of all in the cost of propaganda is shown in a government report. That little item is postage.

"The cost of postage will usually run from a quarter to a third of any mail advertising campaign. The rest is the advertising agency expense, the copy writers' salaries, cost of printing, and cost of paper. Let us assume, then, that propaganda postage runs as much as a third of the total cost. The postoffice department figures are where the leak on the cost of propaganda comes. Leaving out the postoffice department itself and the congress, the free mailing by the government in the last Republican year, 1932, was $9,100,000 in postage.

How the Figures Rose.

"In 1933, the first year of the New Deal, this postage cost jumped from $9,100,000 to $14,300,000. The next year it jumped to $23,000,000. The last figure we have is for 1938, when the cost of propaganda postage was $35,700,000, four times as great as in 1932.

"If postage is a third of the total cost of New Deal propaganda, $35,700,000 for postage means the New Deal spent $107,100,000 on propaganda alone in the year 1938. That is a brazen misuse of the people's money to keep a party in power. It is one sample of the type of abuse of power which must be brought to an end in 1940. It is another illustration of what a good housecleaning will do toward balancing the budget of the United States. That housecleaning is long overdue.

"In Wyoming the total cost of your state government under your new Republican governor [Nels Smith] is only 6½ million dollars a year, compared with $107,100,000 spent by the New Deal for propaganda alone. That figure of $107,100,000 is more than the total budget of any one of 41 out of our 48 states."

Word that the Republican national convention will be held June 24 was received on the Dewey train with manifestations of pleasure. Dewey himself did not comment, but others recalled that the Dewey camp has been urging an early date, some time in June instead of in a later month.

His Expressed Advice.

On this trip to the Pacific northwest, whenever politicians brought up the question of the best date, Dewey counseled them to urge national committeemen to date the meeting for about the third week in June instead of delaying in the hope that the Democrats might nominate first.

One theory advanced for weeks by Dewey enthusiasts has been that Dewey would be the strongest candidate at the convention if the Republicans nominated before knowing whether the Democrats would name the President for a third term. Other factors, such as time needed for the campaign, were part of the argument.

Dewey Assails Propaganda Costs

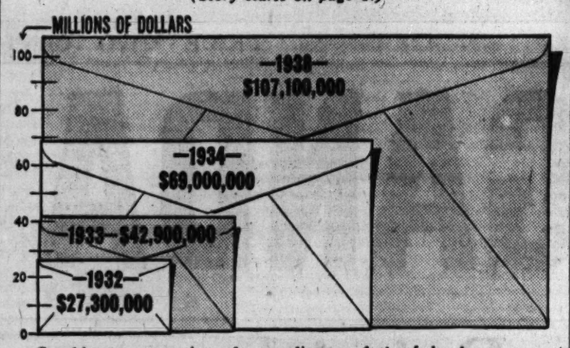

Graphic representation of expenditures of the federal government for propaganda purposes in 1932, the last year of the Hoover administration, and in three years of the Roosevelt administration, as estimated by Thomas E. Dewey, candidate for Republican nomination for President. Mr. Dewey obtained postoffice department figures on the cost of transmitting government printed matter, as shown in the graph below, and estimated that the total cost, including salaries of writers, paper and printing, at three times the bill for postage.

JOHN GUTKNECHT TO ENTER RACE FOR PROSECUTOR

Attorney Raymond F. Hayes announced yesterday that Municipal Judge John Gutknecht, who is in California, has consented to run for the Democratic nomination for state's attorney. Hayes is chairman of a committee sponsoring a drafting movement.

"Judge Gutknecht has given his consent," said Hayes. "When he arrives in Chicago on the Chief next Monday, we'll have a big delegation at the Polk street station to meet him. We may have a band. We'll present him with a complete petition for his nomination and will escort him to the county building, where he will file it."

Monday is the last day for filing petitions of candidates for local office with County Clerk Michael J. Flynn and for filing state candidates' petitions with Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes at Springfield.

Roosevelt Agent Ousted by Ickes Gets New Job

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16 (AP).—Charles West, former White House emissary to congress, who has been out of federal office since Secretary Harold L. Ickes closed his office in the interior department two years ago, landed a job at the treasury today. West was appointed a member of the processing tax board of review at a $7,500 a year salary. A former Ohio congressman, West became President Roosevelt's contact man on Capitol Hill while still a member of the house. The board's job is to judge appeals made by millers, packers, and other processors of agricultural products from rulings of the commissioner of internal revenue on their requests for refunds on processing taxes paid under the invalidated AAA act.

Ralph Corrigan, 35 years old, was recovering last night in county hospital from the effect of a dozen sleeping tablets. He was found unconscious in Union station early in the day, and a suicide note was found in the station bar. He gave his address as 172 East Superior street.

WISCONSIN TEST LIKELY TO TELL 3D TERM STORY

Might Be First Real Battle Ground.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 16 (AP).—Wisconsin's political testing ground, which was fertile soil for President Roosevelt in 1932 and 1936, may provide the first direct answer to what the electors are thinking about a third term. The Badger state rates 24 delegates to the Democratic National convention but 48 candidates—divided into two groups—are scrapping for a chance to go to Chicago to cast their votes for re-nomination of the President.

Primary April 2.

The Wisconsin presidential primary, to be held April 2, is potentially the first affording the opportunity for a clear-cut decision between Mr. Roosevelt and Vice President John Garner.

The Garner movement, backed by some influential Democrats, is being conducted with the Vice President's consent. The two-way drive to draft Mr. Roosevelt is being staged by rival Democratic groups in this land of the La Follettes without the President's sanction, so far as has been officially revealed. His acceptance, under Wisconsin law, is not necessary.

There may be another election slate pledged to Paul V. McNutt on an assumption that the President would not accept a third term.

An Erratic History.

Wisconsin generally has been known as a state accustomed to occasional political upheavals.

In 1932 the election returns showed: Roosevelt, 707,410; Hoover, 347,741. In 1936 the result was: Roosevelt, 802,984; Landon, 380,828.

During this span a Democratic governor was elected and then unseated by Philip F. La Follette, who unfurled the banner of the new Progressive party. A Republican, Gov. Julius P. Heil, now presides in the capitol.

United States Senator Robert M. La Follette Jr., who will come up for reëlection next November, and his brother, Philip, have remained unusually quiet about presidential prospects.

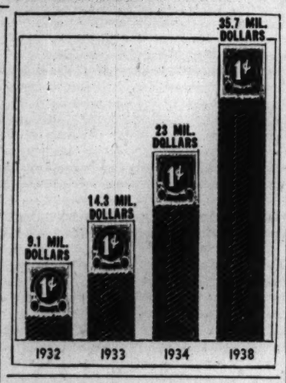
State Politics Involved.

The "draft Roosevelt" drive has been intermingled with state politics.

One group of Democrats, dissatisfied with state party leaders, formed "the Democratic Party Organization of Wisconsin" and put up a slate of delegate candidates pledged to nominate the President or any one he selected.

National Committeeman Charles E. Broughton then called a conference which offered an "official" slate of Roosevelt-pledged candidates.

State Chairman William D. Carroll, meanwhile, expressed opposition to a third term.



START PETITIONS TO PUT DEWEY IN NEBRASKA RACE

New York, Feb. 16 [Special].—Petitions to enter District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York in the Nebraska Republican presidential preference primary on April 9, have been put in circulation in that state, it was learned here today.

Circulation of the petitions was said to be a precautionary measure to have them ready for filing by March 1. No definite decision to enter Dewey has yet been made and none is expected until after his return here Monday from his western campaign trip.

Nebraska is one of the states in which supporters of Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan expect to elect delegates favorable to his candidacy. They have declared they will enter Senator Vandenberg in Nebraska if Dewey is entered. Both have been entered for the Wisconsin primary April 2.

24TH WARD VOTE BOARD GIVES UP IN FRAUD CASE

The defendants are Mrs. Mildred Gotheif, 1224 South Avers avenue, Democratic judge; Joseph Cohen, 1335 South Springfield avenue, and George J. Schoenberg, 1333 South Springfield avenue, Republican judges; David Cohen, 3845 Roosevelt road, Democratic clerk, and Daniel Steinberg, 1229 South Springfield avenue, Republican clerk.

NO THIRD TERM BREATHING SPELL URGED BY LYONS

Predicts Trade Recovery if Roosevelt Quits.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Richard J. Lyons, Republican candidate for governor, urged last night that President Roosevelt return to his old thought that American business occasionally needs a breathing spell. He proposed that it be a breathing spell for the American people as a whole and that it cover the next four years.

"He can do it merely by a decision that he will not seek a third term," Lyons told an overflow crowd at the Jubilee temple at 114 East 59th street in the 5th ward.

Warns of Foreign Pacts.

At the same meeting Wayland Brooks, candidate for United States senator, warned his audience that secret negotiations with warring European nations in which the New Deal is involved are a repetition of the moves that carried the United States into the world war.

"If the President announces he'll not seek a third term," said Lyons, "we'll really be on our way. Business will be resumed on a large scale, private capital will supplant public spending, factories will hum, and the unemployed will go back to work.

"Once the shackles of New Dealism are removed we shall begin a period of prosperity unparalleled in our history.

"All we need is assurance of no further interference by government. To create jobs for the unemployed business must be encouraged and not discouraged. Capital must feel secure if it is to be invested in the ordinary legal channels to start the wheels of industry moving. Neither American industry nor American labor can afford four more years of Roosevelt."

Balance of Power Needed.

Brooks said that the two things that destroy human liberty are war and the despotic control of dictators. Then he continued:

"With dictators stamping out human liberties in several of the great countries of the world, with other nations such as England suspending all elections until after the war, and with France operating under wartime dictatorial powers, the American people must realize that if we are to remain at peace and preserve our liberties we must have a strong revitalized Republican party in 1940. This will bring a balance of power in our government.

"Every citizen who wishes to do something to preserve our form of government and our peace with the world should welcome the visit of Republican workers to his home this year and should volunteer to assist them."

Meet to Burn Mortgage, but Flames Raze Church

Columbus, Ind., Feb. 16 [Special].—Members of the Bethel Baptist church at Waterloo, four miles south of here, were scheduled to meet last night to celebrate the burning of the church mortgage. But fire starting in the basement razed the structure as the gathering congregation stood by powerless to act.

Charges Assault

LILLIAN ROTH.

New York, Feb. 16 (AP).—Screen Actress Lillian Roth's charge that a husky 6-footer fractured her jaw with a punch at a cocktail party added another line today to café society's fisticuff history.

The comedienne, who can take sparring on the movie lot when it's called for in the script, said she was definitly opposed to prize fight tactics at parties.

The man, Eugene Weiner, 38, a securities salesman, denied in the police lineup that he smote her at the cocktail party in her hotel apartment Jan. 22. He was arrested last night on a felonious assault charge.

EX-ALD. MULCAHY GETS LEGAL POST AT $10,000 A YEAR

Michael F. Mulcahy, president of the board of local improvements, was appointed assistant corporation counsel yesterday by Corporation Counsel Harnet Hodes. In his new position Mulcahy will receive $10,000 a year. He will be assigned as attorney for Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works.

Mulcahy was alderman of the 8th ward for four years. He was defeated for reëlection last spring by Roy E. Olin, a Republican. As alderman he received a salary of $5,000 a year. Last fall he was appointed president of the board of local improvements at a $6,000 annual salary but this was taken from him Feb. 1 when the board trustees were made "dollar a year" men by the city council. The reduction in board salaries followed a reorganization of the board of local improvements under the 1940 city budget.

A. L. Cronin, 7019 Indinaa avenue, also was appointed an assistant corporation counsel at a salary of $3,000 a year.

CALIFORNIA GETS GARNER'S ASSENT TO PRIMARY RACE

Tells Backers They Can Enter His Name.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16 (AP).—Vice President Garner announced today that he would enter the Democratic primary in California, seeking to duplicate his 1932 feat of winning the California delegation's support for the Democratic presidential nomination.

In a telegram to Garner-for-President club leaders, the Vice President said their action in entering his name in the May 7 preferential primary in California had his approval.

The telegram was addressed to Zach Lamar Cobb of Los Angeles and William H. Wallace Jr. of San Francisco. They previously had written Garner that it was "the prevailing belief that California will be yours by an even greater majority" than in 1932 when the state's delegates were instructed for Garner for President.

Garner's Acknowledgement.

"I am pleased to acknowledge your telegram of today advising that my friends in California, acting thru the California Garner-for-President organization, propose to enter my name as a candidate in the May presidential primary election," Garner telegraphed Cobb and Wallace.

"This has my full approval since it is in conformity with my public announcement a few weeks ago in which I expressed the opinion that the Democratic candidate should be selected at the primaries and conventions. I recall with deep appreciation that I was the choice of California Democrats in a similar primary election in 1932 and I am, of course, grateful for their continued confidence in me."

Threw Strength to Roosevelt.

Cobb and Wallace said in their letter that the Garner committee in California already was obtaining expressions from Democratic party members as to their preference for Garner delegates.

The entry of the Vice President in the California race recalled the incident of the 1932 Democratic national convention when Garner and former Senator W. G. McAdoo of California threw the support of the California and Texas delegations, totaling 90 votes, to President Roosevelt and assured his nomination. Texas has 46 votes and California 44 in the convention.

Mrs. Clara Driscoll, Democratic national committeewoman for Texas and co-chairman of the national Garner-for-President committee, visited the Vice President today.

"I am firmly convinced that Mr. Garner will be the Democratic nominee and our next President," she said after talking with the Vice President.

Roosevelt in Penn Primary.

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 16 (AP).—The name of President Roosevelt will be entered in the Pennsylvania presidential preferential primary April 23, Democratic State Chairman David L. Lawrence announced today. The state committee endorsed the President for a third term at its meeting early this month. Lawrence said nomination petitions for Roosevelt are being prepared for circulation.

BILL TO ASSURE FREE SPEECH ON RADIO PROPOSED

House Measure Aimed at Autocratic Control.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—Representative J. William Ditter [R., Pa.] today introduced in the house a bill designed to preserve and protect freedom of speech over the radio.

The bill consists of a series of amendments to the communications act of 1934, calculated to protect broadcasting from any encroachment against liberty of expression and to afford general freedom from censorship by lifting the autocratic control of the President and the Federal Communications commission over the nation's air waves.

"It is unnecessary that I point out how vitally important it is that the public be afforded this protection," said Representative Ditter in behalf of his bill. "Broadcasting rivals the press as an agency of mass communication. Freedom of expression is the corner stone of representative government. Censorship of radio is a characteristic of autocracy and totalitarianism.

Dispute's Law's Intent.

"Contrary to the clearly expressed intent of congress, the Federal Communications commission is claiming the power to censor radio programs. It appears to have found a gap in the present law in the phraseology 'public interest, convenience, or necessity,' which, together with the device of short term licenses and a procedure built on applications for renewal of license, enables it to force broadcasters to comply with its own conception of what programs should or should not be.

"The law also gives altogether too much power to the President to reach the same result. He may put a station out of existence or severely cripple it by simply assigning its frequency to a government station without any statement of reasons or hearing.

"Also, he may do about anything he chooses with a station, even including taking it over and letting a government department operate it, by simply declaring that there exists a 'national emergency or in order to preserve the neutrality of the United States.'"

What Amendments Provide.

The Ditter amendments would:

1. Limit the power of the President to assign a frequency used by a private station to a government station by requiring that the private station be given a frequency as desirable as that taken from it.
2. Prescribe a minimum license period of three years and a maximum license of five years. The present maximum is three years, but in operation the commission has required license renewals at periods of six months and is now requiring renewal every year.
3. Remove an existing ambiguity in the law under which the commission is claiming the right to take adverse action against stations without affording their owners a hearing.
4. Provide that all hearings be held before, not after license revocations.
5. Prevent the commission from taking any punitive action against a station on the ground that its programs do not meet the commission's ideas of what constitutes "public interest, convenience, or necessity."
6. Limit the power of the President to take over stations to cases of imperative military need in actual war or a state of insurrection.

PRESIDENT SAILS INTO WARM AIR AND ROUGH SEAS

ABOARD U. S. S. LANG, AT SEA, Feb. 16 (AP) [Via Wireless].—Bearing President Roosevelt to a still undisclosed destination, the cruiser Tuscaloosa pushed into rough seas tonight after encountering warm weather in an uneventful daylight voyage.

Brig. Gen. Edwin M. Watson, presidential secretary and military aide, tonight advised those aboard this escort destroyer that the President spent a quiet day and had nothing of public interest to report.

Details of the cruise remained such a well guarded secret that officers and crew of the ship joined the speculation on the President's itinerary. Not even the course or speed were disclosed.

U. OF I. BOTANIST PICKS NEW NAME FOR GIANT TREES

Champaign, Ill., Feb. 16 (AP).—California's famous big trees were given a new and longer name today by a University of Illinois botanist to clarify their family lines.

J. T. Buchholz, head of the university botany department, made a close study of sequoia gigantia, largest of the American trees, and its relative, the coast redwood sequoia sempervirens, and found the two trees are so different they should not be included in the same genus of plants.

The new name he devised for sequoia gigantia is sequoiadendron giganteum. He added "dendron," the Greek word for the tree, to the Indian word "sequoia."

British to Renew Atlantic Air Mail Service in June

G. O. P. GUNS OPEN UP ON ROOSEVELT TARIFF TREATIES

Stage Is Set in House for Battle Over Extension.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—A vigorous Republican condemnation of the Roosevelt administration's reciprocal trade treaty program today set the stage for a heated battle in the house next week on a resolution continuing the program for an additional three years.

The President's authority to enter into binding foreign trade treaties without senate ratification and to reduce tariff duties without congressional approval expires June 12. This authority was first delegated in 1934 for three years and extended for a similar period in 1937. The President and secretary of state have asked for the third extension.

Program Called Failure.

The trade treaty program has failed in all the objectives which caused the Democratic administration to advance it six years ago, according to a minority report filed by 10 Republican members of the house ways and means committee. The democratic majority of the committee approved the program in a report two days ago.

"The program has not been successful in accomplishing its primary purpose of expanding the foreign markets for the products of the United States or its unstated but officially declared secondary purpose of promoting world peace," the minority report said.

"It has not been administered in the national interest. It should not be extended in its present form, and as now being administered, particularly in the face of present and prospective world conditions."

Analysis Also Presented.

The report presented an exhaustive analysis of the program to support these conclusions.

The American farmer was assured, the report declared, that he was to be the chief beneficiary of the program, but agricultural exports have declined more than $104,000,000 since the treaty program has been in effect. Imports of competitive farm products, on the other hand, have increased by $68,000,000 in the same period, said the report.

"The act has wholly failed to achieve its unexpressed but officially declared secondary objective of contributing to world peace," the report continued. "While, of course, in no way attributable to the trade treaty program, wars and aggressions have been constantly on the increase during the whole period it has been in effect."

Administration Is Criticized.

The program has not been administered on a truly reciprocal basis, the Republicans charged.

"The concessions which this country has made under individual treaties have been extended gratuitously to the whole world [save Germany alone] without requiring the extension of equivalent concessions to us," the report said. "This has been done in disregard to the known fact that practically every country which is given the benefit of our lowered rates actively and openly discriminates against American commerce.

"The act places in the hands of the individual the absolute power of life and death over every branch of domestic agriculture and industry dependent upon tariff protection which, as Secretary of State Hull once said, is 'Too much power for a bad man to have or for a good man to want.'

The program should be permitted to lapse, the report recommended, but a study should be made to determine the best method of dealing with reciprocity and tariff questions.

"Tax Exemption"

Francis D. McCall, 37 years old, an internal revenue agent who lives at 4900 Blackstone avenue, took out a marriage license at the county building yesterday. He and Miss Marie I. Mitchell, 31, of 1100 North Dearborn parkway, will be married next Wednesday. "It was love at first sight—and a pretty nice additional $1,500 income tax exemption, don't you think?" said McCall, who deals professionally with income tax matters.

FUN AT A PARTY! BACHELOR 'SOLD' TO LADY GUESTS

Mr. Nathaniel H. Blatchford III. looked unhappy last night. His handsome face was a deep crimson as he listened to Dr. Theodore Walsh speaking at the annual dinner dance of the Chicago Rugby club in the Knickerbocker hotel. Dr. Walsh, coach of the team, was saying:

"For the evening's entertainment we will now auction off one of our most eligible bachelors to the highest bidder. You all know Nat's prowess on the rugby field. What am I offered for this amazing prize? Ladies, make your bid."

An ash blonde screamed "25." A brunette offered "50." From another came "75." One young woman, jumping to her feet, said she would like Mr. Blatchford, who lives at 63 East Division street, for a dollar.

"Madam," said Dr. Walsh, "'you've been bidding in dollars."

And then in no time at all the bidding went up, amidst the clink of glasses and the tinkle of brittle laughter until Miss Lorraine Roach of 199 Ravine drive, Highland Park, closed the bidding. "I," said Miss Roach, "will bid $1,000." Going—going—gone. "Sold to Miss Roach."

And everybody laughed, because every one was having a good time, and who cared? No money changed hands. It was just fun.

CITY'S BUILDINGS WRECKED IN NEW DEAL DEPRESSION

More Structures Torn Down than Erected.

BY AL CHASE.

For seven years—the duration of the New Deal depression — more buildings, both business and residential, have been torn down in Chicago than have been erected. Since 1933 laborers with pickaxes rather than the wielders of the trowel, hammer, and saw have got the money. Along with the Roosevelt hard times, ever mounting taxes and obsolescence have been contributing factors.

Millions of dollars worth of buildings in downtown Chicago have disappeared at the hands of the wrecking crews and thousands of residential units, both single family dwellings and flat buildings, have been torn down.

Loop Towers Cut Down.

Towering loop structures, once world famous and supposedly good for many more years, have been razed. One and two story "taxpayers" or open air parking lots have taken their places.

The Capitol building [originally known as the Masonic temple] at State and Randolph streets is probably the most conspicuous victim of New Deal depression demolition. It was built in 1890, and for many years was internationally famous for being the world's tallest office building. It has been replaced with a two story "taxpayer."

Recently the Marshall Field estate announced that it would tear down the famous old Great Northern hotel —at one time the central west's leading hostelry. It was built in 1891. A one story "taxpayer" is to be erected on the site at the northeast corner of Jackson boulevard and Dearborn street.

In the next block north on Dearborn street, between Adams and Quincy streets, the Cyrus Hall McCormick estate has decided to raze both the Bedford building, built in 1890, and the Temple Court building, built in 1885. It has not been determined whether to build a taxpayer or use the ground as a parking lot.

Medinah Building Razed.

The Medinah building, at Jackson boulevard and Wells street, was built in 1893 and for years was one of the show structures of downtown Chicago. It was demolished in 1934 while it was enjoying its structural middle age.

The Guardian Bank building built in 1880 at the southeast corner of Dearborn and Monroe streets, went to the wreckers in 1934 also. A two story "taxpayer" has replaced it. The 11 story Adams Express building, built in 1884 and adjoining it on the south, was razed at the same time.

The Atlas block, built shortly after the great Chicago fire at the northwest corner of Randolph street and Wabash avenue, is the latest old time office building to be doomed. It will be wrecked on May 1 and will be replaced with a "taxpayer."

Other Downtown Buildings.

Other buildings in the downtown area which have been wrecked since 1933 are:

Illinois theater building, 63 East Jackson boulevard, built in 1900 and then considered America's finest playhouse. The site is now used for parking.

The Central Trust Company of Illinois building, 125 West Monroe street, built in 1900, and an outstanding bank building for many years.

Union bank building, 25 North Dearborn street, built in 1880 and supplanted by "taxpayer" in 1934.

Labrador building, 59 East Adams street, demolished in 1937 and replaced by "taxpayer."

The Herald building, 163 West Washington street, torn down in 1936 and space used as parking lot.

Portland block, southeast corner of Dearborn and Washington streets, replaced in 1934 with a two story "taxpayer."

Ceylon building, northwest corner of Lake street and Wabash avenue.

Wexford building, northeast corner of Wabash avenue and Van Buren street, replaced with one story "taxpayer."

Cort Theater building, 132 North Dearborn street, razed in 1934 and space used for parking.

Commercial building, northwest corner of Lake and Dearborn streets, torn down and space used for parking.

Replaced by "Taxpayer."

Await Divorce Suit Decision

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Mrs. James Roosevelt, who was sued for divorce Thursday by the eldest son of the President, with her small daughters in New York yesterday. The children are Kate (left), 4 years old, and Sara Delano, 7. Mrs. Roosevelt, who was charged with desertion, said she would file a countersuit.

Husband Silent

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 16 [Special].—James Roosevelt, eldest son of the President, remained in Hollywood tonight, but was not available for comment on the divorce suit he filed yesterday against the former Betsey Cushing. Young Roosevelt has postponed until Monday a business trip to Chicago. He is to deliver a Washington's birthday address in Philadelphia next Thursday.

Cruiser Wichita Fights Engine Trouble at Sea

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 16 (AP).—One of the navy's newest cruisers, the Wichita, was having engine trouble in the Caribbean sea tonight and was proceeding slowly under auxiliary power, it was learned at the office of Rear Admiral Manley H. Simons, commandant of the navy yard. Admiral Simons was advised that the cruiser's main engines were not functioning. The position of the ship was not divulged. It was believed that the Wichita would proceed to this port.

CLARK BLAMES BUILDING BLIGHT ON POOR ZONING

Finds Vast Areas of City Going Backward.

County Assessor John S. Clark gave graphic evidence yesterday supporting the contention made by him and many real estate leaders that property in Chicago should be rezoned to halt the growth of slum areas and to stimulate home building. Clark said that numerous zoning absurdities were uncovered by the recent quadrennial assessment.

The last comprehensive zoning ordinance was passed by the city council in 1922. At that time, Clark said, property in Chicago was zoned on the basis of fictitious hopes of land owners and wishful thinking by speculators.

For example, an area of 34 square miles, covering 16 per cent of the city [as defined in a back page map], is zoned for skyscraper apartment buildings that would accommodate 42,172,412 persons or nearly one-third of the population of the United States. Much of this area, Clark said, is close to the lake front and is choice property for single family homes and small apartment buildings.

1,000 Years to Fill Area.

In the 34 mile area only 1,030 apartments and hotels more than six stories high have been built, altho under the zoning code 29,000 such buildings could be constructed. Clark said that at the rate of building in the last 30 years it would take 1,000 years to build these air castles. The area includes three miles of frontage on West Madison street.

As another instance of impractical zoning, Clark cited an area on the north side that contains 29¼ miles of street frontage, all zoned for 16 story apartment buildings. This frontage, the assessor said, would take care of 1,500 such buildings, but only 71 have been constructed. The area is bounded by Foster avenue on the north and Irving Park boulevard on the south, and extends from Glenwood avenue to the lake front.

"This instance is representative," Clark said. "Our studies show that only 2 per cent of the properties in this territory have been used to the extent permitted by the zoning ordinance.

Cites Many Evils.

"Such unrealistic zoning has many evils. It is causing deterioration of homes to creep steadily into neighborhoods that are still potentially fine residential areas. It is stagnating the real estate market in Chicago. It is driving home building and real estate activity into the suburbs.

"These things are resulting because home owners in the 'overzoned' areas have hopes, mostly false, that their property some day will be bought as a site for a skyscraper. This gives them a wholly inflated idea of the value of their land, so there is little buying and selling of properties.

"At the same time home owners hesitate to spend money to fix up their homes or to build new houses because they are not protected against the construction of a big apartment building next door to them. For the same reason few buyers want to purchase lots and build homes on them.

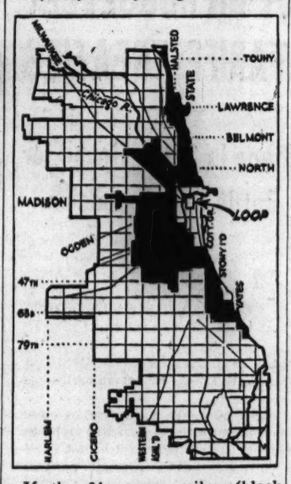
Builders Need Protection.

Clark asserted that home building cannot be revived in Chicago on a large scale until home owners are protected by a revised zoning code. He said the results of protective and realistic zoning are apparent in the suburbs. In Evanston and Oak Park, for example, he said, home owners are protected by zoning and the result is that residential neighborhoods are kept up and new homes are built.

A special meeting of the Cook county board will be held soon to discuss zoning regulations in unincorporated areas of the county, Clayton F. Smith, president, said yesterday.

Space for 42 Million

(Story in adjoining column.)



If the 34 square miles (black area) in Chicago that are zoned for 16 story apartment buildings were fully built up with such structures they would be sufficient to house nearly one-third of the population of the United States, according to Assessor John S. Clark.

Rules a Deserted Husband Needn't Pay Wife's Bills

Fond du Lac, Wis., Feb. 16 [Special].—Holding that a husband is not bound by law to support his wife when she wilfully lives apart from him, Circuit Judge C. F. Van Pelt today rejected the $900 claim of the South Weymouth Laundry of South Weymouth, Mass., against Francis H. Boyle, member of a wealthy Fond du Lac family. The Massachusetts company filed the claim for laundry and cleaning services rendered to Boyle's former wife in 1935 and 1936.

EXTRADITE BIOFF TODAY, REPORT IN SAN FRANCISCO

Olson Expected to Give Him to Chicago.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 16 [Special].—Gov. Culbert L. Olson tomorrow will grant the request of Illinois that William Bioff, Hollywood theatrical union official, be extradited to complete an 18 year old Chicago pandering sentence. He was sentenced to six months in jail and fined $300.

This was authoritatively stated here tonight by persons close to the California chief executive. They said the governor had decided to grant the extradition request now instead of holding it up pending Bioff's trial in California on a federal income tax evasion charge.

Insist Bioff Is Not Guilty.

Representatives of Bioff and the American Federation of Labor appeared at a hearing Tuesday before the governor and protested extradition. They denied that Bioff, representative of George Browne, president of the International Alliance of Thetrical Stage Employés and Motion Picture Operators, is guilty of the crime or a fugitive from justice.

The fight against extradition also centered on claims Bioff was needed in Los Angeles to represent 30,000 union members in negotiations with motion picture producers. These negotiations were in deadlock tonight when sessions were concluded for the week.

Bridges Favors Extradition.

Back of the governor's expected decision tomorrow was said to stand C. I. O. pressure in favor of extradition, including urgings of Harry Bridges, alien California C. I. O. director, and water front union leaders associated with him.

Deputy Attorney General Howard Zangerle declared that altho pandering is a misdemeanor it is extraditable under California law and that delay in enforcement of judgment is no excuse.

Navy's Program

The drawings below represent the American naval vessels now in service and those under construction or authorized. The comparison is made solely on the basis of number of ships in each class, without regard to tonnage or to the relative strengths of the various classes. The building program covers a period of five to seven years.

LANE HIGH PUPIL, 16, IS SEIZED AS TOY GUN ROBBER

A Lane High school pupil was seized last night by Shakespeare avenue police as a toy gun robber. He is William Rudzena, 16 years old, of 2638 North Maplewood avenue. According to Policemen Steve Frankowski and Lawrence Schupolsky, Rudzena held up Maynard Hammell, 4278 Hazel avenue, at Diversey and Milwaukee avenues on Feb. 7 and took his car, using a toy gun which he later tossed away. Rudzena, police said, used the car for joyriding and let his friends use it also. Six of the youth's friends were seized for questioning.

7 SUPERHIGHWAY PLANS RUN INTO ALDERMANIC IRE

South Side Protests Halt Subcommittee Action.

Detailed recommendations for seven Chicago superhighways calling for a $214,000,000 expenditure, were presented yesterday to a city council joint subcommittee by Philip Harrington, commissioner of subways and superhighways.

The plans ran into trouble immediately, and so vehement were the protests of Ald. James J. McDermott [14th] that the committee postponed action. If McDermott's objections and those of other south side aldermen can be met on Monday when the committee meets again there still will remain the criticism of the Chicago Motor club. Charles M. Hayes, president of the club, said last night he had asked George Barton, the club's engineer, to seek permission to address the committee.

Favor Only 3 Routes Now.

Barton, Hayes said, would recommend that the council consider only three superhighways as a primary program and would criticize plans thus far developed for these three. The four other highways can wait, the club believes.

"What Chicago needs," Hayes continued, "in the order of necessity, are west, northwest, and south side superhighways."

"The new recommendations contemplate not only these, but also north, southwest, and southeast highways, as well as a cross-town route. According to the engineers' estimates, the west route would cost 44 millions of dollars, the northwest 40 millions, and the south side 40 millions. That totals 124 millions, and even that is more than Chicago can stand by retiring the obligation thru the city's and county's share of the 3 cent gasoline tax.

"To consider a program totaling 214 millions would, it seems to us, mean that about the only way to raise the money would be to increase the gasoline tax, or auto license fees, or both."

Plans Call for 8 Lane Roads.

The new plans call for eight lane highways, most of them depressed, or partially depressed, below the street level.

The west side plan would follow "the original line of Congress street" from Grant park to the city limits, with the highway depressed and wide enough to accommodate the Rapid Transit company [elevated] tracks. Terminal and distributing facilities would be expanded at Congress and Franklin streets, and the proposal calls for a future tunnel grade separation at Michigan avenue.

The northwest route would be depressed, and would follow Clybourn and Elston avenues from the loop to Bryn Mawr avenue, with connections to Wacker drive at Lake street and to the north Outer drive near Oak street.

South Plans Stir McDermott.

South superhighway plans, which aroused Ald. McDermott, would follow Franklin street and Union avenue to 95th street. McDermott protested loudly that he would fight inclusion of Union avenue because the street widening "would destroy the homes, churches, and schools of people who have lived there 40 and 50 years."

The north and southeast routes would carry the present north Outer drive to the city limits and the south Outer drive to the Indiana state line. The southwest route would use Archer avenue and the Illinois and Michigan canal to the city limits, with the highway running along the canal bottom.

The crosstown route would extend along California avenue north from 77th street to a connection with the northwest route at about Roscoe street, and would be depressed, except for a bridge crossing the Chicago river.

Offers City-Wide Superhighway Plan

Broken lines represent seven superhighways proposed yesterday by Philip Harrington, commissioner of subways and superhighways. The solid line represents the present outer drive.

A JURY RETIRES TO WEIGH WORDS BY THE POUND

Longest Municipal Court Case Nears End.

The longest case in the history of the Municipal court [it began on Oct. 2] went to the jury late yesterday afternoon. Nine women and three men jurors retired to consider a million and a half words of testimony, 83 pounds of records, and 215 pounds of exhibits. They were locked up at 8 p. m. and ordered to resume deliberations this morning.

William J. Cleary, veteran court reporter, and the Chicago Title and Trust company are the antagonists in the litigation, which was conducted before Judge Edward S. Scheffler in room 906 of the city hall.

Cleary claimed that the trust company owed him $196,000 under an escrow agreement made in 1927 and had failed to live up to its obligations. The company contended that there was no such agreement.

Some Figures on Trial.

Some of the statistics relating to the trial are:

The jurors have attended 137 court sessions on 95 days. There have been 12 sessions of closing arguments.

Earnings of the nine women and three men up to yesterday were $475 each, a total of $5,700.

Salaries of the judge, clerk, and three bailiffs approximate $8,000. The cost to the city and county, for rent, salaries, light, heat, etc., has been figured at $20,000.

One woman juror has been wondering whether a new baby will arrive before the jury can agree on a verdict.

Even if Cleary should lose the case, he will have an offset. Court reporters for his firm have taken down the 1,500,000 words.

More Than 100 Witnesses.

A total of 114 witnesses were heard. It was said that since the case was inaugurated in 1932, an additional 20 witnesses have died and one has committed suicide.

This trial was the third on the issue. The first, in 1932, resulted in a mistrial when Judge John Gutknecht, who was hearing it, became ill. In 1934 a jury awarded Cleary $150,000. Their verdict was set aside by Judge Frank M. Padden and the Appellate court later ordered a retrial.

In his closing argument Attorney John H. Johntry for Cleary told a story in Chinese and when a court reported admitted it meant nothing to him Johntry said: "That's what all the opposing side's testimony means."

THE MASSACRE

Chicago's 1940 Traffic Toll

More than 98% of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an urban superhighway.

ENDS LIFE WITH AUTO FUMES.

William Hieggelke, 32 years old, 1003 Highland avenue, Joliet, committed suicide yesterday by inhaling motor fumes in his automobile which was parked beside the Aux Sable locks, east of Morris, in Grundy county.

PEDESTRIAN, HIT BY AUTOMOBILE, DIES OF INJURIES

John Larson, 58 years old, 2070 Cullerton street, died in County hospital yesterday of injuries suffered Jan. 31 when he was struck by a car driven by Lawrence Smejka, 1925 South Desplaines street.

Donald L. Wilson, 30 years old, 5405 North Spaulding avenue, was killed early today when he drove his automobile into the rear of a work car of the surface lines at the end of the California avenue car line at Roscoe street. The work car was not moving at the time and was illuminated, police said.

J. Hueston Dunn, 43, a Kokomo, Ind., coffee salesman, died in Silver Cross hospital, Joliet, of injuries incurred when his car hit a snowplow.

A coroner's jury found yesterday that injuries suffered in an automobile accident last Nov. 16 caused the death Wednesday of Nick George, 63 years old, 5369 South Kolin avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 129 persons had been killed in auto accidents in the county since Jan. 1. Of this number 97 died in Chicago, where 2,758 have been injured during the period.

VOTE TRUE BILLS CHARGING PLOT IN ACCIDENT CASE

The grand jury was reported yesterday to have voted true bills against Attorney Samuel J. Baskin, 188 West Randolph street, a personal injury lawyer, and Frederick L. Peck, 6243 Ingleside avenue, charging conspiracy in connection with a suit against the Chicago Surface lines. Mrs. Grace Nagel, 7086 South Chicago avenue, will be arraigned in Felony court Monday charged with perjury before the grand jury in connection with the same case.

The action grew out of an accident to Miss Lois Cox, 22 years old, of the South Chicago avenue address. While attempting to board a moving street car last Oct. 19 at 63d street and Kimbark avenue she slipped and broke her leg.

The true bills are believed to charge that Peck, who saw the accident, and Attorney Baskin, whom Peck informed of it, persuaded Miss Cox to change her story.

Shot in the Neck When He Hurls Glasses at Barman

Bruno Ofiara, 23 years old, 10354 Hoxie avenue, a laborer, was shot in the neck last night by Irving Janotta, 35, resident bartender, in the tavern at 10554 Torrence avenue. He was taken to the Bridewell hospital. Janotta told Lieut. Thomas Ryan he fired after Ofiara and another man threw glasses at him when he refused to serve them whisky.

GREEN DIAMOND TRAIN HITS AUTO; THREE BOYS DIE

Roberts, Ill., Feb. 16 (AP).—Three boys were killed in the center of Roberts today when their automobile was demolished by the Green Diamond, an Illinois Central streamlined train. The dead were Marvin Brandt, 14; Eugene Richardson, 14, and Ivan Dennison, 16, driver of the car. They all lived near Roberts, about midway between Springfield and Kankakee.

The accident occurred at a crossing half a block east of the Illinois Central station. Wreckage of the automobile tore off one wall of the station, slightly injuring W. E. Prendergast, the station master.

Witnesses said the Green Diamond was traveling at high speed.

A MAGICIAN TURNS THE TRICK; 4 CARD SHARKS CONVICTED

New York, Feb. 16 [Special].—Four card sharpsters, accused of swindling wealthy business men of nearly $250,000, were convicted of grand larceny today by a jury in Brooklyn County court—largely on the testimony of a former magician turned detective.

The four—Jacob Baum, Samuel Epstein, Saul Levitt, and Irving Taub—were found guilty specifically of swindling Edward B. Hittleman, Brooklyn brewer, out of $2,415 in a series of poker games. Judge Peter Brancato, who heard the trial, said he would send the swindlers to prison.

When the four insisted during their trial that Hittleman's losses were merely the result of bad luck, the prosecution produced Mickey McDougal, the one-time magician who became a $250 detective after the decline of vaudeville. McDougal demonstrated to the jury how the four had used card tricks to cheat the brewer.

POLICE TO QUIZ TRADES-CRAFTS COUNCIL HEADS

Sergt. George Barnes, head of the detective bureau's labor detail, said yesterday that the heads of each of the 13 unions comprising the Trades and Crafts council would be called in and asked for lists of all organizers and other employés.

"We wish to determine whether there are any racketeers in the unions, or men with criminal records," the sergeant said. "If there are they will be closely watched."

The council is a voluntary organization of workers in the hotel and restaurant trades. The first executive called in was Louis Romano, acting head of the council and president of the bartenders' union. He told Sergt. Barnes he had no connections with the Capone-Nitti syndicate and that his union, which has $50,000 in its treasury, operates along legitimate lines. He admitted he had been arrested several times, but said he was never convicted of a serious crime.

LICENSE DRIVE BY PARK POLICE STARTS MONDAY

Chief James Kerr of the park district police announced last night that, starting Monday, all park police will begin a special drive on automobile drivers not having proper licenses or credentials. The police, he said, will be ordered to give summonses to those lacking 1940 state license plates, city vehicle stickers, or valid safety stickers. Motorists without drivers' licenses will be arrested.

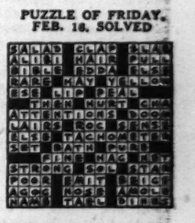
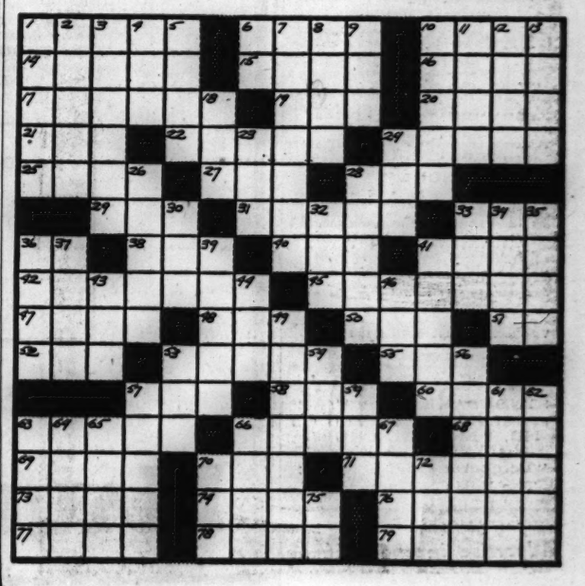
PUZZLE OF FRIDAY, FEB. 16, SOLVED





Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations intended to be of value to those it seeks to serve.

THE HOPE FOR PEACE

By CALEB

M. BRIAND, of wartime fame, proposed in 1927 a plan for a mutual pact between the United States and France. He proposed to "outlaw" war; a term which was, we believe, originally suggested by Salmon O. Levinson, a Chicago man. Frank B. Kellogg, then Secretary of State, was enthusiastic over the plan and made the proposal that all nations be invited to join in subscribing to this pact.

In August of 1928, delegates of fifteen nations met at Paris and placed their signatures to the agreement, known by that time as the Kellogg-Briand Pact, or the Pact of Paris.

Within several years every government in the "civilized" world but Argentina's had ratified and signed it. It was a brief document. It was only a preamble and two short articles: one—a condemnation and renunciation of war; two—an agreement never to seek settlement of difficulties except by pacific means.

The pact made war illegal, but provided no way to punish those who broke the law. The fact remains, a high percentage of the peoples of the world desired to outlaw war, and the Kellogg-Briand Pact was a vigorous gesture in that direction.

The year before the World War started—1913—only two and a half billions were spent 'round the earth for munitions. Four years after the signing of the Pact of Paris, four billions were spent for armament, although numerous efforts toward embracing peace were being made. In 1936, eleven billions was the world's bill for armament. The bill for 1939 is not known. But it was a fabulous one—a bill too great to be borne by the peoples of the earth without terrific sacrifice and incalculable economic distress.

Still the cost mounts. It is a tragic thing—this frantic race for the strength of destruction, this constant girding for war to avoid war. But even idealists in the cause of peace prefer armament to unpreparedness in the present hate-mad world.

It may be, on the surface, discouraging—this violent reaction toward arms and away from the course a civilized world should follow. On the other hand, there is hope whenever mankind is compelled to face issues drawn so clearly. It is easier to choose between black and white than between gray and gray.

The encouragement comes out of the fact of a growing—almost a universal—awareness of the futility of war, and from the barriers built up increasingly, each decade, against which the war spirit must spend itself before winning its final and fatal way.

AFTER TEN YEARS AS GOOD CITIZEN HE FACES PRISON

Mischance of Bad Check Bares Texas Escape.

Because he did not know that his wife had been drawing checks against their joint account, William P. Sabel, a respected member of society for 10 years, may have to return to complete a term on a prison farm at Huntsville, Tex.

William P. Sabel.

Sabel, 35 years old, of 6417 North Richmond street, was driving thru Sterling, Ill., a few weeks ago when his car broke down. He gave a $25 check to pay for the repairs, and found on arriving home that his wife had paid several bills and the balance was not large enough to cover the Sterling check. Sabel immediately deposited enough to make the check good and forgot the matter.

Warrant Comes to Chicago.

In Sterling, however, the repair shop man had sworn out a warrant. This came to Chicago and somehow was not withdrawn after the check was made good. Policeman Cornelius Rourke of the confidence detail arrested Sabel, his fingerprints were sent to Washington and returned with the notation that Sabel, as William Artner, was wanted in Texas to finish a forgery term.

Yesterday in Felony court Judge Joseph Drucker continued to Feb. 27 hearing of arguments on a fugitive warrant. Sabel is held in the county jail under bond of $10,000.

Sabel, in the years since he walked away from the prison farm after being sentenced to two years for forging a $20 due bill, has married and is the father of a son, 5 years old, and a daughter, 3. He worked for nearly three years under Ald. James Quinn [50th] for various council committees, then got a job as salesman for the M. L. Brill company, bar supplies.

Job Is Still Open.

Allen Brill, an official of the firm, said Sabel, now salesmanager, had been a good employé and that his job is still open if he does not have to return to Texas.

When Sabel, who had been made a trusty, left the Huntsville farm in 1930 he still had 11 months to serve. He said he left only because his mother was ill in Chicago, his home, and he wanted to see her. Attorney James Daniels, representing Sabel, said they would fight the extradition, but that his client had signed an extradition waiver without reading it.

Police were searching for two gunmen who robbed Mrs. John R. Jenkins of a $500 diamond ring and a purse containing $10 yesterday as she entered her apartment building at 2438 Greenleaf avenue. Mrs. Jenkins' husband and son, John Jr., were locked in a closet in their apartment two weeks ago while three men took $490 and a $750 diamond pin. Jenkins is the owner of three bowling alleys.

POLICE SLAYER IS SENTENCED TO CHAIR APRIL 19

Howard Poe, 25 years old, colored, who was convicted in Criminal court Jan. 18 of murder in connection with the fatal shooting of Policeman Patrick O'Malley, was sentenced yesterday to die in the electric chair April 19 by Judge John F. Bolton, who overruled a motion for a new trial. O'Malley was slain Aug. 21, 1938, during a tavern holdup at 2405 North Clark street. Two of the holdup men were shot to death, one since has been sent to prison for life, and one still is at large.

BEG YOUR PARDON

Walter Kwiatkowski, an alleged bootlegger, who testified Thursday in the Federal district court that he paid $600 to have his case "fixed,' is not to be confused with Walter Kwiatkowski, 30 years old, of 8248 Buffalo avenue. Both men also use the name of Flowers, which is the English translation of their Polish name.

TESTIFIES HE WAS CONVICTED AFTER FIXERS BROKE HIM

Bootlegger Tells Jury of Ring's Denial of Aid.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

Victor Raubunas, a convicted bootlegger, told a federal court jury yesterday that he paid and paid and paid to "fix" government cases against him in the District court. But finally, he said, there came a time when his money was gone and he couldn't pay any more. And then, according to his story, his former partners in the racket deserted him and he was sent to prison.

This testimony highlighted the eighth day of the trial of five men on charges of operating an alleged case fixing ring in the United States courthouse. Two of the defendants, Daniel D. Glasser and Norton I. Kretske, are former assistant United States attorneys. The others are Attorney Alfred Roth, Anthony Horton, colored, a professional bondsman, and Louis Kaplan, an alcohol peddler. Judge Patrick T. Stone of Madison, Wis., is presiding.

Serving Three Year Sentence.

Raubunas, who was on the stand nearly six hours, was brought to the trial from a federal prison in Milan, Mich., where he is serving a sentence of 3 years for violating the alcohol tax laws.

Kaplan, he testified, visited him in 1935 and induced him to sell his tavern and invest $1,000 in a bootleg still at 2534 South Western avenue.

This was the first of three stills, all raided by government agents after a few months, in which, he said, he invested $2,350. Once, he said, he asked for part of his money back.

"I can't give it to you," he quoted Kaplan as saying. "I have to pay $430 a week for protection—$30 to the police and $400 to big people in the federal building."

Tells of Fixing Two Cases.

After the Western avenue still was raided he paid Kaplan $500 to fix the case, he said. He paid another $500 to Kaplan for an alleged fix after a second still in Spring Grove was raided, according to the testimony.

[Records show that there was no prosecution of the Western avenue case, which was handled by the defendant, Glasser. Raubunas escaped indictment in the Spring Grove case, which was presented to the grand jury by Glasser, according to courthouse files. But after Glasser left office the case was presented again and Raubunas was indicted. The case is pending.]

The third still was on a farm near Arlington Heights. It was raided in January, 1937, Raubunas said. He testified that he and three partners then went to Kretske's law office.

"You're in trouble," he quoted Kretske as saying. Kretske by then had resigned as a prosecutor.

Describes Deal for Fix.

"How much to fix the case?" the bootleggers asked.

"About $1,200—$300 each," Raubunas quoted Kretske as replying.

The next day, Raubunas said, he paid his share.

"Go home and don't worry about anything," he testified Kretske told him. "'Red' will take care of this."

"Who is 'Red?'" Raubunas said he asked.

"None of your business," he said Kretske replied.

[In previous testimony "Red" has been identified as Glasser. In this case, records show, Raubunas was indicted by the grand jury, but Glasser never brought the matter to trial. After Glasser left office Raubunas was tried and convicted.]

Asked to Pay More, He Says.

A few months later, Raubunas said, he got a telephone call from the defendant, Horton, who said Kretske needed more money. Raubunas said he gave the bondsman $100, but that later, when asked for more, he refused.

Finally in September, 1938, when the indictment was returned, Raubunas said, he hurried to Kretske's office.

"It'll cost you $400 to $500 to fix this up," he testified Kretske said.

"I haven't got any more money," Raubunas said he complained.

"Well, I can't help you," the witness said Kretske answered.

Raubunas said he was powerless to help himself and was sent to prison after a brief trial.

This case was prosecuted by Martin Ward, assistant United States attorney, who is directing the prosecution of the fix case.

SING LEE WEEPS, SAVES THE HONOR OF FAMILY NAME

Sing Lee saved the honor of his family name yesterday. His son, Hing, 29 years old, was on trial before Judge Joseph Drucker on a grand larceny charge growing out of the theft of $1,581 from his father's laundry at 2549 South Harding avenue. When the son was caught in San Francisco with $1,243 of the money his father announced he would prosecute.

But yesterday Sing, weeping, told Assistant State's Attorney Joseph O'Connor that he didn't want his family name to suffer or his son to go to jail. The charge was reduced to petit larceny and Hing was placed on probation. Sing said he would send Hing back to China, where the young man was headed when caught.

KILLED BY STREET CAR.

An unidentified man was fatally injured yesterday by a Milwaukee avenue street car at Ohio street. He died later in the county hospital. Police said he was about 55 years old, 5 feet 8 inches tall, and weighed about 170 pounds.

ACCUSED KILLER OF FRIEND CALLS CONFESSION FAKE

Tells Jury 'Third Degree' Made Him Talk.

Carl Hubert Erickson, a pale, blond, bookish young man of 25 who is accused of being the slayer of his best friend, took the witness stand in Criminal court yesterday in an attempt to prove his innocence. He said he was asleep at the time of the murder. He charged police obtained a confession from him after subjecting him to blows and threats.

The victim, Herbert Wolff, was shot to death as he slept last Sept. 28 in a garage at 145 East Grand avenue, where he was employed and where Erickson had once worked. Police charge Erickson killed Wolff because the latter took his job. Erickson denied this yesterday.

Wolff and his wife, Gracie, lived with Erickson in his apartment at 230 East Ontario street for several months prior to last spring.

Trapped by Woman.

Erickson was arrested twice — the day of the slaying and on Dec. 18 in a trap set by a woman who said she had heard him boast of having knowledge of the crime and of "beating" a lie detector test.

Erickson testified in a low, almost inaudible voice, keeping his head bowed and looking only at his attorney, Samuel Hoffman. Twice the jury of nine women and three men requested Judge Joseph A. Graber to have the witness speak louder.

"The second time I was taken to the East Chicago avenue police station, they shackled me to a chair and turned a strong light on my face," Erickson said. "A bunch of policemen kept yelling at me. They said, 'You killed Wolff, you know you did, you ——' I cannot repeat such language."

Erickson said Policeman Stanley Tomasjewski struck him. The defendant said he "gave up" on the night of Dec. 19 and confessed, "knowing I had not committed any crime."

Finds No Bruises on Him.

In rebuttal Assistant State's Attorney Julius Sherwin called to the stand Dr. Constantine Theodore, county jail physician who examined Erickson the day after the repudiated confession was obtained. Dr. Theodore said he found no bruises on Erickson's body.

Cross-examining Erickson, Sherwin had him repeat the confession.

"Did any one make any suggestions to you during the entire recital?" asked Sherwin.

"There were no suggestions," Erickson replied.

"Did any one make any suggestions to you during the reënactment of the crime? Didn't you lead the way?"

Erickson admitted this was true.

Before Erickson took the stand Joseph Szemes, 56 East Grand avenue, a machinist who was a friend of both Wolff and Erickson, was questioned.

"I was arrested early on Dec. 19 and held for 26 hours," said Szemes. He asserted that he saw a policeman curse Erickson and strike him.

Lieut. Joseph Willmovski, ballistics expert, testified he could not identify the bullet taken from Wolff's body positively as one from Erickson's gun. He said it was of the same type and caliber.

Police Tell of Confession.

Earlier Capt. Thomas Harrison of the East Chicago avenue station said Erickson had been brought before him.

"I want to tell you I killed Herbie Wolff," Capt. Harrison quoted Erickson as saying.

Erickson said in the confession that he arose at 1:30 a. m. Sept. 28, dressed, loaded his .38 caliber revolver with the only bullet he possessed and went to the garage where Wolff was sleeping. Holding the gun about 18 inches from Wolff's head, he fired.

The blood brought him to his senses, Erickson said, and he made a careful exit. He cleaned his gun with an emery cloth and tossed the cartridge in a sewer.

Arriving home, he climbed over the sleeping form of George McKenna, a transient he had invited to stay with him, and went to sleep himself. It was McKenna who established Erickson's alibi when the shooting was discovered.

LAWYER'S DEATH HELD SUICIDE.

A verdict of suicide was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday in the death of Daniel Brennan, 53 years old, 4856 North Winchester avenue, a patent attorney, who was found in a room at the Fort Dearborn hotel, his wrists slashed and his body scalded by water from the shower bath.

SUSPECT FIREBUG IN $2,000,000 BLAZE AT CEREAL PLANT

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 16 (AP).—Police joined firemen tonight in an investigation of what an official termed the "probability of sabotage" in a fire which ruined General Mills' new $2,000,000 cereal plant yesterday.

The police arson squad began an inquiry after Battalion Fire Chief George E. Walsh declared "sabotage is a definite probability" and disclosed he had information "concerning a threat made that 'this plant will never operate.'" He added he knew the identity of a man in Chicago who "knows who made the threat."

William R. Morris, president of the Washburn-Crosby company, eastern division of General Mills, said most of the 100 workmen in the building were construction employés under union contract and there had been no labor trouble.

Firemen continued to pour water tonight into the charred interior of the ice-encrusted structure, which was to have opened formally tomorrow.

TIPPLER PUT ON PROBATION.

Thomas Lyons, 856 Oakwood boulevard, was placed on six months probation yesterday by Municipal Judge Gibson E. Gorman for being so drunk he could not remember where he had parked his automobile and his 8 year old daughter.

MANTENO WATER POLLUTION TESTS BARED BY EXPERT

Bowen Received Reports, Office Aids Testify.

BY LLOYD WENDT.

An expert witness testified yesterday in the trial of A. L. Bowen, state welfare director, that in numerous tests made since 1931 for water pollution at the Manteno State Hospital for the Insane, the water was found to be unsafe for drinking, according to United States public health service standards.

Bowen is on trial in the Circuit court at Kankakee, charged with malfeasance, as an outgrowth of the typhoid fever epidemic which swept thru the Manteno institution last summer and fall. The state charges he was criminally negligent in not correcting water pollution conditions found by the state health department.

Bacilli Content Gains.

The witness, Clarence W. Klassen, chief sanitary engineer for the state health department, said that in 1937 tests showed water samples 36.9 per cent positive [containing bacilli]. In 1938 the figure had increased to 40 per cent, and in 1939, at the time of the outbreak of the epidemic, the samples were 55 per cent positive. The United States public health service standards, he explained, state that water testing more than 10 per cent positive is unsafe for drinking.

Earlier in the day two women stenographers in Bowen's office at Springfield told the jury that Bowen had received reports regularly from the state health department, warning of water pollution at Manteno, and that the reports had been called to his personal attention. The two employés are Miss Nellie Vigal and Miss Carolyn Beam.

Warnings Were Acknowledged.

Evidence was offered that Bowen on two occasions had acknowledged receipt of the warnings.

The state introduced the testimony to support its claim that Bowen either did not heed the reports supplied to him, or was unable to read them properly so that steps might have been taken to prevent the typhoid epidemic.

The totals of deaths and illnesses in the Manteno epidemic were considerably higher than had been reported previously, Dr. Albert C. Baxter of Springfield, state director of public health, testified. The final reports showed 60 persons died and 453 cases were reported during the four months the epidemic raged. The previous totals reported were 53 persons dead and 415 ill. Dr. Baxter said that nine of those dead and 42 of those ill were treated outside the institution.

Rules Out August Tests.

An attempt by State's Attorney Shapiro to show that the pollution in the wells resulted in seepage from defective sewers on the Manteno grounds was defeated when Judge James V. Bartley of Joliet, who is presiding at the trial, ruled out evidence obtained in state tests of the wells conducted on Aug. 29, 1939, after the epidemic was in progress.

Dr. C. Milton Eberhart, epidemiologist for the state health department, traced the development of the epidemic from its inception last July 8 thru the last case Dec. 10. The peak was reached, he said, when 23 cases were reported on Aug. 23.

On cross-examination, Defense Counsel Hal M. Stone sought to show that the first persons to report illness were Manteno employés and not inmates. This was interpreted as an effort to blame human carriers rather than polluted wells for the outbreak.

In response State's Attorney Shapiro called George Yorick, a truck driver of route 3, Steger, Ill., who hauled brick to Manteno and who testified he was stricken with typhoid after drinking water there.

Mrs. Gladys Armstrong, record clerk at Manteno, testified that the number of inmates at the institution increased from 824 in 1931 to 5,025 in 1939, and the number of employés similarly increased from 180 in 1931 to 896 last year. The state is contending that sewage and sanitary facilities there were not increased to meet the needs.

The trial was adjourned until Monday morning.

BELGIANS, DUTCH MAINTAIN CLOSE WATCH FOR SPIES

Guards Willing to Shoot, as a Writer Learns.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Feb. 16.—Efforts of THE TRIBUNE to discover facts which might indicate German designs against the low countries, while disclosing no plan of present aggression, did reveal that the general staffs of Belgium and the Netherlands are keeping the greatest vigilance against possible spy activity.

On a motor trip along the frontier, from the tip of Holland to Remich, Luxemburg, I was forced to show my papers every few miles. Even when stopping to warm up in small inns along the highways, my identity was ascertained. Only once did such inspection promise some excitement. That was on the same night that a Dutch doctor failed to halt after getting a signal to do so from a guard. The doctor was shot dead at the same outpost before Arnheim.

Ready for Action.

I halted when a signal was flashed, but was unable to speak Dutch. So I addressed the guard in German, saying I was an American citizen. The guard immediately cocked his gun, pointed it at me, and in unmistakable language forced me to keep my hands up. The guard shouted for the other guards.

One came up to offer assistance. The first guard said: "I have got one. He is a German pretending to be an American." With his gun cocked he forced me to get out of the car and marched me to the guardhouse, where he triumphantly told the sergeant: "I have got a real one this time." The sergeant spoke English, glanced at the passport, and apologized.

No Resentment.

I felt no resentment over the incident, however, because another guard, who tried to be gentle, was stabbed by four men during the same type of inspection two weeks ago.

During the tour it also became apparent why natives did not know the unbarred routes in their own neighborhood. It was because the government is changing them every three or four days, not because an invasion is feared, but better to control the movements of unauthorized persons.

At Venloo it was possible to reconstruct the November kidnaping by Germans of two members of the British intelligence service after the Germans had shot the chief of the Dutch service. The Dutchman was carried into Germany where he later died from his wounds.

Barriers 200 Yards Apart.

The customs barriers appeared 200 yards apart along the wide street, which was solidly lined with houses and restaurants. According to a restaurant owner, who said he witnessed the shooting and kidnaping, the cars carrying the intelligence officers thru Dutch territory parked in no man's land, where six Germans seized the car and passengers.

The Dutch protested to Germany, but at the same time feared that the Nazis might assume unneutral collaboration existed between the Dutch and British secret services. The incident still is regarded as unfinished and some still suppose it might provide an excuse for German action.

However, even this fear seems to be subsiding as time passes. And the Germans' announcement that neutral ships entering British contraband control points will be regarded as sinkable strengthens the belief that sea action and not an invasion by land is Germany's answer to the British blockade.

A Popular Question.

One question encountered frequently on the trip was: "What is Fuehrer Hitler going to do?" The answer invariably was: "Who knows except Hitler?"

Conversation always developed that question, based on the presumption that Hitler must do something. An American expert observer who just returned from Germany said that the presumption is wrong, that Hitler has enough to do to reconstruct Poland.

Blind President

John Pine, 18 years old, who has been blind for two years, was installed yesterday as president of the junior class at Oak Park High school. And with him when he took office was Bozo, his seeing-eye dog, which has helped him participate in the many activities which have made him a school leader. John, who lives at 727 Park avenue, River Forest, lost his sight in an accident in the school's metal shop. The accident, however, failed to prevent him from being an all-around student. He is a member of the school's track and debating teams and is vice president of the Oak Park Boys' conference. He also is active in Boy Scout work and in the Oak Park Hi-Y. Fellow students help him study by reading his assignments to him.

NAZIS SEND ARMS TO RUSSIA; FEAR NEAR EAST WAR

Guard Against Attack by Britain and France.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 16.—Reports issued by Tass, the official soviet news agency, that Germany will supply Russia with arms and other military equipment on a large scale were confirmed in Berlin today. It was learned that a substantial part of Germany's deliveries under the soviet-German trade pact will consist of war materials.

The Russian-German trade volume for the current year is scheduled to reach a minimum of $480,000,000. This was the peak attained in the years after the world war.

Seeks to Protect Russia.

The fact that Germany is supplying Russia with arms while she is at war with England and France is believed to be the result of Germany's desire to make Russia invulnerable against any attack which the western powers may plan in the near east.

A surprise attack on the Caucasian front is impossible, according to Germans. They claim that because of the mountainous terrain and poor communications, it would take a long time for any French and British force to reach the Turkish-Russian frontier. On the other hand, some military experts in Berlin believe that the western powers might feel tempted to bomb Russia's main oil source in the Baku region. Consequently, it is believed that deliveries to Russia will include anti-aircraft guns.

The soviets not only have motorized their army to a large extent, but also the entire agriculture life of the huge country. To break the resistance of the Russian peasants against the motorization, soviet authorities destroyed horse drawn farming equipment and replaced it with motorized equipment.

Predict Finland's Defeat.

The Germans do not believe that Russia is in need of help in the Finnish war. They argue that even if the Mannerheim line holds now, the immensely superior numbers of the Russians with motorized units and airplanes will wear down Finland's resistance when spring comes and greater operations on land and in the air are possible.

The Germans estimate that the Finns put 350,000 men into the field as compared to 30 Russian divisions [about 450,000 men] and a number of motorized brigades totaling 60,000 men.

Panda Anniversary

Mei-Mei with Keeper Abe Paratt.

When Mei-Mei, the panda, arrived at Brookfield zoo her name [in Chinese it means "little sister"] was in keeping with her size. She weighed 24 pounds. Today is her second anniversary at the zoo, and her name no longer fits, because now she weighs 302. Moreover, she's 6 feet from head to tail. Mei-Mei's good health is credited to a generous diet of milk, vegetables, cornstalks, and porridge. And despite her size she's going to keep her name, because zoo attendants still look on her as "little sister."

French Firing Squad Kills Luxemburg Citizen as Spy

PARIS, Feb. 16 (AP).—A firing squad at dawn today executed Jean Kuhn of the duchy of Luxemburg, convicted of sending national defense secrets to Germany before the war. French authorities said Kuhn confessed to espionage and recruiting German agents in Luxemburg, Belgium, and France.

NEUTRALS LOSE 4 SHIPS; BRITISH COUNT 2 GONE

U-Boat Believed Sunk by a Bomber.

LONDON, Feb. 16 (AP).—Four neutral ships sunk or missing; a British freighter torpedoed; a small British tanker feared lost, and two Finnish boats bound for Britain captured. These were the unhappy reports which Britain received tonight concerning the war at sea.

On the brighter side was the report of the bombing and possible sinking of a German submarine by a British plane.

A pilot who caught the submarine on the North sea bombed it just as the U-boat, fleeing the plane, submerged. One bomb fell directly ahead of the periscope and another burst just in front of the same spot. Patches of oil appeared and no further trace of the submarine was seen.

Nearly 50 U-Boats Sunk.

It was said unofficially that nearly 50 German submarines have been sunk thus far in the war.

Twenty-two lives were lost aboard two Danish vessels, the 1,066 ton passenger ship Sleipner and the 1,046 ton Rhone, which were torpedoed off northeast Scotland. Thirty-nine others were saved. Traveling together, the two ships were sunk within 10 minutes of each other. Those missing from the Sleipner were seven seamen and six passengers.

The ships missing were the British tanker Creofield, 838 tons, and the Norwegian freighters Bisp, 1,000 tons, and Start, 1,168 tons. The Bisp, which carried a crew of 16, left a British port Jan. 20 with a cargo of coal for Norway.

Land on West Coast of Ireland.

The torpedoing of the 4,622 ton British cargo ship Langleeford in the Atlantic Wednesday while she was en route home from Boston was disclosed with the arrival of a lifeboat with 15 survivors on the west coast of Ireland. One sailor was killed in the blast, two died in the lifeboat, and a second boat carrying the captain and 14 other crewmen was missing.

A Helsingfors radio broadcast said Germany had captured and confiscated two Finnish ships bound for Britain with cargoes of timber.

Nazis Boast of Sea Successes.

BERLIN, Feb. 16 (AP).—Germany boasted tonight that her present sea warfare against Great Britain has proved far more effective than in 1914. With the German naval attack taking a new tack—a stiff offensive against tankers carrying Britain's oil supplies—German military experts gave the following comparison to demonstrate the success of the new German navy:

During the first five months of the present war 1,500,000 tons of British, French, and neutral shipping were destroyed; in the first five months of the world war 370,000 tons were sunk. On the basis of these German figures, 1,130,000 more tons have gone to the bottom in the present war as a result of the German sea campaign.

Figures were presented to show that in about 5½ months of warfare 27 tankers belonging to the western powers, with a total tonnage of 212,268, have been sent to the bottom.

BRITISH TO PLACE 250,000 MORE IN CONSCRIPT ARMY

LONDON, Feb. 16 (AP).—Britain stepped up its mobilization program tonight to permit quick absorption of a new class of 250,000 conscripts ordered to register tomorrow for military service. The new conscripts, Britons now 23 years old, probably will be placed under arms early in March in line with a training speedup expected to increase the army to a total of 2,500,000 men before 1941.

The mobilization speedup coincided with British and French troop concentrations in the near east.

A possible new reservoir of man power was opened to Britain when the government of the Union of South Africa gave permission to volunteers to serve outside the union. Altho the union government has declared war on Germany, it had made no move hitherto to send expeditionary forces to England, as have the other dominions.

British Paper Says America Should Give Finns Real Help

LONDON, Feb. 16 (AP).—In an editorial titled "S O S," the Daily Mail tonight declared the United States "should face realities and should give Finland help of real value in her hour of peril." "For ourselves we ask nothing, but for Finland we presume to go farther," the newspaper said, urging that the United States permit the Finns to use American loans for the purchase of arms.

SWEDEN SPURNS FINLAND'S PLEA FOR ARMED HELP

England and France Also Balk at Sending Troops.

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 16 (AP).—Sweden refused to send direct military help to Finland today, leaving Finland faced, diplomatic observers believed, with the choice of an appeal to the western powers for troops or a peace with Russia.

Per Albin Hansson.

Premier Per Albin Hansson in an official communique said that Finland's request for transport of Swedish military groups to Finland had been declined; that Sweden stood by Hansson's riksdag [parliament] declaration of Jan. 17 that its aid to Finland would be limited to all material and humanitarian help possible.

Predict Plea to Empires.

Diplomatic sources predicted that Finland, desperately pressed by a great Russian offensive against the Mannerheim line, might now make a direct request for military assistance to Great Britain and France, and that Sweden and Norway would be asked to permit passage of such troops and munitions.

A Swedish foreign office spokesman said, however, that Sweden never could tolerate a march thru by troops of a foreign country. He added that Great Britain and France had forwarded no such demands. Moreover, informed Stockholm observers were skeptical as to whether any practical military aid could get to Finland from the western powers.

British spokesmen in London said it would be technically difficult for either Great Britain or France to place trained and sizeable active service detachments on the Finnish battle front quickly. They said Britain's army was training for conditions vastly different from those in Finland; that they could not be seasoned in time to help in the Mannerheim line.

Observers, moreover, expressed belief that Britain would hesitate to enter the Finnish-Russian conflict openly for fear of further consolidating Germany's relations with Russia and creating new fronts in the western war.

Claims Finns Get Equipment.

A steady flow of licensed British volunteers for Finland continued in London, but Finnish sources said it was unlikely that any of them would get to Finland in time to help in the Mannerheim line battle.

In Paris a French government spokesman said a great many anti-tank guns as well as other artillery and airplanes were being dispatched to Finland; that any foreigner in France would be permitted an exit visa to join the Finnish army. Published reports described Finnish victories with French warplanes already on hand.

In Germany Fuehrer Hitler's newspaper, Volkischer Beobachter, said a complete Russian victory in Finland was inevitable; that the British still hoped to prolong the war by getting the Scandinavian countries in on Finland's side; that the empires never intended to help Finland any more than the aid given Poland.

GERMAN MINES KILL FRENCHMEN ON PATROL DUTY

PARIS, Feb. 16 (AP).—A French patrol on the western front "suffered some losses" in a German mine field today, the high command announced in tonight's communique. The communique said, "Activity of our patrols. One of them suffered some losses when crossing a German mine field."

Earlier, French and German artillery shelled each other in the region of the Blies river west of the Vosges mountains, military sources said, but failed to change the positions of the lines. Heavy snowstorms were reported along the front. A French warship was said to have attacked a German submarine, but the result was not known immediately. The French day communique reported, "Artillery action on both sides of the Blies."

Germans Report Quiet Day.

BERLIN, Feb. 16 (AP).—The German high command communique today reported, "No special events."

LITHS HAIL 22D ANNIVERSARY OF INDEPENDENCE

KAUNAS, Lithuania, Feb. 16.—Lithuania's determination to remain independent and free was affirmed today by President Antanas Smetona in a broadcast on the occasion of the 22d anniversary of the country's independence. Lithuanians necessarily felt some anxiety, he said, in connection with the danger of extension of the war, and added that they were glad to be celebrating independence day for the first time in the city of Vilna. Lithuanian troops occupied Vilna on Oct. 16, when the city was handed over by Russia after conclusion of a mutual assistance pact.

Chicago Liths Celebrate Homeland's Independence

More than 3,000 Chicagoans of Lithuanian descent filled St. Agnes auditorium, Rockwell street and Archer avenue, last night for a celebration marking Lithuania's 22d year of independence.

Finns and Reds Continue Great Battle

Principal events of yesterday in warfare on the Karelian isthmus are indicated in captions on the map. The portion covered with vertical lines is the area of the Mannerheim system of fortifications.

WAR OBSERVERS BELITTLE SOVIET GAINS IN FINLAND

Cite Losses Suffered by Russian Army.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Feb. 16.—Military observers here support the view of the Finnish staff that the Russian gains in attacks on the Mannerheim line are not important if the Russian losses, which since Feb. 2 have reached 50,000, are considered together with the few exposed points and Finnish trenches which the Reds have captured.

Military attachés stationed in Finland also believe this battle will obtain an important place in the history of warfare, since for the first time one country with an overwhelming air superiority has used all of its available planes to bombard and harass the lines and troops of another country without appreciable result. One thousand and fifty tanks have been captured or destroyed by the Finns.

Finn Weakness Revealed.

Five hundred Russian planes participated in yesterday's offensive on the isthmus. Only eight planes were destroyed and the fate of two others was in doubt. This again reveals Finland's weakness in the air.

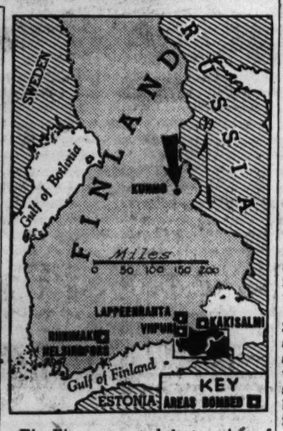
Sweden's monetary help for Finland has been generous, but fewer than 10,000 volunteers have arrived from the Scandinavian countries and most of them have not yet completed the course of training which the Finns insist must be passed before the men are permitted to see real fighting.

Military specialists say Finland has clearly demonstrated that it has a good chance to defeat the Russians if given the munitions, planes, men, and supplies it needs. They say there seems to be almost a conspiracy to save Russia from ignominious defeat, which might lead to overthrow of the bolshevik régime. This, they say, would inevitably result in widespread slaughter thruout Russia of communists and Jews, the latter because they have identified themselves so closely with the communist movement there.

Other Fronts Active.

The extent of the Karelian isthmus battle has overshadowed the series of defeats dealt the soviet forces which have invaded Finland along the frontier north of Lake Ladoga. Soviet losses on these fronts also have been heavy.

The Finnish army continues to send home the bodies of its fallen warriors for burial in their home towns and villages. In many places Lutheran pastors have preached funeral sermons over groups of coffins containing the bodies of soldiers from the front and of men, women, and children killed in air raids.



The Finns reported destruction of isolated enemy detachments at Kuhmo. The black rectangle covers the region shown in detail in the larger map.

FLINT'S SKIPPER UPHELD; UNION'S STAND REJECTED

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16 (AP).—Commander R. S. Field, director of the bureau of marine inspection and navigation, refused today to consider complaints filed by the National Maritime union [C. I. O.] against Capt. Joseph A. Gainard of the freighter City of Flint.

The complaints alleged that, after a German prize crew took possession of the American vessel last October, Gainard failed to communicate with the American consul at Tromsoe, Norway, and that Gainard failed to sail from Murmansk, Russia, when the Germans temporarily left the ship. Field replied:

"I could not possibly give serious attention to statements made by a mess boy and a cook to the effect that they were not satisfied with the way the captain handled his job. The evidence submitted does not justify the institution of any investigation on the part of this bureau."

EXPECT BULGAR CABINET TO LEAN TOWARD RUSSIA

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Feb. 16 (AP).—The choice of Peter Gabrovsky as minister of interior in the new cabinet of Premier Bogdan Philoff was interpreted by foreign observers today as one of the signs that Bulgaria seeks further tightening of her new approachment with Soviet Russia.

Gabrovsky, whose post as chief of the nation's police is a vital one, is a close personal friend of Vladimir Potemkin, Russia's first assistant commissar of foreign affairs.

It was learned that one of the important factors in the downfall yesterday of the government of George Kosseivanoff was the failure of his policy of appeasment to bring gestures from Rumania toward territorial revision in Bulgaria's favor. Philoff, the new premier, is a professor who has been in politics 15 months. His foreign minister is Ivan Popoff. The cabinet was sworn in by King Boris today.

DEMAND NORWAY TAKE ACTION TO CUT SHIP LOSSES

Editors Call Sinkings 'War Against Us.'

BY ANDREAS BACKER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OSLO, Norway, Feb. 16.—Norwegian newspapers today called upon the government to take the necessary steps to reduce the mounting toll of merchant fleet losses.

Halvdan Koht.

The Aftenposten declared Norway must know exactly what Germany will permit to be transported and charged that the sinking without warning of Norwegian ships carrying food and coal from neutral ports to Norway was war against this country.

Seamen's organizations tonight demanded action by the cabinet and asked for protection. The organizations also advised Norwegian sailors not to go aboard steamers bound for Germany so long as that country continues its "barbarous sinking of Norwegian steamers."

To Foreign Minister.

The seamen's protest was registered in a resolution handed to Foreign Minister Halvdan Koht. Captains, engine crews, and ordinary seamen were represented.

"It may be possible to annihilate Norwegian seamen," the resolution said in part, "but it is not possible to scare them ashore."

The government has protested the recent sinking of the steamers Tempo, Songa, and Enid. It charged five members of the crew of the Tempo were killed by German flyers who attacked the lifeboats containing the men. The Songa, it was claimed, was torpedoed by a German submarine in the Atlantic ocean. The crew of the Songa, it was said, fought the sea for five days before being rescued.

Torpedoed Without Warning.

The Enid, it was charged, was torpedoed north of the Shetland Islands without warning, while engaged in a search for the crew of a sunken British steamer. It was said the Enid was torpedoed while the floating lifeboats were in the line of fire.

The government reserved the right to claim compensation for the loss of life, as well as for the steamers, the cargoes, and for injuries to crewmen.

The German answer was awaited with anxiety. The German legation officially declared yesterday that there was insufficient proof of the circumstances surrounding the sinking of the Enid.

GERMAN WARSHIP ESCAPES BRITISH TRAP OFF NORWAY

Aided in Eluding Capture by Neutral Vessels.

BERLIN, Feb. 16 (AP).—The German steamer Altmark, auxiliary warship which accompanied the German pocket battleship Graf Spee on its raiding cruise in southern waters, barely eluded capture by the English destroyer Intrepid today, DNB, German news agncy, said tonight.

The Altmark, which carried prisoners captured by the Graf Spee, radioed that the Intrepid attempted to capture it in Norwegian waters 640 yards from land.

The destroyer ran alongside the Altmark, it was said, but the latter escaped by skilful maneuvering as well as the intervention of two Norwegian torpedo boats which moved between the two vessels.

Called Neutrality Violation.

DNB said the Intrepid now was waiting for the Altmark. The news agency described the incident as an unheard of violation of Norwegian neutrality.

The last contact of the Altmark, a disguised 12,000 ton vessel capable of making 25 knots, and the Graf Spee was on Dec. 8, less than a week before the battle off Uruguay which resulted in the Graf Spee taking refuge in Montevideo and its destruction on the order of Fuehrer Hitler.

On Jan. 19 the British charged that 300 or more British sailors captured at sea were imprisoned aboard the auxiliary ship in conditions recalling the days of slave traders. Since the scuttling of the Graf Spee the British have carried on a constant search for the Altmark.

Nazis Deny Ill Treatment.

Authorized German sources denied that British prisoners were ill-treated on the Altmark, but one commentary said:

"Of course, we could not build roof gardens and luxurious quarters for our enemies."

[It was not known whether the prisoners were still aboard the Altmark. Neither was it clear where the Altmark went after the Intrepid's frustrated attempt to seize it. If it halted in Norwegian territorial waters it was subject to possible internment, as was the German prize crew which sailed the American freighter City of Flint into Haugesund.]

During the Graf Spee's raiding career, the Altmark appeared as an innocent merchantman. Actually, it was said, the vessel carried three six-inch guns hidden by shutters and an antiaircraft gun. It is equipped with a large number of prison cells.

British Hail 300 Seamen.

PLYMOUTH, England, Feb. 16 (AP).—Three hundred seamen from the British cruisers Ajax and Exeter, veterans of the battle with the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee, received a riotous welcome today as they marched thru crowded streets to the guildhall, where they were entertained at lunch by the lord mayor.

Running from the sidewalks, girls seized the arms of many of the marching sailors and kept step with them. A cheering throng of 10,000 persons crowded the guildhall square.

The Exeter, still bearing the scars of the naval engagement in which the Graf Spee was driven into Montevideo harbor on Dec. 13, arrived here yesterday. The Ajax had reached home waters some time previously.

LIQUOR RUNNING IN IOWA DENIED BY GRAND JURY

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 16 (AP).—The Polk county grand jury today reported that its three weeks' investigation of illicit liquor traffic had failed to uncover evidence of large scale rum running as charged by United States Senator Clyde L. Herring.

Testimony of 39 witnesses and a large amount of documentary evidence does not disclose any such violations, the report said, or the availability of any evidence warranting indictments or prosecutions.

Senator Herring charged that illegal liquor was flowing into Iowa and Polk county by the truck load.

24 Appointed to Division on Delinquency Prevention

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 16 (AP).—Appointment of 24 members of the advisory board of the recently created state division for delinquency prevention was announced today by Gov. Horner.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Europe has a set of primary interests which to us have none or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concerns. Hence, therefore, it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves by artificial ties in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics or the ordinary combinations and collisions of her friendships or enmities."—From the Farewell Address.

STILL THE BOOB STATE.

California continues to be the boob state. It was that when it was merely the promised land for feather brains. Now the title is more secure than ever. For years California has been tormented with violence and insurrections on a scale approaching civil war. One of relatively few stabilizing influences in this turbulent and crank infested commonwealth was and is the Los Angeles Times.

And so a committee of the Los Angeles Bar association, which might be expected to defend law, order, and sanity where they had few other defenders, found occasion to cite the Times, its managing editor, and its publisher on charges of contempt of court. The original charge was based upon a number of editorials which had commented upon cases which the committee said were still before the court when the editorials were published. In fact, none of the editorials appeared while litigation was in progress and in the cases in which juries were concerned the comment did not appear until after the juries had rendered their verdicts. None of the comment was disrespectful and none of it was intended to or in fact did influence the decisions.

After the citation was filed the Times discussed it in two editorials and these were made the basis of a second citation. This was in 1938.

The contempt cases were heard in the Superior court of Los Angeles and the Times lost both of them, tho the court did find that two of the editorials included in the first citation were not contemptuous. An appeal to the Supreme court of the state followed. There the second citation was dismissed recently, but the first one was allowed to stand. The court divided, 5 to 2.

An appeal is now to be taken to the United States Supreme court in the hope that the minority opinion of the California court, expressed by Mr. Justice Gibson, will prevail. He spoke of "the lengths to which imagination may go in building groundless fears and in imputing potent and obstructive purposes foreign to the intent of the writer." He believed that the decision had "sacrificed a substantial part of our cherished freedom of speech and press in order to stamp out an evil that does not exist."

The criticism is sharp, but certainly no sharper than the bar association had merited and no stronger than the majority of the court had earned by expanding the most dangerous of powers, the inherent power of the courts to punish for contempt.

THE PERIL TO FINLAND.

The fear is growing that the Finns' brave defense of their country has reached the point of exhaustion. The stand against odds has been a great military achievement which testifies to the courage and devotion of the people. But in this new Thermopylæ scores are matched against thousands, and even if the Russians have been badly directed Stalin's commanders have the man power to waste.

Defeat will not mean merely that the Finns will have to submit to the Russian demands which caused the war. It will not mean merely that Russian fortifications will be advanced into the Finnish territory which the Finns were ordered to give up. It will mean the extinguishing of the Finnish democracy, the liquidation of the prosperous substance of the nation, and the self-exile of as many property owners as can make their escape. If the endangered people can get across the frontier they will become refugees in what other lands they can reach and wherever they will be received.

If the Red divisions break thru, the Stalin political commissars and police agents will overrun the country, massacring the proscribed classes and all people who have taken part in the brave defense of the land. The hatreds aroused by the war of the Reds and the Whites in Finland after the Russian revolution have living representatives and in the rear of Stalin's troops are communist executioners eager to lay their hands on the people who have made Finland respected as a free and well governed land. The defeat of the Finnish army will bring the Red terror to the Finnish people. The liquidations will be carried out in the name of the puppet government set up by the Reds when they first invaded the country.

Germans helped the Finnish people to expel the Reds in the other war. Germany now has become in part responsible for whatever fate is to overtake the country. If the Russians overpower their small opponent it will mean the death of the Finnish people. Their institutions will be destroyed, their most progressive and best elements will be driven out or killed, or treated with the ferocity the Reds visited upon the small property owners, professional men, and peasants in Russia. A civilized land will be laid waste.

GOOD, BUT NOT GOOD ENOUGH.

Cook county is shown by the department of commerce's recent release of its 1937 industrial census to have regained its position as the first county in the nation in value of its manufactured products. It held the first position in 1929, but fell below New York county [Manhattan] in 1933.

This position it holds because of the energy of its citizens. Something which the published census figures do not show, because they are for Cook county and not the city of Chicago alone, is that energy and foresight have been taking more and more of the newer industrial plants outside the city limits.

This is a serious loss to Chicago, but its effect is not evenly distributed. The industries that move obviously gain by moving. Their employes do not suffer, since they gain many of the same advantages gained by their employers when they follow their jobs to the suburbs. Financial interests, which are not limited by political boundaries, do not suffer, and wholesalers and larger mercantile establishments suffer relatively little for the same reason.

But small retailers suffer from declining pay rolls within their neighborhoods. Landlords suffer from lack of tenants. Taxpayers suffer because they do not have the assistance of the new industries in bearing the local tax burden. Even the politicians who spend the taxes suffer because they have less to spend, but no tears need be shed on their behalf, because it is they who are principally responsible for the exodus to the suburbs.

Three things that the politicians have fastened on Chicago have hampered development of its industries and prevented the energy of its citizens from giving the city more jobs and pay rolls—high taxes, a racketeering building code, and an economically insane zoning code.

Chicago's taxes are high for two principal reasons. The first is the needless pay rollers who render their service not to the public but to the political machine. The second is the failure of county officials to do their duty and collect delinquent taxes, thereby increasing the burden on taxpayers who pay their bills.

The revision of the building code, completed last year, improved the legal draftsmanship of the code, but little else. Few changes were made in the substantive provisions. The code remains largely what it was before revision—the legalization of a multitude of rackets in the construction and building materials industries.

The city has no zoning code worthy of the name. Every violation of the code has its price, on the payment of which an amendment can be obtained to legalize the violation. The basic code itself is rotten, having been passed to oblige real estate speculators with little regard for the actual or potential use of the land within the city.

Cook county, while it led the nation in 1937, is still below the 1929 level in the value of its manufactured products. Its citizens have the energy to attain that goal, but they require aid in the political field if the benefits are to come where they are needed most, which is inside the city of Chicago. In its campaign to build Chicago the Association of Commerce could take no more valuable steps than to insist on the elimination of pay roll waste, the collection of delinquent taxes, and the writing of an honest building code and a sane zoning ordinance.

THE EXETER STEAMS INTO PLYMOUTH.

When the cruiser Exeter dropped anchor at Plymouth Winston Churchill told her captain and crew that it seemed that there might be other, ghostly spectators among the cheering citizens of the English port.

The shades he invoked were those of Drake and Hawkins and the other captains who set out from Plymouth to scatter the Armada. There was little difference in their fleet between the warships and the merchantmen hastily armed to fight beside them. They went out against the floating castles of Spain, with their great guns, and beat them with seamanship and gunnery.

Warships have changed but seamen have not. No merchantman in the world could be armed heavily enough to stand for 10 minutes against the lightest of the ships that fought off the River Plate. But again speed and seamanship and gunnery won the victory against size and weight of metal. The shades of Elizabeth's seamen, if they were present at Plymouth, must have been satisfied that the traditions they handed down are in worthy hands.

Editorial of the Day

A WARNING TO MANAGEMENT.

[Peoria Journal Transcript.]

Seven hundred Peorians—mostly executives in local industrial plants—heard Clarence Randall, a vice president of Inland Steel, enunciate the doctrine that any kind of planned economy, whether planned by government, industry, or labor, would ultimately destroy cherished American liberties. The occasion was a banquet meeting of foremen, supervisors, and executives. The argument is the familiar one that individualism in matters economic and social is important as a prerequisite of democracy.

But the speaker went further than most defenders of individualism as an American way of life. To him, as a representative of management in industry, capital is as subject to censure for planned economy, for price fixing, and for appeals to government for aid and protection as is labor or any other element of the social system. It is a distinction few representatives of management have the courage to make. But it is one which can profitably be called to the attention of men engaged in the operating side of industry.

Inasmuch as there is developing in America a definite class of society engaged in management, a group which is not essentially capitalistic nor essentially laboristic, the choice of the speaker, his argument and his thesis were entirely happy.

For, in a sense, the fate of the nation is pretty largely in the hands of the men in management of industry and business today. Absentee ownership on the one hand and the trend toward collectivism in labor on the other put the problem of adjustment squarely up to the men who operate the factories of today.

If they cease to be individuals and become rubber stamps for either capital or labor, totalitarianism is inevitable in the United States. So far as Peoria is concerned, they have been warned.

NO LABOR TROUBLE.

LARES AND PENATES.

With bulging sides and top it speeds along
The city street. Within its depth is love
Mingling with faith, with hope, with tear and song.
Among the dear familiar things thereof:
The favorite chair to place before the hearth,
A rug marked by the tread of busy feet,
A baby's cot, and much of priceless worth—
A diary, curl, and letters yellowed, sweet.
They'll make strange walls turn quickly into home.
At once the roots will take their eager hold
Down thru devotion's ever quickening loam;
Then shelter's fragrant blooms will form, unfold.
Peace will be present as it was before
The moving van stood yawning at the door.

Origins of "The Real McCoy"?

Bill McCoy, former yacht builder at Daytona, Fla., operated as a rum runner during the prohibition era, first from Nassau and then from a French island off Nova Scotia. He boasted that he never "cut" his liquor, and has records to prove that he delivered 186,000 cases of genuine stuff.

[This explanation is favored by most New York newspaper writers.]

A music hall performer named McCoy flourished in London many years ago. Another McCoy imitated him, so he billed himself as "the real McCoy."

[This explanation is favored by English writers, who state that this McCoy lived before Bill McCoy, the rum runner, or Kid McCoy, the prize fighter, who also practiced "real McCoy" billing, were born.]

SUBURBAN SOLILOQUIES—III.

("There's One at Every Party.")

She's buxomish, not to say stout;
She frolics and bounces about;
She's hale and she's hearty,
The life of the party—
Her face never shadowed by doubt.

Big, strong men are known to turn pale
At finding that she's on their trail;
Don't sit there, you sap,
She'll sit on your lap!
No wonder the married men quail!

"This party is dead!" she'll declare,
"Let's dance! Come on out of that chair!"
Or, "Ahoy, men and maids,
We're playing charades!
I know one that's perfectly rare!"

Your glass you have hidden away;
You think you'd best call it a day;
That's just what you think;
She brings you a drink,
And waits, loud and long, while you away.

At home from the evening of strife
You bitterly hark to your wife:
"Don't try to tell me;
I guess I could see
She gave you the time of your life!"

The Finns of Ireland.

Did you know that since the Finns have turned out to be great fighters the Irish are trying to claim them as cousins? It's on account of the Finn [or Fenian, or Ossianic] legends in Irish mythology.

Prof. Arthur C. L. Brown of Northwestern university will tell you all about the Finns of Ireland next Tuesday evening at University college, 313 East Chicago avenue. Once a week on Tuesdays until springtime arrives, he will lecture upon the history of Irish literature. Here's a way to get ready for St. Patrick's day and the next engagement of the Abbey theater company.

Origin of Sam T. Jack's.

Reference to the old Inter Ocean building [Feb. 3] reminds me that the structure now called the Grant hotel did not house the Inter Ocean in its best days. When it held a place of acknowledged importance among Chicago newspapers it was either under the same roof or adjacent to the Hershey School of Music on the north side of Madison street midway between Dearborn and State streets. Clarence Eddy, famous for years as an organist, was one of this school's instructors. Later the recital hall of this once exclusive music school was used by Sam T. Jack for burlesque shows.

DETECT APPENDICITIS IN CHILDREN.

ABOUT a month ago, in our discussion on pinworms, mention was made of the fact that these invaders occasionally found their way into that offshoot from the bowel—the appendix. In such circumstances real trouble ensued but—because of the frequency of inflammation in this region from other causes—additional comments may be in order.

The most serious abdominal disease of childhood is appendicitis. Young people are unusually susceptible, especially when they are on a visit away from home or should an abrupt change in diet be made. Something about a new food régime—coupled with excitement and fatigue—seems to predispose to an attack.

No matter how often warnings are uttered some parents jeopardize the welfare of their offspring because they insist upon regarding a pain in the stomach area as utterly inconsequential—really beneath their notice. This accounts for the rising mortality, particularly in the younger ages, which has been observed with alarm—at least for the last 10 years.

Lives will be saved if the diagnosis can be made promptly and if—at the same time—we will pay some attention to the child's complaints such as indigestion, nausea, vomiting, and cramps. Why? Because it just may be that this organ is the site of a smoldering infection which is kicking up enough fuss to serve as a warning.

The acute siege, however, is so characteristic that almost any one should be able to recognize it. Pain is the most prominent symptom. At first located in the vicinity of the stomach, it may later shift downward to the right side. The aching may not always be steady but rarely will exhibit the throbbing tendencies of the so-called jumping toothache. Nevertheless, it is so severe that the patient resents being disturbed. Sometimes the very position assumed by the victim—lying motionless in bed with the knees drawn upward—points to the nature of the difficulty. If, in addition, nausea or vomiting are present the story is well nigh complete.

The reason a laxative is dangerous is because safety depends upon quiet—not only for the arms and legs, but for all the structures within the abdomen. If we stir the bowel into contortions [with a cathartic], pressure is placed upon the blind pouch and what would otherwise be a simple case may be complicated by a tear followed by the escape of putrid fecal matter into the peritoneal cavity.

There is such a thing as chronic appendicitis and children who are prone to digestive upsets should be watched critically. It may be that more rest or less nervous excitement is all that is needed. If the disturbing symptoms do not disappear under a modified food régime plus other hygienic measures, the appendix should be investigated. Furthermore, a check may be made to determine the behavior of the white blood cells which increase in the presence of infection. An X-ray examination may be helpful.

No one should fear unduly the operative procedure necessary for cure. In skilled hands it is almost 100 per cent safe, but no surgeon will possess a feeling of elation when he is called upon to repair the results of neglect. In all fairness, therefore, prompt surgical intervention must be invoked if the indications are clear and definite. While the malady will appear in infants, it is far more common between the ages of 4 and 15; in fact, about three-fourths of the cases will occur in boys and girls from 9 and 15 years old.

We must all be willing to be a little more alert to these signs—gradually increasing in severity—that tell us that pus is forming somewhere along the intestinal tract. A false symptom fraught with real danger is the sense of comfort that may follow rupture of the sac. It is then that the physician must exercise his highest skill if life is to be preserved.

EATING HORSE MEAT.

B. J. R. writes: A recent newspaper article stated that horse meat is now recognized by doctors as a nourishing food for human beings as well as animals, being high in vitamins. The writer said that hospitals in Europe were giving such meat to patients. Is it true that the food value of horse meat is great? Is it being fed to humans in this country?

REPLY.

Horse meat possesses no advantage over beef or other sources of animal protein. It is not employed in this country as food for human beings. It is marketed largely for animal food—altho bad effects would not follow its consumption by humans.

STOMACH SENSATIONS.

Mrs. F. B. writes: For some months I have been annoyed with cramps and a gnawing feeling in the stomach. This occurs only at night. Could it be due to nerves? I am 64 years old.

REPLY.

Before blaming it on nerves—have a thoro examination, including X-rays of the stomach and an analysis of the gastric contents. An ulcer may be responsible. Do not delay.

ASTHMA CURABLE.

T. C. writes:

1. Can asthma be cured?
2. Is it catching?

REPLY.

1. If the cause can be determined and removed—in many cases—complete relief is possible.
2. Not at all.

QUESTION FOR WEATHER EXPERTS.

Paxton, Ill., Feb. 12.—Is it colder in the wind on a cold winter day or does it only seem so? On St. Valentine's day, 1929, the thermometer in the morning was near zero. Snow covered the ground several inches deep. A strong south wind arose, very chilling to one outdoors. I had two thermometers outdoors. One on the north side of an empty smokehouse began to rise and kept 4 to 5 degrees above the one under a porch on the south side of the house. I reversed the thermometers and they also switched readings. The one in the wind read lower by several degrees. The spread diminished as they neared the freezing point about noon.

On another occasion a year or two later, under much the same conditions, a similar difference was observed.

Have others observed these changes to prove that there are times when under certain conditions it really is colder in the wind than out of it? As an auctioneer remarked about a year ago, when after being out in the swirling snow he returned to the shelter of the north side of the barn: "There is nothing so cold as that north wind when it comes back from the south."

THE GODOY CROUCH.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—Giving credit where credit is due and with all due respect to the fighting ability of one Mr. Arturo Godoy of Chile, I protest vehemently against such a spectacle as took place in Madison Square Garden.

The greed of promoters will pit a crouching, crawling, yelping fighter to smear our fighting arena with an unforgettable taint. Joe Louis fights like a man. I have always been taught that it was proper to stand up and fight like a man, but what about Arturo?

The rules of prize fighting are in urgent need of revamping. No man should be allowed to crouch lower than the degree necessary to avoid being struck by his opponent from an upright position.

THE HIGH PRICE OF HORSE FUEL.

Chicago, Feb. 13.—If the government loaned $2 a bushel on corn, it is obvious that it would penalize horse users against tractor users. Loaning 57 cents on corn when actual market value without such loans would probably be around 40 cents is government aid to gasoline users as against horse users.

THE DEBT QUESTION.

Glasgow, Ky., Feb. 12.—The President states that the total of all debts, federal, state, city, county, individual, etc., is less than it was when he assumed office in 1933. So far as you are concerned, Mr. President, the people are not interested in any of these debts, except the federal debt, over which you have had control for seven years. Is it not a fact that the federal debt has increased at least 23 billion dollars? J. E. B.

FROM JUDGE HERMES.

Chicago, Feb. 15.—This morning an editorial appeared in THE TRIBUNE headed "They Swallowed All but One," which reflects seriously upon my record as a judge of the Municipal court in connection with the rating I received as a result of a questionnaire sent by the Chicago Bar association to its members.

I would respectfully direct your attention to the fact that the questionnaire was sent out by the Chicago Bar association immediately after unfounded charges were made against me in a statement of the Chicago Crime commission concerning a certain case tried by me, which statement received wide publicity in the public press. I promptly requested an investigation of the charges by the Chicago Bar association. The Chicago Bar association, by its committee on judiciary, held a complete hearing, at which I appeared. The committee on judiciary rendered a unanimous report exonerating me of any improper conduct in the proceedings, which report was approved by the board of managers of the Chicago Bar association.

However, the questionnaire of the Chicago Bar association on the Municipal court judges was, as already stated, sent to the members of the association within a day or two after the charges against me had received such wide publicity in the public press, and the questionnaires were returned by the members of the Chicago Bar association before the committee on judiciary made its report exonerating me.

Further, the action of the board of managers approving the action of its committee on judiciary received but scant publicity in the public press as compared with the wide publicity given to the charges made against me by the Chicago Crime commission.

In fact, I feel that few judges, if any, of the Municipal court would have fared better under the circumstances as stated than I did in regard to the questionnaire of the bar association, where such wide publicity was given to unfounded charges at the same time the questionnaire was sent to the membership of the association.

The Chicago Bar Record of February, 1940—the official publication of the Chicago Bar association—contains on page 206 the substance of the report exonerating me. I feel that in the interest of fairness you will wish to have the real facts which are all matters of record.

CUT RATES FOR UNCLE SAM.

Menominee, Mich., Feb. 13.—Your Sunday's editorial on railroads has been mailed to our congressman, Fred Bradley.

May I suggest the introduction of a bill in congress compelling the government to pay published rates the same as every other user of the rails; that the old land grant subsidies be abolished? This would be a step in the right direction, for with many railroads in bankruptcy or critical financial condition, preferential service to government departments at a loss makes matters worse, involves the security of a million workers, and makes it more difficult to get better trains and safer tracks to ride on.

THE FARMERS' REPLY.

Crown Point, Ind., Feb. 12.—In today's Voice of the People George Weston asks: "On what grounds do farmers demand special privileges?"

On the grounds the manufacturers have had special privileges for the last 50 years in the way of a protective tariff which got everything out of balance so far that the price of the farmers' product could not be exchanged for the price of the manufactured product. Take the special privilege from the other fellow and the farmers will not ask for any. The farm question is the tariff question.

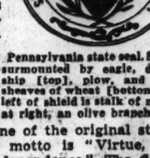
How Our States Got Their Names

36. PENNSYLVANIA.



Pennsylvania state seal. Shield, more surmounted by eagle, depicts ship [top], plow, and three sheaves of wheat [bottom]. At left of shield is stalk of maize; at right, an olive branch.

Pennsylvania was named after William Penn, father of the famous William Penn, by King Charles II. of England. Penn is the Welsh word for "head," thus the name means "high" or "head woodlands," or, more simply, "Penn's woods." Pennsylvania was one of the original states.

The state motto is "Virtue, Liberty and Independence." The flower is the mountain laurel, the bird the ruffled grouse, and the tree the hemlock. Nicknames include the Coal, Steel, Oil, Keystone, and Quaker state. One explanation for the Keystone nickname is that the state's initials were placed on the 13th or keystone in the arch of the old Pennsylvania avenue bridge in Washington, D. C., when the government was moved there. William Penn was a Quaker. The other names explain themselves.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

ESTATE ASSETS.

Chicago, Feb. 13 [Legal Friend of the People].—A relative recently fell heir to a small lot with an old house on it worth a few hundred dollars. As proven legal heir [1] is an administrator or court probate necessary?

2. Can he be the administrator and [3] is an attorney necessary? The deceased received a few dollars monthly rent for part of the house, not enough for his support and was given old age assistance of a small monthly amount for about three years.

4. Is it the law or a rule of the state that this must be refunded from his estate?

5. If so, can this be successfully contested by the heir?

6. It would mean almost confiscation of the estate to make this refund.

C. R.

1. Probate would be necessary in order to produce a readily salable title to real estate, but conceivably a purchaser could be found who would be willing to waive the requirement.
2. Yes.
3. This question asks as to his capacities. You are in a better position to estimate them than we are. Ordinarily it is advisable to employ an attorney.
4. Both.
5. No.
6. The purpose of the pension is to take care of the recipient's current needs rather than to enable him to leave his assets intact to his heirs at his death.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

STOCK CERTIFICATES.

Chicago, Feb. 12 [Legal Friend of the People].—I own a small block of stock and [1] had a friend's signature added, for convenience, in case of inability to handle same at any time.

2. What procedure should be taken to have only the owner's name on the stock certificate?

E. P.

1. We cannot advise to advantage without knowing the context in which the names are used. It seems probable that the context is such as to indicate that the friend owns an undivided fraction.
2. If the friend is willing to sign on the back to give up his share, you should sign with him, have the signatures guaranteed by a bank, and send the certificate to the transfer officer of the corporation with a request that a new certificate be issued in your name.

JAPS OPEN DRIVE TO BOOST TRADE WITH ARGENTINA

Welcome Economic Group from South America.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Feb. 16.—Japan today welcomed an economic mission from Argentina which came for the purpose of increasing the reciprocal trade between the two countries. This is in line with Japan's recent efforts to develop new markets and find new sources of raw materials as a result of the so-called danger of placing too much reliance on the United States.

Japan's trade with Argentina in 1937 amounted to $18,792,000 and dropped to half that last year.

Seek to Improve Trade.

Japan invited the mission for the purpose of developing a plan to improve trade. Argentina seeks greater markets for wool, wheat, casein, quebracho, tanning extracts, and hides. Japan desires to increase textile and merchandise exports.

[Casein is a by-product of milk which is made into powdered milk, plastics, glue, and artificial wool. Quebracho is a tropical hardwood tree. Medicines and dyeing products are made from its bark.]

The first round table conference will be held next Wednesday when it is expected that a quota agreement will be reached.

Urges Aid for Churchmen.

The Japanese government was asked in the diet [parliament] today to extend financial aid to American missionaries in China. The request was made by Hajime Hoshi, a member of the Seiyukai party and a leading drug manufacturer. He asked for $2,349,000.

Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita promised to study the matter. Hoshi urged Japan to undertake cultural work in China in coöperation with American missionaries.

Raid French Railway Again.

KUNMING, Yunnan Province, China, Feb. 16 (AP). — Japanese warplanes again raided the French operated Hanoi-Kunming railway in Yunnan province today, but first reports said they had failed to inflict serious damage.

The raid occurred between Klayuan and the French Indo-China border. The line, a vital channel for Chinese war supplies, has been bombed many times since the Japanese established a base in nearby Kwangsi province last November.

Both France and the United States have made representations against the raids.

BRAZIL SEEKS 21 NATION PROTEST TO GREAT BRITAIN

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Feb. 16 (AP).—Brazil called on Panama today to consult with the other American republics on the desirability of a collective protest to Great Britain against a new violation of the Pan-American neutrality belt because of last Monday's action which led to the scuttling of the German freighter Wakama.

Foreign Minister Oswaldo Aranha asked such consultation in a note to Foreign Minister Narciso Garay of Panama notifying him officially of the scuttling of the merchantman inside the zone set up by the 21 American republics.

The note said the Wakama was scuttled by its own crew when a British warship detained it for inspection and capture, which it said was a belligerent action in accordance with the 13th Hague convention and was carried out within waters adjoining the American continent which the American republics have a right to keep free of any hostile action.

Panama is the agency thru which the American republics handle issues affecting their common neutrality policies.

HITLER DEMANDS NEUTRALS ACT AS STRICT NEUTRALS

BERLIN, Feb. 16 (AP).—Adolf Hitler's Voelkischer Beobachter tonight declared that Germany demands strict neutrality from neutral states, not merely "renunciation of direct warlike acts" or "lip service for official usage."

This sharp editorial developed a theme first expressed by Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels in instructing Nazi orators this week. This time, however, Belgium and Switzerland were mentioned.

"The German people never will forget any one who refuses this moderate demand," said the newspaper. "We believe that neutrals are obliged to record war events and the attitude of belligerent nations at least objectively. What a number of them are doing is, however, exactly the opposite."

German Printer Forges Meat Cards; Gets 3 Years

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 16.—A third of a pound of meat illegally acquired today cost a 49 year old Berlin printer his civil rights for life and three years in the penitentiary. He was charged with forging meat rationing cards. The forgery was crude, however, and was detected by the first butcher he approached.

Donnan told the judge he and his wife have been married only four months and were in the process of making up after their first quarrel when a Warren avenue squad car came along and found the street obstructed.

FRENCH DEPUTIES FLAY CENSORSHIP OF NEWS ON WAR

Complain Propaganda in U. S. Is Impeded.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 16.—The attempt of the French military to gag the freedom of the press was given a thoro airing today in the chamber of deputies. Spokesmen of the right and left joined in denouncing the censorship for the alleged incompetence and partiality it has shown since war was declared on Germany.

Leon Blum.

Broadsides were delivered by Leon Blum, Socialist leader and former premier, and Xavier Vallat, extreme rightist, who is practically always on the opposite side of the political barricades.

Blum raked the government in a two hour speech. The climax was a caustic criticism of the way in which the censorship has impeded the functioning of French propaganda in neutral countries, particularly the United States.

Cites German Success.

Basing his remarks on statistics supplied by the American press, Blum said that since the war began 31 out of every 100 lines of news copy published in the United States were from Germany and only five from France. As far as news photographs and news reels were concerned, he said, the comparison between the reich and France was even more disastrous from the French viewpoint.

He blamed this state of affairs less on the commissariat of information than on the censorship, which, he asserted, held up newsworthy information and photographs until their propaganda value in the United States was destroyed.

Blum cited the case of a provincial journal from which a leading article was deleted because it revealed information dating from the eighteenth century—presumably regarded as vital military information by the censorship.

Blum Proposes Remedy.

The remedy which Blum proposed was to separate the censorship from any connection with the dissemination of information and the establishment of closer links between it and the daily press.

He also recommended drastic shakeups in the personnel of the propaganda agencies, which he said should be put under a single direction.

GERMAN ATTACKS ON POLES BRING VATICAN PROTEST

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 16.—Msgr. Cesare Orsenigo, papal nuncio to Berlin who saw Baron Ernst von Weizsaecker, undersecretary for foreign affairs, in Berlin yesterday, made "strong representations" about persecutions in German occupied Poland, it was disclosed today. It was said the nuncio's visit had nothing to do with any peace plan, contrary to reports in Berlin, nor was peace discussed. In some circles this was considered the Holy See's answer to the protest which Diego von Bergen, the German ambassador here, made to the papal secretariat of state after the Vatican radio broadcast conditions in western Poland. The protest was rejected.

10,000 German Children to Put on Wooden Shoes

BERLIN, Feb. 16.—Wooden shoes may become the rage in Germany. In Silesia, some 10,000 pairs of wooden shoes are being manufactured. The shoes are designed chiefly for workers' children. A shoemaker has developed a machine which can make a pair of wooden shoes in five minutes.

Paraguay Cabinet Quits to Give President Free Hand

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Feb. 16 (AP).—The Paraguayan cabinet resigned today after a meeting with President General José Estigarribia. The only official explanation for the resignation of the cabinet, which was formed last Aug. 15, was that the ministers wanted to give the president a free hand to carry out his program.

PARIS PREPARES FOR REMOVAL OF 200,000 CHILDREN

PARIS, Feb. 16 (AP).—Municipal and government authorities are coöperating on arrangements for a possible second—and larger—exodus of Paris school children as a "natural foresight."

Only about 50,000 children were sent away at the start of the war. During the recent quiet months many have returned. Now arrangements are under way to send 200,000 to the provinces, if necessary.

Children up to 14 years old will be included in the new project. The French plan, similar to the British, envisages billeting as many as possible in provinces most likely to remain remote from the war.

One of the first considerations, officials said, will be to keep families together where possible, sending mothers with their children.

Parkville, Ill., Feb. 16 [Special].—Henry Hatchell, 70 years old, a lifelong resident of this community, died last night from burns suffered when a can of kerosene exploded on a stove in his home.

RED SWAMPED BY GANDHI'S AID IN INDIA ELECTION

BOMBAY, India, Feb. 16 (AP).—Final returns today in the all-India congress party's presidential election showed that the Indian communist leader, Mahendranath Roy, the left wing candidate, was overwhelmingly defeated. Maulana Abul Kalam Azad, a leader of Mohandas K. Gandhi's right wing, was elected with 1,861 votes against Roy's 183.

The Gandhi disciple received heavy support even from the leftist faction.

Roy is a widely known communist figure, having been active in China during the period of communist influence there in 1927. He was arrested by the British authorities in India in 1932, and was ordered deported for 12 years. The sentence was rescinded, however, and he again became active.

THREE HELD AS AUTO THIEVES.

Dixon, Ill., Feb. 16 [Special].—Clyde Pratt, 21, and Justin Nagziger and Melvin Schultheis, 19, arrested by Rock Falls police last night for allegedly stealing an automobile belonging to Kenneth Dusing from his locked garage here, were held to the Lee county grand jury today following a hearing. In lieu of $1,000 bond each they were held in the county jail.

URGES NATIONAL GOVERNMENT TO UNITE CANADA

BRANDON, Man., Feb. 16 (AP).—An appeal to Canadians to forget peacetime differences, political and otherwise, in a united prosecution of the war thru a national government was sounded tonight by the Conservative leader, Dr. R. J. Manion.

"No one party, be it Liberal or Conservative, can satisfy the Canadian people by giving them the united, enthusiastic, wholehearted effort that is needed," Dr. Manion stated in his first campaign broadcast, over a dominion-wide network.

His national government would include "some of the best minds in the country," and possibly a capable woman specially qualified in some social or other problem, he said. It would not, he asserted, be an instrument for introducing conscription or railway amalgamation, as its opponents were suggesting.

THE COURTLINESS OF '90s PAYS A CALL ON CHARLIE

Doorman Celebrates His Golden Jubilee.

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

Time paused for a moment yesterday as a long limousine glided up and an old gentleman with a sweeping gray mustache, derby hat, pearl gray spats, pearl gray gloves, and gold headed walking stick alighted at the Washington street entrance of Marshall Field's store.

Emissary of Chicago yesterdays, he came on a mission that took him only to the door—not beyond it. Five minutes later he was back in the car, robe neatly spread over his knees, bowing a courtly adieu at the window.

The eyes of the doorman, Charlie Pritzlaff, followed the car until the traffic lights changed and it swept around the corner.

It's Charlie's Golden Jubilee.

"That," said smiling Charlie, "was Mr. Frederick Bulkley Tuttle. He didn't forget. Always the perfect gentleman! Do you know why he came? He came to congratulate me." Mr. Tuttle had touched the spring of Charlie's memories—Charlie who has watched 50 years of Chicago history pass down the street and swing thru his door.

Monday will be his golden anniversary at his job. This morning in the president's office, Frederick D. Corley will present Charlie with his jubilee bonus check.

Today brings the bonus check. But yesterday brought Mr. Tuttle, and the memories.

Visitor Noted Victorian Beau.

"Mr. Tuttle," reminisced Charlie, "was the beau of the town back in the Victorian era. A noted host, he was, and a famed leader of cotilions. The society pages always describe his dinners as 'a gourmet's delight.' He gives them to this day. Times without number I handed him out of his fine carriage at this door. The old gentleman is 93 now [Charlie is a mere 75]. His home at 2022 South Michigan avenue is one of the few islands that remain of the old days of gracious living and fine manners in that district. Once all the first families were his neighbors."

Mr. Tuttle, who inherited a fortune in Chicago real estate holdings from his father, has resided in his south Michigan home for 67 years.

What was it like at the very beginning of the gay nineties when Charlie first took his doorman's post? Well, the store was in the old Singer building then, there were no display windows, and the streets were paved with cobble stones. Charlie was a lad from a Wisconsin farm. He knew horses. He asked H. Gordon Selfridge, the retail store manager, for a job on a delivery wagon. Mr. Selfridge looked the young man over.

Serves Three Generations.

"You'd make a good doorman," he decided. Three generations agreed.

It was February, 1890. The popular tunes were "Down Went McGinty" and "Little Annie Rooney."

That was the decade of Mrs. Potter Palmer, best known and most admired woman in the country during the World's Columbian exposition. Charlie remembers she always were two coachmen in maroon livery on her carriage.

Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick had a fine team of steel roans. Marshall Field used to walk to the store, with the coachman driving the carriage behind him. But if the merchant had a little use for his horses, the women of the household had some of the finest in the city, Charlie says. The Cudahys, the Swifts, the Libbys, the Chalmers, McCormicks, Ryersons, Brewsters, Blairs, Mrs. J. Ogden Armour and her sister-in-law, Mrs. P. A. Valentine—Charlie new the older generations of all these families.

Knows Royalty and Great.

As for the celebrities, there was the haughty and beauteous Infanta of Spain, who visited the store during the Columbian exposition; Prince Henry of Prussia, Lloyd George of the great white mane; and Teddy Roosevelt. But one of the nicest of them all was President McKinley, who stood and chatted with Charlie while Mrs. McKinley was inside being fitted for the gown she was to wear to his inauguration. And not so long ago there was the prince of Wales, later King Edward VIII. of England, now the duke of Windsor. These are a few of the 110,000 names Charlie has written in a book of the people he has met.

Charlie's home is at 4538 North Ashland avenue. He owns the building. There, too, live his two daughters, Violette and Rosalie, named, at her request, for Mrs. H. Gordon Selfridge's own daughters.

SLATTERY TALK DEDICATES NEW ARMORY TONIGHT

United States Senator James M. Slattery, representing Gov. Horner, will deliver the principal address tonight at dedication ceremonies for Illinois' newest National Guard armory at Chicago avenue and Seneca street.

The new building consists of the old 122d field artillery armory and a large annex which has been built on the west end. The annex, built as a PWA project, and costing $600,000, was occupied on the first of the year by the 2d squadron of the 106th cavalry consisting of troop E [Blackhorse troop], and troop F, and the headquarters battery of the 58th field artillery brigade, in addition to the 122d field artillery regiment. The new armory now has an arena 302 feet long by 127 feet wide, with clubrooms for officers and enlisted personnel, kitchens, recreation rooms, a gymnasium, 200 horse stalls, and a pistol and machine gun range.

Among those who will attend the ceremonies will be Brig. Gen. Lawrence V. Regan, adjutant general; Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn, and Brig. Gen. Samuel T. Lawton. Military demonstrations and a polo game between the 122d artillerymen and the Black Horse troop will follow.

A ROCKEFELLER GIFT HORSE GETS AN $11,000 WHOA

Lakewood, N. J., Feb. 16 (AP).—Ocean county has been offered the sumptuous 500 acre estate of the late John D. Rockefeller as a gift, but county officials aren't sure they want it.

The Lakewood estate has a 30 room mansion, a nine hole golf course where the oil magnate was wont to play, and two artificial lakes.

The Lakewood Taxpayers' association has protested against accepting the gift because the property then would become tax exempt and the township would lose $11,000 annually in taxes.

Mr. Barlow was born in New York and came to Chicago in 1892. He and his brother conducted Barlow's Pavilion at Archer avenue and State street during the Columbian exposition. Mr. Barlow then returned to New York, where he was associated in the auctioneering business with an uncle. He returned to Chicago in 1899 and joined the auctioneering firm which he later purchased. COUNTY FORESTS PROVIDE PRAIRIE CHICKEN HAVEN

Program to Replenish Wild Life Started.

Fourteen prairie chickens stepped gingerly from holding pens yesterday at the Orland Park game sanctuary, 143d street and U. S. highway 45, ruffled their feathers, and set out to explore their new home.

Thus was marked the first step in a new program of replenishing the Cook county forest preserves with wild life which has been extinct in this section for many years. A large section of the forest area will be restored to its primitive conditions to provide a natural habitat for fowl and animals.

Only Ones in County.

The prairie chickens, trapped near Salem, Marion county, were released by Lynn H. Hutchens, wild life technician of the forest preserves. He said the birds—ten hens and four cocks—are believed to be the only prairie chickens in Cook county.

"Years ago there were thousands of them," Hutchens said. "Then, as farming became intensified in this area and their natural cover was removed, they gradually disappeared."

But the 14 newcomers will find things to their liking now. A preserve area will be planted and left to flourish for them. Hay lands will be provided and corn and soy beans will be planted to supply food.

Expect Them to Multiply.

"We don't know how fast they will multiply," Hutchens said. "If these 14 get established we'll expect a slight increase in two or three years."

Ruffed grouse will be stocked next spring in the Palos Hills forest preserve. Hutchens said no ruffed grouse are known to exist in Illinois now, altho they were plentiful 15 or 20 years ago. The stock will be obtained in Wisconsin.

Red pine squirrels — chickarees — are expected to be stocked in the forest preserves this year as the next step in replenishing the animal life. Hutchens said they are relatively abundant in the northern part of Illinois.

INDORSE MUSEUM TAX BILL IF FREE NIGHTS PREVAIL

The All-Chicago Committee on Museums will urge legislative provisions of additional funds for Chicago museums provided the money is made contingent upon free evening hours of opening, Mrs. Anne V. Zinser, committee chairman, said yesterday.

Museum representatives will seek passage of a bill providing approximately $600,000 annually in the proposed special session of the legislature. The measure would correct defects in a previous tax levy for museums which the Illinois Supreme court invalidated last year.

Mrs. Zinser said the museums are too expensive to justify public tax support without providing free evening recreation. C. C. Gregg, Field museum director, said experience indicates that museum visitors are insufficient to justify the night programs urged by the committee.

CARLOS E. BLACK, EX-ADJ. GENERAL, IS STRICKEN AT 64

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 16 (AP).—Carlos E. Black, retired adjutant general of the Illinois National Guard, was reported "some better" in St. John's hospital tonight following a heart attack. It was the second seizure in less than a year for the 64 year old soldier.

Dr. H. H. Southwick said the patient had responded favorably but added that he was still in a critical condition. He was stricken as he sat in his automobile while his wife was shopping. His earlier attack came last March 25.

Gen. Black retired as adjutant general of the state military forces last Aug. 24, his 64th birthday. He was succeeded by Lieut. Col. Lawrence V. Regan.

VALUE OF $492,819 PUT ON ESTATE OF H. M. MARKS

The estate of Harold M. Marks, a Chicago investment broker who died April 5, was placed at $492,819 in a state inheritance tax return filed yesterday with the county clerk of Lake county. The return was filed by Marks' widow, Adele, 434 Egandale road, Highland Park, and the First National Bank of Chicago, executors. Expenses of administration were listed at $216,106. The federal estate tax was estimated at $68,592 and the state inheritance tax at $4,928.

Warn Parents to Keep Children Off Lake Ice

Police and coast guard officials issued a joint warning yesterday asking parents to keep their children from walking on the thin ice along the lake shore. Police have been sent to the Rogers Park area daily to order boys off the ice. A police detail was posted there yesterday.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Jessie Case Wallis.

Racine, Wis., Feb. 16 [Special].—Mrs. Jessie Case Wallis, 78 years old, widow of Henry M. Wallis and the daughter of the late Jerome I. Case Sr., founder of the great farm implement concern that bears his name, died today at her Wind Point estate north of Racine. Mrs. Wallis lived her entire life in Racine and was a leader in its social activities. Her death today resulted as the aftermath of a fall in which she fractured her hip two months ago. Private funeral services will be held Saturday. Burial will be in Mound cemetery. ECHOES OF HITLER TERROR HEARD AT CHICAGO INQUEST Fearful Refugee Tells of Wife's Death.

An inquest was opened yesterday into the death of Mrs. Erda Sears, a German refugee who died here Thursday night from an overdose of drugs. Last night her husband, Walter, was still fearful of discussing the tragedy, for he has never forgotten the terror of the Nazi concentration camp in which he was imprisoned for two years.

"What is there to say?" he asked over and over again. "I mustn't say anything. I still have my parents in the old country. If I talk too much . . ."

But from friends and from Sears' halting and brief testimony at the inquest, a part of the story was revealed.

Once Prosperous and Happy.

Sears, 38 years old, fair haired and handsome, was a prosperous business man in pre-Hitler Germany. Ten years ago he married Erda, a young opera singer. He was Jewish, she was not. But their life was completely happy.

Then Hitler achieved power and the Nuremburg and other anti-Jewish laws were passed. Sears was stripped of his belongings and cast into a concentration camp. Erda was barred from following her musical career.

After two years Sears was released. With Erda and their two children, he sailed for the United States.

"We thought we would start a new life in America," he told Deputy Coroner Zeno Kopecky at the inquest. "I got a job in a clothing store; my wife worked in a tearoom. She kept brooding. Last New Year's day she tried to end her life, but failed. She was always sad."

The coroner's jury heard the short, poignant story. They continued the inquest until March 8. Sears returned to his children at their apartment at 5425 Dorchester avenue.

Fears Keep Him Silent.

There, last night, he and those who had come to know the refugee family sat in quiet mourning. To outsiders who asked Sears for some additional facts there was the oft repeated, polite answer, backed by the fear of what might happen if he talked too much.

"I'm sorry. I dare not say a word. True, I spoke at the inquest," he said. "I was obliged to do that. I had to do what was right. I want to do everything that is right in America. But I can't say anything about things over there. My parents, my relatives still live there."

SETS FOUR DAYS TO HEAR ECKHART MARRIAGE WOES

Judge Cornelius J. Harrington yesterday set aside four days—March 12, 13, 14, and 15—for sifting the marital troubles of Harold Eckhart, a vice president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, and his estranged wife, Ruby, of 1025 Pine street, Winnetka.

Mrs. Eckhart sued for separate maintenance last fall. On Nov. 18 Eckhart filed a 40 page answer, which included a cross bill for divorce. In an answer to this bill, now on file, Mrs. Eckhart made a general denial of charges by her husband that she was guilty of continual fault-finding, nagging, and cruel and inhuman treatment during their married life, which began in 1912.

Mrs. Eckhart stated her husband's yearly salary is $23,000 and that he is worth more than $250,000.

AIR LINE WANTS NO STORK ON ITS PASSENGER LIST

Fish Story.

Sam Harris, in town with his bride, the former Peggy Watson, attractive sister of George Brent, told the latest nonsense story:

Two brothers went fishing. One caught eight fish and the other didn't get a nibble. The next day they went out again and the first brother caught eighteen, the other none.

"You're a Jonah to me," he told his successful brother. "Tomorrow I go out alone."

The third day he went fishing by himself and after fourteen hours of angling, without catching a fish, he reeled in his line and headed his boat for shore. Just then a fish jumped up out of the water. "Where's your brother?" it inquired.

Cuff Notes.

Louis Bromfield was at the Pump room Thursday evening, accompanied by George Hawkins, his manager, chatting in French with Simone Simon. He is on his way to his Ohio farm after completing a script for Charles Laughton—an original story, not an adaptation. . . . Apropos the cracks about John Barrymore in My Dear Children, Barrymore has to imbibe considerably before his memory or his eloquence is impaired. Once when he was at Nyack visiting Helen Hayes and Charles MacArthur, drinking steadily, they counted at least four bottles that he had consumed, but at 4 a. m., when they gave him Chaucer to read, he could still do it—and admirably.

• • •

Now it's a chickburger sandwich—if you can bear it. . . . The Chicago Nursery and Half Orphan asylum is sponsoring a benefit performance of Life with Father Tuesday evening at the refurbished Blackstone, and its children, who sing with the Civic Music association, will sing between acts. Maybe the half orphans will think there's some recompense in not having fathers if they see the play and observe how tyrannical one can be. . . . Virginia Lamb telephoned the night clerk of a north side hotel to ask if Raymond Massey were registered and the clerk answered, "Yes, but he's out splitting rails now."

New York Effrontery.

There has been ironic comment in Chicago because New York advertisiments of the Italian Masters exhibit, now in that city, intimated that the exhibit had come straight to New York from the San Francisco World's Fair, entirely omitting the fact that some 265,000 persons saw the pictures during their two months' stay at the Chicago Art institute.

More recent examples of eastern effrontery lie in the letters prominent Chicagoans have received asking them to contribute to the Boston Symphony orchestra, the Metropolitan opera, and to be sustaining members of the Museum of Modern Art in New York. One particularly civic-minded Chicagoan was asked to contribute to all three, as well as to a New York home for crippled children. Not long ago we heard a member of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra association comment, with feeling, that he had had a letter asking him to contribute to the Boston Symphony orchestra.

"Perhaps we are dumb, but we never ask New York to support our museum, our orchestra, our opera, and our charities," said the Chicagoan asked to contribute to many New York organizations. "I think it borders on impertinence." Readers probably will agree. It's time New York realized that Chicago has its own opera, museum, and orchestra of equal or superior quality to New York's, and dependent on the support of Chicagoans.

Number of Gay Parties Break Winter Quiet

BY JUDITH CASS.

A NUMBER of gay little parties of all sorts and kinds have come along to brighten the midwinter quiet period. They range from the Merrill Shepards' annual auction of paintings tonight to an "elegant eighties" luncheon at the Arts club next Tuesday for Mrs. Clarence Day Jr. of New York.

The Shepards' party always is a gay one, and a late one, for the auction of the pictures that will be painted during the afternoon and early evening won't begin until after midnight. Mrs. Shepard, who paints under her maiden name of Eleanor DeLaittre, Edgar Miller and his sister, Hester Miller Murray; Taylor Poore, Rainey Bennett, Olga Segarburg, and Joseph Feher are some of the artists who will start on canvases at about 2 o'clock in Mrs. Shepard's studio in East Schiller street.

John Averill, Edward Boehmer, and Charles Majers are other artists who will contribute works to the auction. Later tonight their friends will start gathering, following numerous small dinners such as the one Mr. and Mrs. James W. Rogers are having. Mr. Shepard will act as the auctioneer, and bids will fly over midnight schnaps and liquid refreshments. Receipts from the pictures pay for the party.

Etiquet of Eighties to Rule at Luncheon.

The luncheon that Miss Herma Clark is giving for Mrs. Day is but one of several parties planned for the widow of Clarence Day, on whose writings the play "Life with Father" was based. The play is opening on Monday night at the Blackstone theater with Lillian Gish and Percy Waram in the leading rôles of Mother and Father.

Mrs. Day, who made every effort to make the stage settings a reproduction of the home of her late husband's parents in New York, is entirely familiar with the fussy decor of the '80s. She and the other luncheon guests, who will include Margaret Ayer Barnes [Mrs. Cecil Barnes], Mrs. Lewis Bernays, Mrs. Harold C. Pynchon, and Mrs. Carter H. Harrison, will find many amusing '80s fashions at the luncheon table.

In the center will be a "caster," rescued from a Bureau county attic, with its bottles for two kinds of vinegar, oil, and mustard, and the hostess is supplying toothpicks in little blue glass hats, as they were served in "Father's" day. The napkins will be folded in the water glasses, the spoons will be found in spoon holers, and the celery will be served in celery vases ,according to the correct table setting etiquet of that day.

Edwin Embree, director of the Rosenwald fund, is giving a supper party in the Pump room of the Ambassador hotel Monday night for Mrs. Day, Miss Gish, Mr. Waram, and Oscar Serlin, producer of the play.

Edgar Miller Will Explain Picasso.

Edgar Miller, who has won considerable reputation as a modernist, will attempt to explain Picasso to members of the Tavern after dinner next Wednesday night. Mr. Miller will use lantern slides to illustrate his talk on "Picasso and the Moderns." In showing what lies behind Picasso's works, he will dwell particularly on the black and white mural "Guernica."

The Raymond Redheffers are giving a small dinner at the Fortnightly tomorrow night for Henry L. Mencken of Baltimore, who is spending a day or two here. The Redheffers have asked some of their literary friends to meet Mr. Mencken.

Miss Nancy Brown to Be Bride Today.

Mrs. Robert Butz is giving a luncheon today for Miss Nancy Brown and Clarence Boyd Jones, who are being married this afternoon. The bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. E. V. L. Brown entertained at dinner at the Indian Hill club last night following the rehearsal.

A Talented Home Maker

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Frederick Tuttle Williams, a bride of last fall, took a course in homemaking at the School of Domestic Arts and Sciences before she was marrie, as so many brides-to-be do nowadays. Consequently there are no burned dishes or spoiled food in the Williamses' Evanston apartment. Mrs. Williams was formerly Miss Geraldine Theiss.

Good Morning!

Once upon a time—shortly after the civil war, to be exact—there was a fierce Apache chief named Geronimo.

He made life a hazardous problem for the United States army, and pioneers crossing the country in covered wagons faced almost certain death from the arrows of Geronimo and his hordes.

Ruthless, implacable, his one-track mind concerned only with a mad desire to wipe out the whites because some of the race had murdered his wife and baby—Geronimo becomes such a menace that his depredations are brought before President Grant and congress.

The President details small, iron Gen. Steele, who has seen much Indian service, to make peace with the Apaches. . . . If such peace is impossible without war then [Lincoln said it] "the frontiers still must be made safe."

And now action as thrilling as any in "Stage Coach" unreels before your eyes. The audience, of which I was one, almost swallowed their [our] tongues with excitement during some of the episodes. There's seldom a break in the suspense. You'll never forget a couple of encounters between the Indians and the cavalry.

Geronimo is played savagely and convincingly by Chief Thunder Cloud, a full blooded Cherokee. I bet the director checked and double checked on his weapons, for Thunder Cloud is a fellow who MIGHT lose himself too completely in his work.

Ralph Morgan plays Gen. Steele most effectively. A hard rôle—and not always a credible one—but he handled it with finesse. Andy Devine never did a better piece of work than his portrayal of head of the army scouts and, of course, Preston Foster is THERE! They shouldn't keep him in storage the way they do! And ARE the girls going to be writing me letters about that young William Henry as young Steele! . . . The rest of the cast is splendid.

[I wish the piece hadn't gone so ten, twent', thirt' toward the last!]

See you tomorrow.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Medicine Men

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 16.—There is no subject which Hollywood has examined from so many angles as medicine and, as a result, the screen has projected more doctors than you can shake a stethoscope at. . . . We have had young doctors, middle aged doctors, city doctors, country doctors, drunken doctors, sober doctors, idealistic doctors, quacks.

In the last few weeks we've seen Edward G. Robinson as Dr. Ehrlich; Spencer Tracy as the east side clinic doctor in "I Take This Woman"; Harry Davenport as Dr. Meade in "Gone with the Wind"; Lew Ayres and Lionel Barrymore in the latest of the "Young Dr. Kildare" series; Paul Muni as the country doctor in "We Are Not Alone." . . . There seems to be a natural affinity between medicine men rôles and actors, the latter finding from happy experience that such characterizations are what the profession calls "fat parts."

It was Robert Donat's rôle of the doctor in "The Citadel" which made him a man to remember . . . In "A Man to Remember," the part of the doctor zoomed Edward Ellis to distinction after a series of unimportant parts.

Best notices that Tyrone Power received last year resulted from his rôle of the medicine man in "The Rains Came," in which he introduced the first M. D. wearing a turban. . . . As the young doctor in "Four Wives" Comedian Eddie Albert proved that he could handle light dramatic fare. . . . It was "Society Doctor" that directed attention to Robert Taylor, and he followed it up with "Magnificent Obsession."

Jean Hersholt was plodding along until he got the part of Dr. Dafoe in the Dionne quints' flicker . . . Today he's hot rtuff as Dr. Christian . . . "Dark Victory" offered George Brent a new lease on life as Dr. Frederick Steele, an adrenalin injection in the Brent career . . . Charles Boyer's characterization of the doctor in "Private Worlds" was the first Boyer demonstration which got the ladies swooning in the aisles.

The doctor in "Green Light" established Errol Flynn . . . Fredric March won the Academy award for "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" . . . Charles Coburn's drunken doctor in "Of Human Hearts" was matched by Thomas Mitchell's drunken doctor in "Stagecoach" . . . Edward G. Robinson won raves in "The Amazing Dr. Clitterhouse" . . . Charles Winninger was terrific as the country doctor in "Nothing Sacred," and Donold Crisp, as the doctor in "Jezebel" etched one of his finest performances.

The consensus in Hollywood is that if "Dr. Ehrlich's Magic Bullet" had been released a few months earlier, Edward G. Robinson would have been a conspicious bidder for this year's academy honors. The picture is a turning point in Robinson's career and vindicates the 47 year old actor who all these years has claimed that he should be playing this sort of rôles.

Every one scoffed at Robinson's self-confidence and attributed it to actor-conceit, but Robinson has put his cards on the table and produced four aces. In fact, he is so good as Ehrlich that the wags are saying Warners are planning to star him in "The Life of Paul Muni."

His career has demonstrated a wide range of versatility. In his very first play on the stage, "Under Fire," Robinson played four different rôles. He portrayed a French spy, a German soldier, a Belgian farmer, and an English "Cockney" soldier. And ever since, he has shuttled gracefully between tragedy and comedy, stacking up a record for histrionic variety.

Robinson's first dramatic appearance was made at the age of 14. The show was called "One Touch of Nature," and was an amateur production, staged and acted by kids of New York's east side. Robinson's fellow actors included George and Ira Gershwin, Arthur and Irving Caesar and Judge Jonah Goldstein. The gags were written for the show by David Freedman.

Eddie's family frowned on the acting profession and sent him to college and Columbia university to study law. But Eddie knew that his folks respected George Arliss, who had portrayed "Disraeli," so while still in college, Robinson wrote an earnest letter to Arliss asking his advice as to the best way to become an actor.

Altho Arliss didn't know him, he took the trouble to answer him promptly, writing in long hand and advising him to get as much technical knowledge of acting as he could and then try for a job with a stock company: that stock company training was the best a young actor could receive. Armed with the letter from Arliss, Eddie won his parents' permission to attend the American academy.

He was graduated from the academy at the age of 19 and promptly encountered difficulty in convincing theatrical managers that he was an actor. He pleaded with them, don't judge me by my face—give me a chance to act and then judge me!" He thought his face, with its broad nose and thick lips were his misfortune.

But then in 1915, Robinson got his four-rôle job in "Under Fire," and producers started to notice him. A wide variety of rôles followed. He was a crook in "Under Sentence," a Swedish inventor in "The Deluge,"

Miss Ann Hall Will Be Among the June Brides

Romantic news continues to be of interest as more wedding plans are revealed each day. Miss Ann Elizabeth Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Phelps Hall, and Lewis Carlton Davis are making plans for a June wedding, probably at St. James' church. The news of their engagement was made known this week.

Miss Hall, a graduate of the Girls' Latin school, was introduced to society in 1937. She spent a year at Mount Vernon Junior college in Washington, D. C., and a year in business and now is attending the School of Domestic Arts and Sciences. She makes her home with her grandmother, Mrs. John Burton Foley, and her aunt and uncle, Mrs. William D. Beggs and J. Burton Foley, who just have moved to a new apartment at 202 East Walton place.

Mr. Davis is a graduate of the Harvard School of Business Administration. He is engaged in business in Chicago.

A romance that blossomed while Miss Karen Gardner was visiting in Hawaii last fall came to light when friends of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Milton Gardner, received invitations to the marriage reception of Miss Gardner and Lieut. John Elwood Henry at 3 o'clock on March 6 at the Tavern club.

Lieut. Henry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Henry of Ridgefield Park, N. J. He was graduated from Hobart college and is in the United States army air corps, stationed in Hawaii.

Friends of the Joseph Grant Delaplaine family have a double wedding to which to look forward this spring, for Mr. and Mrs. Delaplaine today are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Marion, to Robert Madison Schwer of Long Beach, Cal. A few days ago they announced the engagement of Miss Martha Delaplaine to Charles Warren Stiger Jr. of Oak Park.

Mr. Schwer's parents are Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Schwer of Beverly Hills, Cal.

The double wedding will take place on March 30 at 8 o'clock in the evening at the First Congregational Church of Oak Park, the Rev. Albert B. Coe officiating. A reception will follow at the Delaplaine home. Mr. Schwer and his bride will live in Long Beach. Mr. Stiger and his bride will live in Oak Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kopper of Winnetka announce the engagement of their daughter, Anne Elizabeth, to Hugh Henry Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. David H. Campbell of Wilson, Mich. The wedding will take place in June.

From the Rev. Thaddeus F. Gullixson's sermon at the noonday lenten service in the Erlanger theater:

"Twenty-five years ago mankind was racing boastfully down the road all centered in self, proudly rejecting God, and building palaces to the glory of his own self-sufficiency. Masses believed in the high priests of this philosophy. Today they are disillusioned, afraid of the machine created by man.

"Once more are life's four essential needs vainly seeking satisfaction: reality for the understanding, love in which the heart may warm itself instead of freezing in the night, authority for the will which directs and restrains, and power for the good life."

DISCOVER EVIDENCE UNIVERSES COLLIDED COUNTLESS AGES AGO

New York, Feb. 16 [Special].—Discovery of evidence of an unimaginable cosmic cataclysm, in which two island universes, each composed of billions of stars, crashed into one another some hundreds of millions of years ago, was reported here today. The evidence was presented in a lecture by Prof. Harlow Shapley, director of Harvard university observatory.

The evidence of this collision of universes, the first observational data of their kind, comes from the recent discovery at Harvard by Dr. Shapley of a tremendous "cosmic dent" in the smaller Magellanic Cloud. The dent consists of millions of giant stars knocked out of the regular configuration of the cloud and forming a sort of tail to the main body.

The origin of the earth and our solar system is generally believed to be due to a collision between two stars. Such a collision, however, would be mere tiny cosmic murmurs as compared with the collision of two vast universes, with their billions of stars and giant suns.

Bag Designers Meet Cry for Many Pockets

BY REA SEEGER.

When a famous bag maker decides to make pockets to end all pockets, the results are sensational. There is one handbag for instance that is nothing more or less than four pockets, all securely and smartly put together so that a stunning flat envelope bag is the finish.

Starting out with a small envelope about the size of a good coin purse, each envelope gets bigger till the fourth, which is the swanky size of a large under the arm envelope. Each flap is fastened snugly thru the flap of the smaller. Sounds complicated but it isn't.

New color pigskin is big news. It's called hazel, but ginger is the best resemblance. Decorative saddle stitching in light beige dramatizes in color contrast and trim. This same concentric assortment of four envelopes also comes in navy and red calfskin [also saddle stitched] and in patent leather with or without the handsome trim of stitchery.

Other pigskin bags boasting pockets are the large carry-alls with an extra pocket slapped on the exterior, fitted with a gold metal zipper. This bag has a wide strap handle. Another pigskin is quite the largest long bag yet unpacked for the early spring shoppers. It is stitched for contrast and exquisitely fitted with plenty of extra compartments. If pockets are what you want to flaunt, see the pigskin belt with two side affairs that look like military cases, both pockets having swank in outline, capacity and golden ginger tone.

The pigskins are priced more expensively than the calfskins or patent leathers, but such bags last a lifetime of shopping with average care.

THRU THE LOOKING GLASS

Our friends among the idle rich who can take time off to bask in the sun in midwinter tell us that honors are about evenly divided between those who insist on tanning and those who prefer to remain fair.

According to our bulletineers, if you want a tan you set out to get a deep bronze one. No half way measures about it. At at least one fashionable resort we checked on by remote control the favorite sun preparation for the tanners is a jelly that keeps the skin soft while the tan is being courted.

There is a vogue on the way, we're told, for a decided shine on the skin. Once you have a proper tan you dramatize it with sheen, and flit about with your bronzed skin frankly highlighted. For women with regular features [the only kind we've ever seen that can get away with a shiny finish] this is extremely smart. And for some reason or other, the lustrous finish is much better on tanned than on white skin.

We also hear that the suntan oil in capsules is immensely popular. You might stock up if you're about to take off for the sun spots.

The favorite protectives are the kind that don't show, the kind that serve unobtrusively as a base for makeup while shielding the skin from the sun's rays. A few of these are waterproof, which brings great joy to the girls who are athletic but don't want to look as thou they are.

This year, as last year, you can do as you like about keeping lily fair or darkening up. Fashion says—nice, obliging old girl—that you can write your own ticket.

The Girl in the Shadows

By Roy Vickers

[Copyright: 1940: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

SYNOPSIS.

On the eve of her marriage to Michael, Cynthia is wrongly sentenced to prison, the scapegoat of Rory Clarke. Michael knows nothing about it, as she has given the name of Clara Brown when arrested as Clarke's accomplice in a roadhouse robbery and murder. At the prison Cynthia's childhood friend, Bessie, is wardress and changes places with her so she can marry Michael without telling him of her disgrace. After the honeymoon Cynthia persuades her husband to return to his job in Malta without her and she returns to prison but soon discovers she is going to have a baby, so makes her escape. She goes to live with Michael's mother and sister, Marion, at Cloutleigh. Clarke blackmails her, and Scotland Yard, in search of Clarke get suspicious of Cynthia. Escorted by Sir William, a family friend, she attempts to fly to Malta to join Michael but is arrested at the airport. Her marriage date, when she was supposed to be in prison, clears her and she continues to Malta. Bessie applies for a job with Marion, and detectives question her, causing Marion to become suspicious, when she discovers that Bessie has cabled Cynthia a warning. Bessie is forced to explain to Marion. Michael finds the message, but Cynthia begs him to trust her. Marion is questioned by detectives and admits knowing Clarke, in an effort to shift the danger from her brother. While she is staying in Cynthia's London flat Clarke attempts to blackmail Marion, who becomes fascinated by his daring. The police trail him to her flat, but he escapes, using Marion as a shield. Cynthia's baby is born, and she and Michael plan to return to England with the baby. Michael is still puzzled about news he has read of Clarke's escape and the connection if any that Cynthia has with Clarke, but he does not tell Cynthia of his worries.

INSTALMENT XXXVI.

A PAINFUL DILEMMA.

Strangely, to Cynthia there came no sense of passing from security to danger. Her regret at leaving Malta was quite simply that she had been extremely happy there. Tho her conscious memory was unimpaired, it was true that in the emotional sense she had forgotten Rory Clarke and Honebyker prison.

Only sometimes when she held her son in her arms would her whole being remember the white-hot determination that he should not be born in prison. But it registered in her thoughts as a little secret between the baby and herself.

She was quite ready to believe Michael that when they reached home they would merely enter upon an expansion of the life they had lived in the bungalow in Malta. Letters from Bessie had contributed to this pleasing picture—nice, chatty unexciting letters about life at the Manor and the occasionally quaint sayings of Mrs. Alloway.

Traveling on foreign railways, even with the best of babies, is something of a problem. And so they had decided to go all the way by sea. The heat of the days was a little trying but the evenings were delicious. The Mediterranean was on its best behavior, and even in the Bay of Biscay there was scarcely a ripple.

Michael had wanted to book at the Parnassus, where they had spent their honeymoon, but Cynthia firmly insisted that it was too expensive. So to the Gulverbury they went, where Mrs. Alloway and Marion and Bessie were waiting for them.

Mrs. Alloway was a very proud grandmother, and talked the correct soothing nonsense to her grandson. Cynthia enjoyed it all, reveling in the family atmosphere.

If Detective Inspector Rason could have seen her then, wholly absorbed in such pleasing trivialities, he might have wavered in his conviction that this happy young wife and mother was indeed Clara Brown, a woman who had pulled off one of the most daring feats in prison history, who had further sustained a gigantic bluff in the presence of the prison officials themselves and the head of Scotland Yard.

The whole family were to have a week in London while Michael cleared up the odds and ends of his work, then a month's holiday at the Manor, after which Michael would start his next job, which was to be the building of a railway bridge on the outskirts of London. And that would mean a house in the suburbs.

It was not until the evening that Cynthia had a few minutes alone with Bessie. The one cloud Cynthia could see on her own horizon was the problem of Bessie's future.

"It's been a lovely rest at the Manor," Bessie told her. "And the wonderful thing is that he has left us alone after that one attempt to get at Miss Alloway."

For the first time Cynthia heard the story of the raid on the flat. She barely listened to the details, for she was thinking wholly of Marion.

"Then Marion knows everything there is to know?"

"I'm afraid she does, Miss Cynthia. You said I might tell her if necessary—and it really was necessary."

Yet Marion's manner had been much the same as usual—a bright friendliness in front of the family with an underlying coldness and suggestion of disapproval.

"And the police haven't troubled us, either," added Bessie. "I've had two letter from that Detective Sergeant Stevens, but they weren't about anything. Rather silly letters, I thought them."

"O! Is he an admirer, Bessie?"

Bessie sniffed.

"Time enough to think about that when we're out of this trouble, Miss Cynthia."

Cynthia did not see Marion alone until the following morning. Michael had to spend the day at the office. The baby was safe in the care of the Maltese nurse, and it was Marion herself who suggested a walk in Regent's park.

Marion behaved as a conventional sister-in-law—dry little comments and dry little anecdotes of the Manor—until they were in the heart of the park. Then she suddenly stopped and pointed to a plantation.

"I suppose it was in there that the escaped prisoner compelled you to change clothes with her!" she said with concentrated bitterness.

"That's unkind of you, Marion," protested Cynthia. "I had to tell you all or nothing. And naturally I had to lie to account for my movements." There was a silence and Cynthia added: "O, need we rake all that up? It's over and done with now."

"Is it!" echoed Marion in surprise. "I wouldn't be so sure of that if I were you." Then she harked back. "You were actually an escaped convict when you married Michael—knowing you would have to go back to prison."

"I loved Michael. I love him now and always shall, and he loves me. Does anything else matter?"

Marion's mouth set in a hard line.

"If I loved a man I wouldn't marry him by a trick. And a trick that might have cost him his career; might still cost him his career. Clarke may give you away at any time."

"He can't prove anything. Look what happened when I was arrested."

"Scotland Yard didn't know that Bessie had taken your place. Clarke does."

"You seem to forget," said Cynthia, "that I had done absolutely nothing wrong. Clarke turned up with a tale and I accepted an invitation and then I was convinced of helping him. I hadn't the least idea that he was a criminal."

Marion was unimpressed.

"It doesn't matter what excuses you invent for yourself," she said coldly. "We have to accept that you have done this thing to my brother."

"At least I took care that our child should not be born in prison." Marion paid no heed. She added: "What do you want me to do about it now, Marion?"

Again it was a long time before Marion answered.

"As I told you, Cynthia, I will stand by you for the sake of the family. But only," she added, "if you will stand by the family, too."

Cynthia did not know what was meant by that. She waited and presently to her horror came the explanation.

"If the blow were to fall it would do Michael less harm if you were not his wife."

"But I am his wife."

"You could leave him. And at least pretend to give him cause to divorce you."

For a moment she thought that Marion must be making some dreadful ill-timed joke. But only for a moment. The set, stern countenance left no doubt as to Marion's seriousness.

"That's impossible—and revolting," said Cynthia hotly. "Whatever happens, I will never do anything to make Michael believe I don't love him. If you had any idea what love is——"

"We needn't discuss that," snapped Marion. "I give you this warning, Cynthia. It's one thing to protect you from open scandal and from going back to prison. It's quite another to help you go on deceiving my brother. You can't say I am unreasonable. I will let things rest for the present. But if Clarke approaches you again I shall tell all I know to Michael. He will then know the danger he is facing and can take some steps to protect himself."

Robinson collects paintings and loves music. He can't play an instrument himself, but he seats himself before the player-piano and plays his favorite music rolls for hours. He once cut up 40 piano rolls and pasted them together in an attempt to create an original composition. His wife made him throw it away.

Robinson has a philosophy that should hearten youngsters. He claims that the idea that opportunity knocks but once is a fallacy. "If opportunity comes but once," Robinson says, "we might as well jump in the river after letting a first opportunity get away. As a matter of fact, success doesn't come from accepting any single opportunity, but is the sum of many opportunities. What could be more hopeless that the philosophy that a man is a condemned failure the moment he allows an opportunity to pass?"

His favorite quotation is Walter Malone's "They do me wrong who say I come no more when once I knock and fall to find you in, for every day I stand outside your door and bid you wake and rise to fight and win."

'Right Is Right' System Wrong for Children

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Right is right and wrong is wrong," says a "new" father. "I shall expect my son to learn that early in the game. I'll be just, but he'll do what I say because it's right and because I say so. I don't approve of getting around things with little children. Why should you use tact to get results?"

Well, I wish him luck, starting off early in the game with getting the moral slant over to his baby boy and putting across the do-as-I-say-because-I-say-it system! I've seen it attempted with doubtful success, meeting with all sorts of resistance; or if not that, subduing the natural fine curiosity of a child and his high spirit.

On the other hand, often "the longest way round is the shortest way home." A joke, a smile, a little story; a "let's skin the rabbit" when a snug slip or sweater must come off; a substitution of an unbreakable object when a fragile one must be taken away; a diverting of attention—these are not weakness or coaxing, but only forms of that invaluable ally in all human relations, tact. Or, if you like to feel virtuous or intellectual, they're all perfectly swell psychology!

Haven't you found that scolding [or spanking] will fail where going about things in the right way will meet with success? Or it may be that you have not resorted to spanking; but that probably there have been many times when you've done somethink equally ineffectual, commanding or trying to force an issue without getting results. Perhaps you've even hammered away on the wrong method, resenting the fact that it made no impression on your small child, who either resists you stubbornly like a little mule, or becomes flatly disobedient.

And then haven't you had other times when a divine tact or a state of poise and wisdom has led you to "go about it in the right way" and your small one has shown himself "good as gold?" And haven't you felt a special sort of happiness at these times?

There is a reason why "no" leaps to a little child's lips at certain times in his life, why obedience is only a name to him, why he's deaf when you call him. The mother who manages well knows why these things are so and knowing, learns how "to go about it in the right way," whether her child is two, ten, or eighteen. We use tact with grownups, why not with children?

Further suggestions are contained in our booklet, "Is Tact in Your Bag of Tricks?" which is sent on receipt of a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Address your request to Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans, Chicago Tribune, Chicago.

The Aggressive Jawline Needs Makeup Touch

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Some one recently called attention to the seemingly increasing numbers of aggressive chins and determined jawlines noted under feminine chapeaux.

We doubt if women's faces have undergone that much change in the years of their aggressive entry into fields which once were considered masculine domains only. But maybe the set-to-conquer jawline has grown on our sex unawares. We'll have to make a study of this some day just to see. Our feeling is, however, that of recent times the whole face of beauty has so changed that eulogy frequently attends the movie star or other celebrity whose facial bone structure is different, as they say. Too, the ways of hair wearing nowadays often emphasize the jaw and chinline appreciably.

However, if people are observing aggressiveness in women's faces and speaking about it, that's all a woman needs to know. There is one thing sure, no matter how efficient, how capable of being able to handle big business, no woman wants to be called aggressive or look it. So a study of the chin and jawline from a critical profile view had better be part of the improvement plan, where there is suspicion.

In a recent interview, a Hollywood makeup man declared the aggressive chin the hardest feature to prepare for movie audience appeal, but with the use of heavy, dark powder shading he reported beneficial results in a number of cases. The non-professional can try the darker powder trick and, of course, she can soften the whole jawline with another hair dressing. We see women with determined jaws who probably never think of them as such by their manner of wearing the hair skinned back tight and updrawn on the sides. The longish bob with the hair floating forward at the sides would be their better bet.

Ears, with this type, would better be kept hidden, for the exposed ear with its sleeked back hair, emphasizes the expanse of jaw. That hard but tidy little bun or knot in the back isn't any fitting companion piece for this type of jaw.

On the House

If you want a panelled room in your home you can "buy" one for much less money than your mother or father would have had to pay for it. Lumber companies and modernizing firms can suggest a wealth of ways in which you can "panel" the walls of a room. Plywood walls are not expensive—and they can be beautiful. LOUISE BARGELT.

Bolero an Important Detail

WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

Boleros are important this season, and particularly becoming accessories for simple dresses. The pattern today provides one for the dainty and feminine frock with its contrasting waistline sash, bracelet length sleeves, and high, round neckline. The original costume is made in a silk print that is gay and colorful.

Another scheme is more tailored. The neckline is square and faced with detachable lingerie material, more of which frosts the bolero revers. The sleeves of this costume are quite short, and it is made of polka dotted silk.

Style No. 3071 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material for dress and bolero; ⅝ yard of 35 inch contrasting for collar.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

For 15 cents buy the spring Chicago Tribune book of Clotilde Fashions, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to the New York address above.

"Thirty-Three" Lauds Advice Doris Gives

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Dear Miss Blake: I want you to be the first to know about my newfound happiness, for I feel that you are responsible for it. I am the girl who signed her letter 'Thirty-Three.' Remember? You answered me thru your column and I followed your advice. Now I'm engaged to the nicest man in all the world!

"I told you how lonely I was. My girl friends had grown tired of introducing me to men with whom I didn't 'click.' I lived in a fine girls' club and was holding a good secretarial job in an office in which the men all were married.

"You suggested it might be a good idea to interest myself in the things in which men are interested, such as badminton, bridge, dancing, hiking, etc. You told me to let men think, upon meeting me, 'Now here's a girl who ought to be a good safe friend to have.' My eyes almost popped out of my head when I saw your answer to me in the paper. I couldn't believe, at first, that your advice would 'work.'

"But I decided to give it a trial, and much to my surprise I found out that a new world had opened up to me. Almost overnight I felt like a changed woman. Instead of going home to my lonely room in the evenings I went to a dancing class two nights a week and met new and interesting people. I joined a badminton club and there met my fiancé. He did not at first show interest in me, until one evening he asked me out to dinner. From then on he asked me out a lot and we became good friends.

"I never dreamed he was thinking of me seriously, until not long ago he asked me to marry him. I thought he liked me only as a good friend! Even tho we want to be together every evening, I insist on going to dancing class and seeing all the folks who helped me out of the doldrums. My fiancé tells me he admires me because every one loves me! Can you beat that?"

The Housewife

We have found some delightful little tie-back ornaments for colonial bedrooms. They are copies of the old-fashioned china tie-backs that look like large, round china buttons and that are decorated with charming Dresden flowers or with small, quaint figures à la Kate Greenaway. Just the thing to give plain white curtains a bit of a flair.

There are also some rather small gold and white china rosettes that are extremely pretty. None of these items is high priced.

Talk on Finland Opens Burton Holmes Season

Last night in Orchestra hall Burton Holmes repeated his lecture on Finland which on Wednesday opened his annual series of travelogs. He will give it for the last time this afternoon.

The pleasant Chicagoan, almost in his 50th year as a public lecturer, spoke from a wheel chair, for he suffered severe injuries in an automobile accident last summer. However, it failed to dampen the enthusiasm he has for his subject.

Altho he referred often to the current conflict, Mr. Holmes was concerned with Finland as it flourished in prewar days. With the aid of his customary motion pictures and colored slides he depicted the northern country's quiet natural beauty, the thousands of islands and lakes, the curious glacier formed ridges, and the vast forests, source of Finland's largest export—wood products.

He denounced the Russian invasion. He pointed out Finland's success as a democracy: the absence of slums and poverty, the ownership of 90 per cent of the farmland by its farmers, the modern and efficient industrial services. He also illustrated in detail visits to the famous composers, Jan Sibelius and Selin Palmgren, and such national customs as the "sauna" or steam bath.

Reveal New Tweedsmuir Novel of Canadian Travel

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 16 [Special].—It was learned today that about two weeks before his fatal illness the late Lord Tweedsmuir completed the writing of a novel, the scene of which is laid in Canada. It will be published late this year or early in 1941, and will portray some of the impressions formed by the governor general during his four years of office. The book is written around the fictional Sir Edward Leithan, who was the subject of "John MacNab," produced by John Buchan [Lord Tweedsmuir] in 1925. In this new book the fictional Sir Edward is a visitor in Canada.

Bride at 14, Mother of 5 at 18, Grandmother at 31

Providence, R. I., Feb. 16 (AP).—Mrs. Ella Chaffee, 31 years old, a child bride at 14, learned today she became a grandmother, probably Rhode Island's youngest, during the St. Valentine's day blizzard. An 8 pound 14 ounce daugher was born to her oldest child, Mrs. Lydia Griffiths, 17, of Sterling, Conn. Mrs. Chaffee, a practical nurse, was the mother of five children when she was 18.

Feb. 17, 1940.

A quiet evening at home with your family or a few friends would be in order today. This is a family year for those born on this date. They might as well coöperate with good grace, and if they really try to bring some added joy or beauty to the home, they will be amply repaid by the return of affection and appreciation. If, however, they let their stubborn streak have the upper hand, they may find considerable disruption in the family circle.

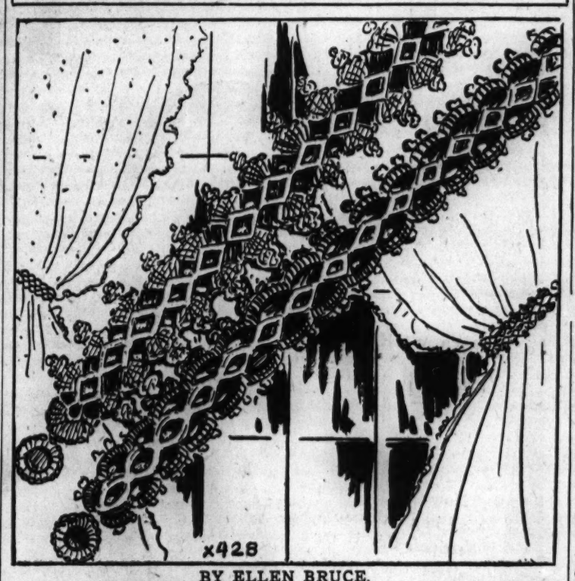
Colorful Crocheted Tiebacks



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Elegant and individual are the terms which apply to these good looking curtain tiebacks. The two, altho in different patterns, are made in pale green and white mercerized crochet cotton, and are used to tie back white marquisette curtains. With a heavy carpet warp, these same designs may be crocheted in a solid color and be converted into handsome looking belts for summer dresses.

For instructions in crocheting the two-toned tiebacks, No. X-428, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

In pointing out that misfit hands are by far the hardest to play, I am under no illusion that I am making a profound observation, yet those truths which are most fundamental and most obvious seem to be respected least by the rank and file. If experts, whose play of the cards usually is superlative, have such a healthy fear of misfits that they become ultraconservative in the bidding of them, it would seem that lesser players should be at least as cautious.

Today's hand illustrates a catastrophe that could have happened only to players who pay no attention to the fit of hands.

SOUTH

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	Pass	3 clubs	Pass
3 spades	Pass	4 hearts	Pass
4 no trump	Pass	5 no trump	Pass
6 no trump	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

It is difficult to fix the blame absolutely for the horrible final contract. Both partners were very much at fault.

Despite his four honor tricks, North was ill advised to make a jump takeout on his freak hand, since he held only a singleton of partner's bid suit. South, after hearing partner bid two suits in each of which he had only one small card, was criminally stupid in starting the 4-5 no trump convention. North, with the same knowledge, should have seized this one occasion to "lie" about his response—six clubs would have been much better than even five no trump. West's double was the result of recognizing what the slam bidding partners deliberately closed their eyes to: the misfit nature of the hand.

The damage would not have been severe if West had not found the "killing" opening lead. He opened the nine of hearts. Now the fact that clubs broke 3-3 was of no avail to declarer. He had no entry left in dummy after club suit establishment. He properly tried to set up his own diamond suit, but here he ran up against the five diamonds in West's hand. In all, he was able to win only his eight top cards, for a penalty of 1,100 points. Correct bidding, which would have been:

South	North
1 diamond	2 clubs
2 spades	3 hearts
3 spades	3 no trump
Pass

would have kept the final contract to a level where neither East nor West could have risked a double and which a reasonably good lay of cards would have made easy of fulfillment.

GOURMETS' DINNER.

Chicago's branch of the International Wine and Food society, dining in the Anchorage at the Windermere East, ate all Italian food at their first dinner of 1940.

This was the menu:

Antipasto Celebre.
[Italian ham, salami, artichoke hearts, and eels in olive oil, etc.]

Minestrina al Brodo Buon Gusto.
[Chicken broth with Italian noodle paste in star shapes.]

Tagliarini alla Marinara.
[Sautéd noodles with mushroom-anchovy-tomato sauce, highly seasoned and with Parmesan.]

Scallopini di Vitello Lepanto.
[Veal filled with cheese and ham in Marsala wine sauce.]

Cardoni in Umido Provinciale.
[Italian vegetable in red wine sauce.]

Insalata Miramare.
[Hearts of artichoke salad.]

Zabailone al Marsala.
[Custardy wine dessert.]

In addition to these seven courses there were crackers, cheese, assorted fruit, special Italian cookies, and coffee.

No cocktails before dinner, no smoking during dinner are gourmet rules. There must be nothing to interfere with the full appreciation of food flavors. Wines were served with every course on this menu, and not a water glass was to be found on the table.

Speaking of Italian food, where else does one find those temperamental vegetables, onion and garlic, used as skilfully as by Italian cooks? And who knows better than the Italian cook the value of a bottle of fine olive oil on a convenient kitchen shelf? The Italian chef is master of the art of wine cookery, too, and if his dinners seem to an American to be a little pasty with spaghettis, noodles and raviolis, who will deny that these pastes are cooked as appetizingly as it is possible to cook them?

HUNGARIAN GOULASH NOTE.

A masculine reader, evidently Hungarian, says "goulash" is incorrect spelling. [It is a common Americanized name for a Hungarian stew.] Says he: "In the Hungarian language gulya' means herd of cows. Gulyas' means the herdsman, and 'gulyasos' means the meal prepared by the herdsmen. This dish is called 'gulyasos.' This is the correct spelling."

REFRIGERATOR BREADS AND ROLLS.

Any dough may be refrigerated and baked as needed if it contains enough yeast and sugar. Twice as much yeast as in a simple bread or roll recipe and usually twice as much sugar are needed. Rich roll doughs are better for refrigerating than are plain ones.

Chill the dough after kneading, or let it rise once and punch it down before chilling. Usually lighter rolls are the product of dough which has been punched down once before refrigeration. But there's a disadvantage in that the dough usually is so warm that it will rise up powerfully even in the refrigerator. If the surface is well greased and the dough covered with a cloth, this won't affect the quality of the rolls at all.

Shape chilled dough and let it rise until warm and light at room temperature before baking.

500 TO COMPETE IN ILLINOIS RELAYS TODAY

GOLDEN GLOVERS REACH PEAK FOR CITY TOURNAMENT

WELTERWEIGHT DIVISION OFFERS FIELD OF STARS

Three Night Show Opens Tuesday.

The Battle Front

FOLLOWING is the schedule of tonight's out of town Golden Gloves tournaments:
Fort Worth Star-Telegram semi-finals.
Kokomo Tribune finals.
Fort Smith Southwest Times-Record finals.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Chicago's best amateur boxers will hammer away today in gymnasiums thruout the city. They'll be going thru their last sparring sessions in preparation for the Chicago Golden Gloves meet in the Coliseum next Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday.

Savior Canadeo.

Facing the finest competition in the history of local Golden Gloves eliminations, these boxers are getting set for a fight to a finish. Each one knows that he must beat all comers in his weight division if he is to advance to the Stadium for the Tournament of Champions Feb. 26, 27, and 28. Only eight boys will go into this event, which will bring together the most formidable fighters of 23 states.

Coliseum Comes First.

Chicago's contenders aren't worrying very much about the Tournament of Champions just now, however. They have enough on their minds with the local tournament only a few days away. Just think what a fellow in the welterweight class is confronted with. Between now and Tuesday his dreams may become nightmares. He'll see Homer Williams, Savior Canadeo, Louis Angelucci, Harry Sparrow, and Stanley Murczek waiting their turn to get at him, not to mention many other capable sluggers who are after the same title.

As a matter of fact, the above named fellows might start having a few nightmares about each other. They've all been in many tough engagements but now they're all together in one tournament with the realization that there will be no letup without a decision as to just who is boss of Chicago's amateur welterweights.

Harry Sparrow's lefthanded style has confused many an opponent before, but it will take more than that to befuddle the fellows he'll be up against next week. He's shown shifty footwork, too, but there's a question as to whether that footwork will be fast enough to move him in and out of range of the boys he'll face in the Coliseum.

Injuries Dog Canadeo.

Canadeo has run into more than his share of hard luck in Golden Gloves competition. It continued to follow him last year when he was forced to retire because of a cut over an eye in the first round of one of his Tournament of Champions bouts. This sturdy youngster is convinced that this time his luck will turn. If the breaks go with him as consistently as they have been going against him in the past he may be in there swinging when the campaign is far advanced.

Boxing fans will come to the Coliseum tournament prepared to do some more wondering about how Homer Williams keeps up his terrific pace. Thru all three rounds of every bout he fought in the last Golden Gloves

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

IT'S scheduled at last—a bout for the world's heavyweight championship between graduates of Chicago's Golden Gloves. . . . It will be fought in Madison Square Garden April 3 and the principals will be Joe Louis, 1934 Golden Gloves light heavyweight winner, and Johnny Paychek, 1933 heavyweight title holder. . . . Sam Breadon, owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, still hopes to return the selection of the National and American league All-Stars to the fans. . . . The Cardinals will be hosts to the 1940 interleague contest. . . . Will Harridge, president of the American league, expects to add 10 pounds to his lean frame before he returns from Florida March 20. . . . Versatile Jimmy Conzelman, who recently resigned as football coach at Washington university in St. Louis, will write three articles a week for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. . . . Conzelman has been successful as a gridiron coach, sculptor, orchestra leader, song writer, magazine contributor, radio commentator, after dinner speaker, professional baseball player, football player, and boxer. . . . Lee Joannes, president of the Green Bay Packers' corporation, who left yesterday for a vacation in Florida, reports more than 3,000 reservations already have been received in Green Bay for this year's All-Star football game. . . . Wladek Zbyszko, who many thought was on old age pension, is still headlining wrestling shows in Omaha.

Connie Mack, who apparently is enjoying excellent health as his Athletics prepare for their California training season, is counting heavily on Ed Heusser, a National league castoff, to bolster his pitching staff. . . . Mack has the word of Chief Bender, a scout, that Heusser is ready for big league employment. . . . After a two year trial with the Cardinals Heusser drifted to Memphis, where his supposedly dead arm came to life in 1939. . . . B teams at University of Nebraska are called Nubbins. . . . Col. E. R. Bradley's Bimelech would be about 3 to 1 in the Kentucky Derby winter book, if you could find a bookmaker willing to wager against him. . . . The odds would be the shortest in Derby future book records. . . . Ben Hogan, New York professional, who weighs only 138 pounds, had a 290 yard drive in the Los Angeles open golf tournament. . . . Larry MacPhail is reported to have spent $600,000 of the Dodgers' money in the last three seasons. . . . Chet Aubuchon, Michigan State basketball guard, has clicked 66 out of 92 times from the three throw mark this winter. . . . Three midwest football teams will play in New York on the same afternoon next fall. . . . Marquette will meet Manhattan, Wisconsin will engage Columbia, and Purdue is scheduled with Fordham on Nov. 9.

Who Knows?

These are the things my truant youth remembers:
The autumn moonlight sifting thru the trees,
Your dancing eyes beside the glowing embers,
And my wild heart astir with melodies;
I still can hear the ringing of your laughter
And feel the sudden tumult of your tears
As ghost-like thru the gloom I follow after
The rapture that was mine in other years.

Sometimes I think if we had not been parted,
Life would have been a golden afternoon;
If we had not been crushed and broken hearted,
And all our sweet dreams jangled out of tune,
Who knows but we had climbed the hill together,
Nor feared the rough ways and the stormy weather! —T. E. B.

Earlier Chicago.

How many remember when the Hamburgs [later the Cornell Hamburgs] consisting of the following members, Joe McDonough, Tommy Doyle, Foxy Ahearn, George Towers, John Higgins, Sambo O'Connor, Dick Walsh, Larry O'Donnell, Nick Malloy, Mike Heffernan, and J. Cooley, played the Blackhawks on the west side? There was no score until the third quarter when Joe McDonough took the kickoff and headed for the sidelines. After stiff arming five or six he made the only score of the game. I wonder if any of the spectators are still carrying a scar from the bricks thrown thru the street car windows. Incidentally, this is the neighborhood where Knute Rockne learned about the Irish. —Old Hamburg-er.

N. U. FACES THAT HOOSIER MENACE; ILLINI AT PURDUE

Big 10 Title Race Enters Crucial Stage.

Games Tonight

Indiana at Northwestern.
Illinois at Purdue.
Wisconsin at Ohio State.
Iowa at Minnesota.
Chicago at Michigan.
John Carroll at Notre Dame.
De Paul at Toledo.
Marquette at Butler.
Illinois college at Lake Forest.
North Central at Millikin.
Illinois Normal at De Kalb.
Grinnell at Lawrence.

Indiana and Purdue, who share first place in the Big Ten conference basketball standings, will risk their leadership tonight in a pair of crucial games as the closely bunched race enters the second half. Each leader has won five games and lost one in conference competition.

The Hoosiers, who have been setting a dizzy scoring pace in recent games, meet Northwestern in Patten gymnasium while Purdue entertains Illinois' third place five in Lafayette. Tickets for the Northwestern-Indiana game are still available. Other conference games tonight are Chicago at Michigan, Iowa at Minnesota, and Wisconsin at Ohio State.

Hoosiers Are Favorites.

Indiana's decisive victories over Purdue and Michigan within the last week marks the Crimson as a heavy favorite at this stage of the race.

The Hoosiers possess a well balanced quintet led by Paul Armstrong, one of the best marksmen in the conference, whose 66 points place him fourth in conference scoring. Other dangerous sharpshooters include Bill Menke, 6 foot 3 inch center, and Capt. Marvin Huffman and Bob Dro, veteran guards.

Coach Branch McCracken, who used the entire roster of 21 players in the Hoosiers' victory over Michigan, is bringing only 12 to Northwestern.

Wildcats Have Good Defense.

Northwestern will depend upon its strong defense to check the rampaging Hoosiers. Along with Purdue, the Wildcats possess the best defensive record in the conference, each team having had 107 points scored against it.

Altho the Wildcats benefited by a revamped lineup in their last two games, the attack still centers around Dick Klein, sophomore star, who is second in conference scoring with 76 points. The lineup changes involved shifting Ad Vance and Bob Shepard from guard to forward and sending Klein from center to guard. Two sophomores, Don Clawson and George Benson, entered the lineup at center and guard, respectively.

Purdue, which bounced back from its defeat by Indiana to trounce Chicago Monday night, faces a formidable foe in Illinois, which still is in the championship picture with four victories and two defeats.

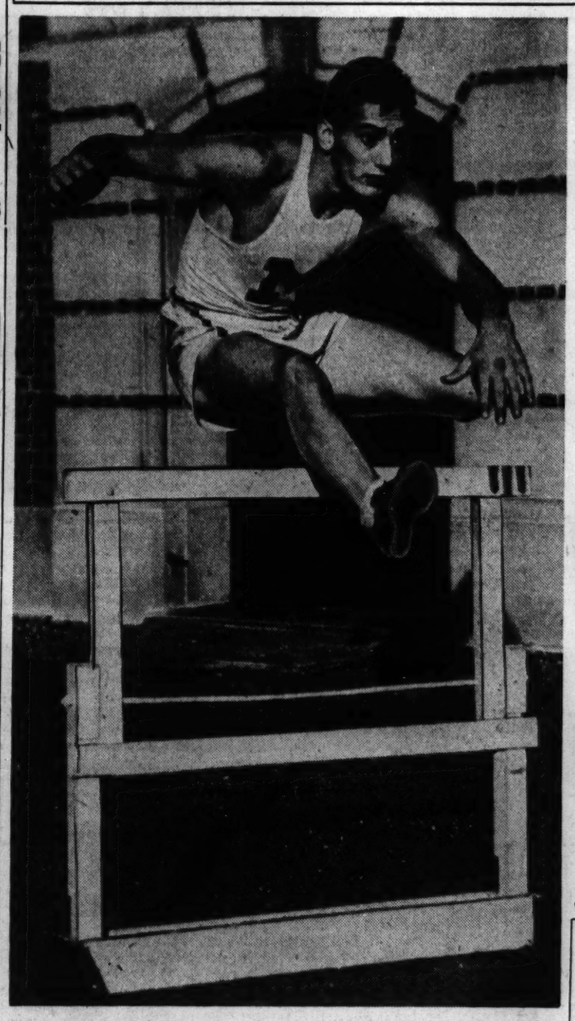
Balance Is the Answer.

Team balance, instead of individual brilliance, marks Purdue's high scoring outfit. Altho the Boilermarkers lead the conference in scoring with 279 points, their leading scorer, Don Blanken, ranks eighth in individual scoring with 58 points. His teammates, Dan Fisher, Forrest Sprowl, Fred Beretta, and Bob Igney, however, are all closely bunched behind him.

Iowa, which advanced to a .500 per cent rating in the standings as a result of victories over Wisconsin and Ohio State in its last two starts, hopes to extend this winning streak by defeating Minnesota, which has lost three straight games.

With hopes of a successful defense of last year's championship fading fast, Ohio State will entertain Wisconsin's improved quintet.

Title Timber for the Illinois Relays



Among the defending champions in the University of Illinois relays in Champaign today will be Stanley Kelley of Michigan, one of the best hurdlers in the middle west.

John Davenport, co-captain of Chicago's last football team, will be very much in the running today in the dashes. He won the 60 yard event in a triangular meet at Wisconsin last week.

Rain Wins 1st Day's Western Open Honors

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Houston, Tex., Feb. 16.—A heavy rain storm lashed the River Oaks Country club this morning and forced postponement of the first 18 holes of the 41st Western Open Golf tournament until tomorrow. The second 18 holes of the show, which is making its debut on the winter circuit this year, will be played Sunday, with the final 36 scheduled for Monday.

Commodore Fred Corcoran, who, as tournament manager of the Professional Golfers' association, has been piloting the flotilla of professionals thru one of their stormiest winter voyages, reported that this morning's downpour was the most severe of the trip. Many members of the crew, who started out as midshipmen, now consider themselves old salts after their experiences in the Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Oakland opens.

Walsh Suggests Sea Training.

Admiral Tom Walsh of Chicago, who, in his new capacity as national president of the P. G. A., joined the fleet to present the Vardon trophy to Byron Nelson, said that he will recommend the institution of a golfing Annapolis whereat young pros may be taught seamanship in bunkers and fairways below tournament water lines.

Two hours after officials of the Western Golf association, the Houston Lions' club, which is sponsoring the event, and Corcoran decided to halt play, a light norther brushed the rain away, admitting a bright sun and blue skies. Even the natives, who are chary of forecasting because of the unpredictability of Texas weather, risked a guess that the sun would remain, probably for the duration of the tourney.

Metz, Sneed Tee Off.

Half the field was still in the drydock of the clubhouse when the postponement was called. Announcement of the action was made just after Dick Metz and Sam Snead had hit their opening drives from the slippery deck of the first tee.

A trio of unknowns were the only men in the field to land safely after a full 18 holes, the best of these being a 78 by Everett Comstock of Yankton, S. D. Best performance among those who didn't finish was that of little Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va., who was one under par going to the 9th green. Ernie Harrison of Little Rock, Ark., and late of Oak Park, Ill., was even par on the 8th tee. Johnny Revolta of Evanston and Ky Laffoon, formerly of Northmoor, were one over on the 7th. Nelson, the defending champion, was one over going to the 4th, while Lawson Little and Ben Hogan were even for the same stretch.

Statistics released by Corcoran today reveal that Jimmy Demaret, the home town hope in the Western, is leading all P. G. A. competitors in the race for the 1940 Vardon trophy.

HACKNEY, FEHR, KELLEY DEFEND CHAMPIONSHIPS

Piker Favorite in 75 Yard Dash.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Champaign, Ill., Feb. 16.—Squads from 33 midwest colleges and universities, with a man power approaching 500, will make an attack on track and field records tomorrow in the 17th Illinois relays. These men are faced with a difficult task if they expect to duplicate last year's spectacular results, when six meet records were broken.

Only three defending champions are returning. They are Elmer Hackney, Kansas State, shot put; Roy Fehr, Michigan State, 1,000 yard run, and Stan Kelley, Michigan, low hurdles. Hackney, his right arm weakened by a football injury, will put the shot with his left hand.

Nine athletes, including Walter Arrington of Michigan State, who finished second last year, will seek the all-around championship to open the program in the afternoon. Arrington is an almost prohibitive favorite in the seven events because of his splendid performance a year ago when Hoyle Elvins of Drake won the championship.

Tomorrow's field includes Bruce Dryman, Michael Scheib, and Starr Keesler, teammates of Arrington; Charles Marshall of Butler, Archie Harris of Indiana, Dave Rankin, Purdue's great hurdler and all-America end; H. Springs, Wilson Junior college in Chicago, and Douglas Soutar of Wisconsin. Marshall, Harris, and Keesler also were place winners in the 1939 all around events.

Compete in Seven Events.

The all around events in the afternoon program which also includes preliminaries for the night's competition as well as three college relays, the one mile, two miles, and medley, will be decided by points scored in each in relation to an arbitrary standard. The seven events are the 75 yard dash, shot put, high jump, high hurdles, pole vault, broad jump, and half mile run.

The first of these, the 75 yard dash, starts the afternoon program at 1 o'clock. The carnival begins with the 4 mile university relay at 7:30 o'clock.

Barney Berlinger, Pennsylvania's great decathlon star, who won the carnival's all around championship for three years, holds the record with 6,070 points, his total in 1929, the first year in which he won. After 1931, Berlinger's last year, the Illinois relays were not held because of the depression. In 1938 the carnival was renewed and McLane of Missouri State Teachers won the all around title with 5,513 points.

Piker Favorite in 75 Yards.

Kelley will race against practically the same hurdlers he beat last year with a mark of 8 2-10 seconds for the 75 yard hurdle race. The meet record is jointly held by Lee Sentman of Illinois [1931] and Carl Johnson of Michigan [1920]. The record is 8 seconds.

Roy Cochran of Indiana, Big Ten and Central Collegiate 220 yard low hurdle champion and national collegiate third place winner, will return for another try at the shorter distance after taking third place in 1939.

Myron Piker of Northwestern, who was defeated by Wilbur Greer, of Michigan State last year, is the favorite in the 75 yard dash. Piker is holder of the Big Ten indoor and outdoor sprint championships, running the 100 yards in Ann Arbor last May in 9 9-10 seconds. John Davenport of Chicago, whom Piker displaced as conference champion; Bob Saggau and Steve Coughlin of Notre Dame, are other threats.

The University of Michigan, Big Ten team champion, will defend its three titles in the four mile, mile and shuttle hurdle.

Munski in 1500 Meters.

John Munski, Missouri journalism student who holds the Big Six indoor and outdoor mile and outdoor half mile title, again is one of the favorites in the 1,500 meters run. Ranking midwest distance runners who'll be present to thwart Munski's aspirations are Ed Holderman, Purdue, who finished fourth behind Munski's third in the National Collegiate; Ed Hedges and Wayne Tolliver of Indiana; Wisner of Michigan, and Dick Frey of Michigan State.

Sol Schumitzky of Missouri ranks as the best broad jumper on the basis of his leap of 24 feet 4¾ inches in winning the 1939 Kansas relays. He's closely followed by Robert Shurilla of Marquette, Walter Arrington of Michigan State, Wells Hodgson of Minnesota, and Bill Lewis of Illinois. In the pole vault, Ed Thistlethwaite of Northwestern, Ed Davidson of Chicago, Earl Stolberg of Marquette, and John Dean, Notre Dame, have all done over 13 feet.

In the high jump Ted Leonas' leap of 6 feet 6½ inches at the 1939 Central collegiate meet marks him as the man to beat. The Notre Dame captain tied for third last year. He'll vie with Jim Smith of Northwestern, the only man to defeat Illinois' Bob Diefenthaler in dual meet competition in 1939; Con Canham of Michigan, Arrington of Michigan State and Ed Mikulas of Indiana.

KILIAN AND VOPEL ARRIVE, BUT NOT AS WAR REFUGEES

GermansResumePedaling in Buffalo March 7.

BY JAMES SEGRETI.

Gustav Kilian and Heinz Vopel, the German six day bike riders, arrived in town yesterday, bronzed from a few weeks' stay on the Pacific coast, still a bit weary from a 35 day trip to the United States, and happy they soon will be performing before the American sports public instead of taking up arms in Europe's battle fields.

Accustomed to sleepless nights, the German pair, winners of 24 races in this country, five of them in Chicago, said their long journey thru seven countries to reach America was no worse "than competing in a six day event." They spent 17 days on trains traveling from Berlin to Yokohama and 18 days more en route to Honolulu by steamer.

They Have Passports.

There have been reports that they fled the fatherland, but Kilian and Vopel proudly displayed passports obtained with the full consent of the Hitler government.

The bicycle champions left Berlin on Dec. 13 confident they would not fall into the hands of the empires because, as Kilian said, "we are sportsmen and sportsmen do not care for war and have friends everywhere." They traveled slowly thru Latvia, Lithuania, and finally into Moscow, Russia. They boarded the Siberian Express for Manchuria and Tokio and crossed into Yokohama from Tokio by ferry boat.

Kilian and Vopel yesterday were the luncheon guests of Carl Stockholm, former six day rider. They related tales of their long trip and their plans for racing in America. Since no race has been scheduled for Chicago as yet, Kilian and Vopel said they would start in the annual spring event in Buffalo, N. Y., on March 7. They will remain in this country as long as their stay permits.

Say Little About War.

The full Rome-Berlin axis was represented at the luncheon table when Cesar Moretti, Italian rider, appeared, but this notion went flying into Lake Michigan when Vincent Denarie began to give the trio instructions. Denarie, tall, broad shouldered, and handsome Frenchman, trains the two Germans and the Italian rider. Moretti has been in the United States since last November. He paired with Cecil Yates of Chicago to win New York's race last winter.

Questions of interviewers who sought information regarding war conditions in Europe drew little response, the Germans' answers being similar to communiques issued from warring nations. Kilian said there was "little activity" in Berlin, but stated there were nightly blackouts in the riders' home city, Dortmund, 100 miles from the French border.

FENSKE OPPOSES CUNNINGHAM IN BAXTER MILE

New York, Feb. 16 (AP).—Cutting in on Glenn Cunningham's private mile running domain has become a habit with Chuck Fenske. Tomorrow night, in the 27th running of the New York A. C.'s Baxter mile in Madison Square Garden, he stands an excellent chance of breaking another Cunningham monopoly. Glenn has won the Baxter five times in the last seven years, the last three in succession.

Dave Clark to Quit Ring Because of Injury to Eye

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 16 (AP).—The retirement from boxing of Dave Clark, Detroit Negro once ranked high among light heavyweights, was announced tonight by his manager, John Roxborough. Clark, who in a short career had drawn good notices, has been in a hospital for treatment of an injured eye. Handlers said they believed the injury was suffered in Clark's fight with Al Gainor in Pittsburgh more than a year ago.

Skaters to Give Three More Stadium Shows

The European Ice Revue will present three more performances in the Stadium before leaving for the east for an extended tour. The show will be presented tonight and twice tomorrow, at 2:30 in the afternoon and at 8:30 in the evening. After leaving Chicago the skaters will perform in Syracuse, New York City, Pittsburgh, Springfield, Mass., Boston, Providence, and New Haven.

Sportsmen's 9 Day Show Opens Today

BY BOB BECKER.

Chicagoland fishermen, campers, hunters, boat enthusiasts, winter sports fans, and others interested in outdoor activities will be moving inside the International amphitheater, 42d and Halsted streets, this afternoon to see the opening day activities of the International Outdoor Sportsmen's show.

The event, which attracted more than 280,000 spectators when it was held here last year, is expected to set a new attendance record for its nine day run. The doors will be open from 1 p. m. until midnight each day thru next Sunday, Feb. 25.

A giant indoor ski slide, two tanks for casting, log rolling, and other events, pens of pheasants, quail, partridges, and deer, and archery and rifle courts are among the stage properties being utilized for the show. The ski slide, which has a canvas covering chemically treated to make it smooth as ice, towers 85 feet in height and extends for 250 feet from the starting point near the ceiling of the main arena.

Ski Experts to Perform.

Among the skiers who will perform each afternoon and evening are Anders Haugen, former Olympic champion; Nick Nylund, Finnish champion; and Harvey Nilsen, who took part in the ice carnival at the New York World's Fair last summer.

Headliners in addition to the ski jumping trio will be Ken Wilhelm, world's champion flight archer; "Slingshot Charlie," famous Tennessee expert with an ordinary slingshot; Francis Hogan, noted trainer of sporting dogs; Tony Accetta, Curly Moulton, Stu Pritchard, and other famous casters; and Willard Jack, Watson Peck, Joe Conners, and Jimmy Johnson, all of whom are outstanding in the realm of wood chopping, wood sawing, log rolling, and canoe tilting.

Change Casting Schedule.

The casting tournament, sponsored by THE TRIBUNE, opens tonight with the first competition in skish casting. This event, originally scheduled for tomorrow, has been moved up one day, with practice starting at 6:30 o'clock and competition at 7:30. The dry fly event, originally scheduled for today, has been transferred to the time originally scheduled for skish—2:30 tomorrow afternoon.

Casters desiring to enter any of the casting events on next week's schedule should write to the Casting Editor, Tribune Tower, giving name, address, and event or events in which they wish to compete.

ATTENTION, CASTERS!

Please note the following changes in casting tournament schedule:

Today—North tank, 6:30 to 7:30 p. m. skish practice. 7:30 p. m., skish competition.

GIVE MITZI GREEN VARIOUS ROLES IN BIG W-G-N SHOW

When Mitzi Green makes a guest appearance on the Fifth Row Center program on W-G-N and the Mutual network tomorrow she will do several impersonations and sing a song as well as act in the play, "Maidens' Million." Costarring with Mitzi in the W-G-N production, to be aired from 5 to 5:30 p. m., will be Mary Brian, stage and screen favorite. Both young actresses are with Simone Simon in the musical comedy, "Three After Three," at the Erlanger theater.

Mitzi Green will give impersonations in song of Helen Morgan and Ethel Barrymore. She also is to sing "An Apple for the Teacher." In "Maidens' Million" Mitzi and Mary will take the parts of two sisters whose romances are hampered by stipulations in their father's will. The musical setting will be provided by Harold Stokes and the W-G-N Dance orchestra. Stokes also will play the part of an orchestra leader [himself] in the play.

Fifth Row Center each week presents one or more notables of the stage and screen. It is one of the gala 1940 series devoted to giving listeners the best in entertainment.

SUGAR PLANTERS TO FIGHT FOR LARGER QUOTAS

New Orleans, La., Feb. 16 [Special].—The American Sugar Cane league is prepared to fight to have the Louisiana and Florida quotas for the 1940 crop raised to 580,000 tons of raw sugar. Clarence J. Bourg, Washington representative of the league, announced here. The law now limits production to 420,000 tons.

"If Louisiana and Florida are not permitted a minimum quota of 580,000 tons, it means the plowing under of growing cane again and we are opposed to destroying food," he said.

"Last Sept. 11 President Roosevelt announced that due to the war an emergency existed and that all sugar quotas were suspended. Shortly thereafter Secretary of Agriculture Wallace announced that no benefit payments were contemplated.

"These announcements came during the normal cane planting season and, as a result, the growers didn't curtail their planting. Instead, they planted in accordance with the needs of their plantations."

Report N. Y. Plans Curb on Markets.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The New York Stock exchange is inviting another bitter internal struggle if it seeks to curb the operations of its members on exchanges outside of New York, Chicago stock brokers said last night.

The rumblings of revolt among members of the exchange were heard after reports were received from New York that a special committee had recommended to exchange governors that members be ordered to restrict their activities on other markets, including the Chicago Stock exchange. Such a step, if approved by the exchange governors, would be certain to cause a serious rift in the ranks of the membership, Chicago members of the exchange asserted.

Tax Cuts New York Business.

Many of the shares regularly listed on the New York exchange are traded on other markets. The business that is done outside New York consists mainly of odd lot transactions—fewer than 100 shares—and is based on the prices quoted in New York. The business transacted in New York stocks on the smaller exchanges has been increasing because it is possible to avoid the high transfer tax that is levied by the state on all sales made in New York.

The New York exchange has been greatly concerned about the loss of business and named a special committee to make a study of the situation. The committee was said to have submitted its report to the exchange governors last Wednesday. Officials of the exchange would not discuss the contents of the report, but it was widely asserted in the financial district that the committee recommended that members be forbidden to act as odd lot dealers on exchanges outside New York.

Many Firms Affected.

This would apply only to odd lot dealings on stocks listed in New York. Under such a rule a Chicago house belonging to the New York exchange would not be permitted to act as odd lot dealer in United States Steel stock on the exchange here. Many of the big New York exchange firms that do business in Chicago would be affected by such a ruling. The firms that now act as odd lot dealers in New York stocks on the Chicago exchange include Paul H. Davis & Co., Shields & Co., Jas. Oliphant & Co., Farell Brothers, Winthrop, Mitchell & Co., Mitchell, Hutchins & Co., and Wayne Hummer & Co.

The odd lot business the firms do on the Chicago exchange is profitable for them and they will give it up reluctantly, it was said. Paul H. Davis & Co. acts as dealer here in 25 stocks that are listed in New York. Paul H. Davis, senior partner of the firm, is a governor of the New York exchange.

Report Davis Opposed.

Davis could not be reached yesterday for comment on the situation. Associates declared, however, that he is prepared to oppose vigorously any action by the exchange which would destroy the business being done by the Chicago and other small exchanges in New Yorkr issues. The 71 issues traded in both Chicago and New York account for about half the Chicago exchange's volume.

Should any drastic disciplinary action be taken against members for operating on other markets it might lead to some resignations among the governors of the exchange, it was said. Davis is the only Chicago broker who is a governor of the New York exchange.

Gen. Robert E. Wood, chairman of Sears, Roebuck & Co., is also a governor of the exchange as "representative of the public." Gen. Wood is reported to have threatened to hand in his resignation before because of a disagreement with other governors.

Hutchins Gave Up Post.

Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, also served for a time as a public representative on the board of governors, but quit because he did not agree with the board in its handling of the Whitney case.

The committee's report which the governors received Wednesday has been surrounded with unusual secrecy. It was indicated that it would not be taken up by the governors until they meet Feb. 28. Meanwhile, it was reported, the governors were given strict warning not to reveal the committee's recommendations to other members or to their business associates.

HARRISON QUITS AS RAIL LABOR EXECUTIVE HEAD

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16 (AP).—The Railway Labor Executives' association announced today that George M. Harrison of Cincinnati had resigned as its chairman and that J. A. Phillips, Cedar Rapids, Ia., had been elected his successor.

Harrison is president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks and headed the association for six years. He also is a vice president of the American Federation of Labor. Association officials said he relinquished his post because of the increasing work of his own organization.

Phillips is president of the Order of Railway Conductors and has been a vice chairman of the association, which represents 20 of the 21 railroad labor organizations.

A. E. Lyons, Chicago, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen, was elected vice chairman.

Residential building activity in 1939 increased substantially over that of the preceding year, altho recently contract awards have tended toward a lower volume, Sewell L. Avery, chairman of the board, told stockholders. The outlook, he said, is for a "satisfactory level of business" for the next few months.

National Distillers Products corporation reported net earnings for last year of $7,007,123, equal to $3.43 a share on the common stock. In the preceding year net income was $7,850,506, or $3.85 a share.

The company's production of whisky increased in 1939, Seton Porter, president, said. The company produced 16,510,737 gallons last year, or about 19 per cent of the nation's total. In 1938, Porter said, the company's output was 14,113,874 gallons, or approximately 15 per cent of the total.

The European war has not interrupted the export trade of the company's foreign affiliate, Train & McIntyre, Ltd., Scotland's second largest producing group, Porter said.

Great Lakes Dredge Earns Less.

Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company, Chicago, reported that its net income for the year ended Dec. 31 was $1,634,566, or $2.96 a share, on the capital stock. In 1938 net income was $2,213,030, or $4.01 a share.

United Electric Coal companies reported net income of $98,861, or 19 cents a share, for the quarter ended Jan. 31, against $61,132, or 12 cents a share, a year earlier. The total was after interest, taxes, and other charges, but exclusive of a writeoff of $17,632 on the sale of equipment.

The Twin Coach company, Kent, O., manufacturer of specialized automotive equipment and motor coaches, had net income of $660,818, or $1.40 a share, in 193-, against $159,972, or 34 cents a share, in the preceding year. The backlog of unfilled orders at the beginning of 1940 totaled $2,600,000, a company record for the period.

Berghoff Brewing corporation, Fort Wayne, Ind., reported its net income for 1939 was $503,844, compared with $370,037 in 1938. Per share earnings were $1.68 and $1.23, respectively, for the two years.

The annual report of B-G Foods, Inc., disclosed net income for 1939 of $89,372, compared with $85,372 in 1938.

Department store sales in the 7th [Chicago] federal reserve district in the week ended Feb. 10 rose 1.5 per cent over the volume for the corresponding week last year, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported yesterday. Thruout the nation such sales showed no change from the volume for the week ended Feb. 11, 1939, the board said.

Chicago department stores reported a gain of 1 per cent. Among other leading cities in the 7th reserve district, increases were reported by Detroit, with 1.9 per cent; Milwaukee, 6.9 per cent, and other cities, 4.7 per cent. Sales in Indianapolis declined 6.7 per cent.

Atlanta, with a gain of 6 per cent, reported the largest percentage increase among the 12 federal reserve districts.

Whitney Firm Client Sues N.Y. Exchange

New York, Feb. 16 (AP).—The spectacular Wall street collapse of Richard Whitney, one time president of the New York Stock exchange, developed another sequel today when the exchange was sued in federal court for recovery of $127,785 worth of securities which Whitney took from a customer's brokerage account to pledge as collateral for a personal loan.

Attorneys for the plaintiff, Mrs. Mary Stevens Baird, socially prominent resident of New York and Bernardsville, N. J., said they believed this was the first suit of its kind under the securities and exchange act of 1934.

"A novel point of law is involved, namely, whether the exchange is liable under these circumstances to a customer for losses resulting from the misconduct of an exchange member," the lawyers said.

Treasurer Is Defendant.

The complaint named John Dessau, treasurer of the exchange, as defendant. The exchange, the complaint charged, failed to take disciplinary action against Whitney and his firm, Richard Whitney & Co., in November, 1937, when the exchange allegedly first became aware of his practices.

Whitney pleaded guilt to grand larceny nearly two years ago and was sent to Sing Sing prison for 2½ to 5 years. His probation report indicated that his financial troubles began when he lost $2,000,000 in the 1929 stock market crash.

Mrs. Baird had maintained a large account with the Whitney firm for several years. In a statement he issued after his indictment, Whitney admitted that he had used securities belonging to Mrs. Baird and others as collateral.

Registration of the exchange under the securities and exchange act of 1934, Mrs. Baird's complaint declared, bound the exchange to comply with and to enforce compliance by its members with provisions of the act.

Rules Required by Statute.

The statute provided that no registration would be granted a national exchange if it did not have and enforce rules for suspension, expulsion and disciplining of members for misconduct.

The exchange failed to take action, the complaint continued, even when it learned on Nov. 24, 1937, that Whitney had not only embezzled more than $700,000 worth of securities belonging to the exchange's gratuity fund but had violated the provisions of the securities act.

After this date, the complaint added, Whitney made numerous illegal pledges of securities belonging to Mrs. Baird, culminating with a pledge on Jan. 26, 1938, to the Public National Bank and Trust company, which sold the securities in March, 1938, after the disclosure of Whitney's financial trickery and insolvency.

Whitney, the complaint charged, had sent Mrs. Baird false financial statements which concealed his embezzlements.

NEW SECURITIES VOLUME IN WEEK AT 6 MONTH HIGH

New York, Feb. 16 (AP).—The money market this week successfully absorbed the largest volume of new security issues in six months, as immense reserves of idle funds provided an active demand for new offerings.

Public offerings of new issues in the week ended yesterday totaled $148,503,565 compared with $32,825,800 the preceding week and $32,867,000 a year ago, Poor's Publishing company reported today. Bulking large in the total was a $98,500,000 refinancing program of New York City's Triborough bridge authority.

Despite the unusually high volume, however, demand for new capital continued small, accounting for only 7 per cent of the total. The remainder represented refunding of existing debts at lower rates of interest.

STUDEBAKER OBSERVES 88TH BIRTHDAY, PAYS HONOR TO 23 VETERANS

The Studebaker corporation, one of America's oldest vehicle manufacturers, yesterday observed its 88th birthday at South Bend with a luncheon, at which Paul G. Hoffman, president, and other executives were hosts to 23 veteran employés.

Paul G. Hoffman.

The veterans had a total of 1,057 years of service, or an average of 46 years per employé. H. V. Kimble, who has been with Studebaker since 1882, was acquainted with the five Studebaker brothers who founded the enterprise, which originally made wagons and carriages, in 1852.

Hoffman said the average employé has been with the company for 11 years. The company employs 9,100 and its 3,155 automobile dealers employ more than 18,000.

MANY RAILROADS' 1939 PROFIT GAINS ARE SUBSTANTIAL

Substantial improvement in railroad earnings in 1939 was shown yesterday by the reports of 14 carriers, with the Pennsylvania railroad topping the list. Only one of the 14 turned in a report showing a larger loss for 1939 than was reported for 1938.

The Pennsylvania reported its net income last year nearly tripled that of 1938 at $32,032,525, or $2.43 a share. In the preceding year net profit was $11,046,100, or 84 cents a share.

NEW YORK CITY TRANSIT MERGER SEEMS ASSURED

New York, Feb. 16 [Special].—Purchase of the privately owned transit lines by New York City in a railroad merger that will be the largest in the nation's history, in point of finances and passenger traffic, became a virtual certainty today.

Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia and Controler Joseph D. McGoldrick issued a joint statement that a sufficient number of security holders of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit corporation had deposited holdings to insure that the city can buy the lines. Only technicalities tonight stood in the way of the city's acquistion of the lines leading to unification of all rapid transit facilities.

The way was cleared today when the Prudential Insurance company of America, holder of the largest block of B.-M. T. securities—about $3,100,000 of the collateral bonds—assented to the plan. At the last minute the Prudential interests tendered their bonds, but demanded par. The offer was accepted.

Detroit Man Is Appointed to Bank Association Post

New York, Feb. 16 [Special].—Robert M. Hanes, president of the American Bankers association, today announced the appointment of William Powers, assistant cashier and personnel manager of the National Bank of Detroit, to the post of director of customer relations of the association.

Coal Control Act Upheld by Federal Court

Little Rock, Ark., Feb. 16 (AP).—Declaring congress has authority to enforce by a system of taxes establishment of bituminous coal prices, a three judge federal court unanimously upheld here today constitutionality of the 1937 federal bituminous coal act. The court gave the Sunshine Anthracite Coal company of Clarksville, Ark., 30 days in which to appeal to the Supreme court of the United States.

The court dismissed the company's petition for a permanent injunction restraining the internal revenue department from collecting a tax of 19.5 per cent on the sale price of its coal because it refused to join the coal code set up under the coal act.

Injunction for 30 Days.

It continued in effect for 30 days a temporary injunction against this collection and said that if the company perfected its appeal to the Supreme court within that period the temporary injunction would remain in force until the higher court rendered its decision.

The court reviewed the recent history of the bituminous coal industry, commenting that the industry had been subjected to "a bitter struggle for markets and merciless cut-throat price cutting competition." The 1937 coal act, passed in an attempt to stabilize the industry, "is constitutional," the court declared, adding:

The regulatory provisions . . . are a valid exercise of the power of congress to regulate interstate commerce and intrastate commerce directly affecting interstate commerce."

Price Hearings End.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16 [Special].—The long hearing on minimum coal prices before the examiners of the bituminous coal division ended today.

Counsel for the Illinois and West Virginia coal producers' district boards urged the examiners to approve proposed nationwide soft coal minimum prices without substantial changes except to equalize fuel costs of competing steel manufacturing firms.

John W. Guilder, Washington attorney representing both the Illinois and West Virginia district boards, said the pleas for price reductions advanced by both Illinois and Indiana "low cost" producer groups were not worthy of serious consideration in price fixing.

WEEK'S VOLUME OF RAIL FREIGHT LOADINGS SAGS

Revenue freight loaded by the nation's railroads in the week ended Feb. 10 increased 8.8 per cent over the volume of the corresponding week last year but showed a contra-seasonal decline from the level of the preceding week, the Association of American Railroads reported yesterday. All classes of freight except less than carlot merchandise fell below the volume of loadings for the week ended Feb. 3.

The latest week's loadings totaled 626,903 cars, a gain of 50,551 cars over the volume for the corresponding week of 1939 but a decrease of 30,101 cars from the preceding week's loadings.

Loadings of various commodities in the week compared as follows:

Increase in February Auto Production Is Predicted

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 16 (AP).—Ward's Reports, automotive trade publication, commenting on the less than seasonal decline in retail sales of motor vehicles since Jan. 1, said today that assemblies for February should total "upward of 360,000 vehicles." This would be a gain of about 20,000 units over earlier expectations. Ward's estimated output for the current week at 95,050 units, compared with 95,985 last week and 79,860 a year ago.

WHEAT BOILS UP; IT'S LIVERMORE, BROKERS CLAIM

Gains in Scramble Exceed 4 Cents.

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

Closing prices on the May delivery of principal grains on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday:

	Yesterday.	Thursday.	Yr. ago.
Wheat	$1.04	$0.99¼	$0.68
Corn	.56¼	.56¾	.48¾
Oats	.40¼	.40½	.28¼
Rye	.69¼	.67¼	.45½
Soy beans	1.06¾	1.06	.80¾

The wheat market yesterday caught the pit traders—of all people—off guard. A sudden burst of buying caused futures to skyrocket more than 4 cents a bushel in the final 15 minutes of the session on the Chicago Board of Trade.

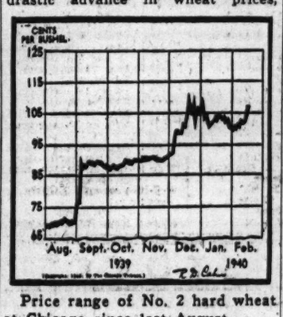
Traders scrambled frantically to execute buying orders without knowing what was causing the upturn, and the market experienced its most hectic quarter of an hour in recent years. Closing prices were 3¼ to 4⅛ cents higher, at the best levels since Jan. 5.

When trading halted another scramble began. This time it was a scramble on the part of curious pit traders, who wondered who had bought wheat, and why.

They Say It's Livermore.

Brokers said a wave of short covering was responsible. They declared that Jesse Livermore, New York professional trader, touched off the fireworks when he started to buy back wheat which he sold at lower prices, and found little for sale. Smaller shorts joined in the rush to cover. Many stop loss orders to sell were caught on the way up.

There was nothing in the general run of the news to account for the drastic advance in wheat prices, brokers said. They said it was largely a case of an extended short interest attempting to cover in a market almost bare of offerings. Public interest in the market of late, it is said, has been light and many of the professional element have been on the bear side because of reports of improvement in the outlook for the new winter wheat crop.



Price range of No. 2 hard wheat at Chicago since last August.

Wheat Sold to Russia.

It is estimated that about 4,000,000 bushels of domestic cash wheat has been sold in the last two weeks for shipment from the north Pacific coast to Vladivostok, Russia, and China.

Strength in wheat imparted a firmer undertone to corn and other grains, but trading was relatively small. Corn gained ⅛ to ⅛ cent and rye was 2 to 2¾ cent higher. Oats finished ⅛ to ⅛ cent higher with May selling at 40¾ cents, equaling the seasonal high price.

Cross Lending by Insurance Officials Told

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16 (AP).—Arthur Hall, chairman of the Lincoln National Life Insurance company, testified before the monopoly committee today that he had borrowed money from three other life insurance companies at about the same time their officers borrowed similar amounts from Lincoln National.

Arthur F. Hall.

Hall asserted that what committee counsel referred to as "cross-lending" was a coincidence and did not rest on any kind of "gentlemen's agreement" between the officers of the respective companies.

The Lincoln National, which is located at Fort Wayne, Ind., is one of the 26 largest American companies currently being studied by the committee.

Says He Repaid Loans.

All of the loans were secured by stock of the companies, Hall testified, and in his own case were repaid. He borrowed the money, he said, to take up bank loans and thereby obtain a lower interest rate and longer terms.

Hall testified that he borrowed $50,000 from the People's Life Insurance company of Frankfort, Ind., on Oct. 10, 1929, and that Thomas F. Ryan, chief counsel of the People's, borrowed $50,000 from Lincoln National on Nov. 8, 1929. Ryan's loan, Hall said, still is outstanding.

Three days before the Ryan loan, Hall said, Lincoln National loaned $25,000 to the president of People's.

Hall said he borowed another $50,000 from the American Central Life Insurance company in October of 1929, and that Harry R. Wilson, an official of the American Central, borrowed $50,000 from the Lincoln National in December of the same year.

Tells of Unpaid $32,000.

Hall testified that in January of 1931 James A. McVoy, an officer of the Central States Life Insurance company, obtained two loans totaling $32,000 from the Lincoln National. The witness said that in April and August of the same year he borrowed, in three loans, a total of $40,000 from Central States. The McVoy loans were never repaid, Hall added, and the Lincoln National still holds the Central States stock as collateral. He estimated that the collateral was not worth more than $3,000 or $4,000.

Hall said the company had obtained approval of the Indiana attorney general before making collateral loans secured by stock of other insurance companies.

"Why didn't you borrow from your own company" Gesell asked Hall.

"Why, I can't borow from my own company—it's illegal," the witness replied.

More Farm Loans Sought.

The monopoly committee also heard testimony that the Metropolitan Life Insurance company was eager to lend money on farm mortgages despite losses on this type of investment during depression years.

Glenn D. Rogers, manager of Metropolitan's farm loan division, said that the company had discontinued lending on farms in some areas because of the inability to obtain loans in sufficient volume to be profitable, but that it would like to get more loans in other sections.

Since 1932, he said, the company had made $25,000,000 of new loans on farm lands, with but five foreclosures. The company had foreclosed, however, on 9,934 farms on which it lent money in previous years, he said.

CANADIAN GRAIN GOES TO CUBA AS U. S. FLOUR

Alleged Treaty Aid Nonexistent.

[This is the ninth of a series of articles on industrial and agricultural difficulties under the Hull trade treaties.]

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

A recent bulletin issued by the United States department of agriculture stated that American purchases of sugar from Cuba—and other foreign countries—under the Hull reciprocal trade treaties create a market for millions of bushels of wheat raised in the great plains region of this country.

This statement stirred the domestic sugar industry to do some investigating of its own. It was found, first of all, that imports of wheat flour into Cuba were large. According to figures issued by the United States department of commerce, American exports of wheat flour to Cuba have amounted to an average of a million barrels a year since 1935. In terms of wheat this represents about 5 million bushels a year.

No Decrease in Drouth.

The researchers for the domestic sugar industry, however, were puzzled to find that during the drouth periods of 1936 there was no decrease in American exports of flour. They then began investigating the imports of wheat from various countries.

And this is what they found—in the words of Charles A. Farwell, president of the sugar firm of Milliken & Farwell, New Orleans:

"The ridiculous part of the whole thing is that the wheat used to produce the flour to ship to Cuba to buy sugar, did not come from the great plains area of the United States; it did not come from any other American farms.

Wheat Came from Canada.

"Practically all of this wheat was imported into the United States in bond [to avoid the payment of tariff] from Canada! It was ground in American mills and in turn shipped to Cuba. In that manner it is counted as an American export.

American Feed Displaced.

"But only the flour went to Cuba. The by-products of the milling—the stock feed—stayed here to displace feed grown on American farms. Meanwhile, farmers of the great plains region are being told by Secretary Henry A. [Corn] Wallace of the department of agriculture, that they should support the trade agreements program because it means a market for their wheat."

The following figures, supplied by the United States department of commerce, show bonded wheat imports from Canada used as a basis for flour exports to Cuba:

Year—	Bonded wheat from Canada [bu].	Flour equivalent of imported wheat [brl].	Flour exported to Cuba, [brl].
1935	3,913,076	832,569	1,089,376
1936	4,099,078	872,277	1,033,437

1938	839,308	178,576	989,196

"It is interesting to note," Farwell commented, "that during 1938 imports of wheat in bond from which

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

New York, Feb. 16 (AP).—Under the leadership of coppers, shipbuilding, an dtraction issues, the stock market today put on a last hour rally that reduced early losses among leaders and put selected favorites up substantially.

While the late bulge aided virtually all departments, it was not sufficient to put the list up as a whole. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off 0.1 of a point at 50.2. Volume was small most of the time.

Coppers, jogging along in the rear ranks for the last few months, appeared to have been spurred by reports of heavier foreign purchases, together with a brisk jump in domestic sales yesterday to the largest aggregate since last Nov. 6. Anaconda, Kennecott, Miami, and Phelps Dodge were popular among these shares.

Aided by some short covering, Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit preferred climbed 8⅞ points to 64⅝, a new top for the last year or so. Most of these shares have been deposited under the New York City traction unification plan and the scant holdings floating in commission houses were in big demand.

New York Shipbuilding preferred also made a new 1939-'40 high on word that the company was low bidder for the construction of two naval cruisers to cost $17,990,000 each.

Brooklyn-Queens Transit preferred, B. M. T. common, and Cluett Peabody were among those to register 1939-'40 peaks.

On the upside at the finish were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, New York Central, Pennsylvania, American Shipbuilding, Certainteed preferred, and Union Bag and Paper.

Losers of as much as a point or more were Westinghouse, Dow Chemical, Eastman Kodak, J. C. Penney, Owens-Illinois, Sears-Roebuck, General Motors, Douglas Aircraft, Glenn Martin, and Lockheed.

New York Bonds.

New York, Feb. 16 (AP).—Dollar loans of Latin America advanced and those of Scandinavian countries declined today.

The peaceful side of the world was mirrored in gains by bonds of Argentina, its capital city, Buenos Aires, and Cuba. Reports of Red army advances into Finland were immediately reflected by drops of as much as two points in some of the bonds of Denmark and Norway.

United States treasuries, lightly traded, closed in the narrowly uneven range of 5-32 point higher to 4-32 lower. Corporates, in general, were similarly ragged.

Transactions totaled $6,882,700, face value, compared with $5,399,000 yesterday.

Chicago Stocks.

Forty-two of the 104 issues traded yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange closed lower. Twenty-eight advanced and 34 were unchanged. Transfers totaled 20,000.

Volume leaders included Asbestos Manufacturing, which reached a new high of 1¼ and closed at 1⅛, a net advance of ⅛; Central and South West Utilities, ¼, unchanged; Bendix, 31¼, down ⅝, and Marshall Field, 14¼, up ⅛. Miller and Hart preferred reached a new high of 7⅝ on an advance of 1⅜.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago Title and Trust and First National Bank shares each rose a point yesterday, closing at bids of 119 and 242, respectively. Other issues were steady.

REPORT MORGAN CHANGE TO CUT TAXATION LOAD

Profit Possibility Also Is Believed a Factor.

New York, Feb. 16 [Special].—The decision of the private banking firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. to incorporate under New York laws was believed in Wall street today to have been dictated by the possibilities of lightening tax burdens, increasing profits, and avoiding problems of partnerships. The proposed change announced late yesterday is to occur April 1, subject to approval of state banking authorities.

Tax questions are believed to have been uppermost in the move. It was said that the levies on partners' incomes reach high brackets during prosperous years, but that the company as a corporation could retain profits instead of distributing them.

Another Cause of Change.

The problem of federal inheritance taxes likewise is believed to have entered into the decision. Death of a partner may mean that his estate is forced to liquidate his holdings to meet the tax bill, but in a corporation, it was argued, existing capital can be better "locked in."

In this connection, some speculation arose as to the possibility of stock in the new firm being offered to the public. Such an event, it was almost unanimously agreed, is far in the future—if ever.

The question of profits enters the situation by two principal avenues. One is that private banking has become much less profitable in recent years because of the decline in interest rates to present low levels and because of the difficulty in finding suitable investments for idle funds.

Second Profit Consideration.

A second profit consideration lies in a bill pending in the state legislature. If enacted into law, this bill would permit a substantial increase in fees that may be charged for handling trust accounts.

Incorporation also is regarded as removing the difficulties of making recurrent capital readjustment at the time of partner deaths or withdrawals. The Morgan capital, for example, was reduced by $5,000,000 to its present $20,000,000 after the death last August of Charles Steele, one of the partners.

Unanswered questions today included what will be done with New York Stock exchange memberships held by two partners—J. P. Morgan and his son, Junius—and what titles the various partners will hold in the new corporation.

Files Formal Notice.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 16 [Special].—The formal notice of intention of J. P. Morgan & Co. to form a trust company was filed with the state banking department yesterday, according to its weekly bulletin, published today.

Canada Grows Cuba's Bread

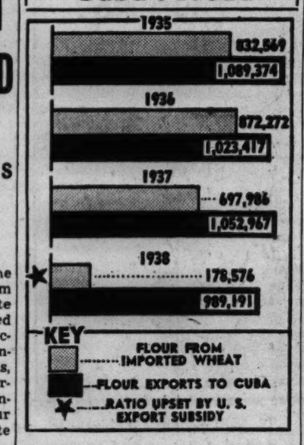

Chart illustrates the large proportion of United States flour exports to Cuba made from Canadian wheat, imported under bond and processed in this country. Figures are in barrels of flour.

CANADIAN WHEAT SENT TO CUBA AS AMERICAN FLOUR

Alleged Treaty Benefit Nonexistent.

to make flour for Cuba suddenly fell to a very low level. As a matter of fact, for a period of several months, American wheat was actually used by the mills.

Wallace Uses Subsidy.

"Research discloses that this was the result of a temporary program instituted by Secretary Wallace to provide a subsidy of 20 to 30 cents a bushel to stimulate the exports of American wheat [with a corresponding subsidy on exported flour made from American wheat]. In this way the Wallace export wheat subsidy temporarily canceled the ill effects of the reciprocal trade agreements program."

The wheat and flour subsidies now have been discontinued, and Farwell charges:

"Foreign wheat again is being brought in as the basis of supplying Cuba with flour. Meanwhile our farmers are still being told that the trade treaty program supplies them with a foreign market, which, in turn, is necessary to this country in that it may obtain sugar from foreign countries for home consumption."

[A subsequent article will discuss what the American rice industry apparently doesn't know about Secretary Hull's reciprocal trade deals with Cuba.]

CROP PROBLEM CUTS PROFIT OF QUAKER OATS

Firm Reports Difficulty Getting Good Grain.

The Quaker Oats company—one of Chicago's largest food enterprises—had a net profit for 1939 of $5,163,022 compared with $5,901,581 for 1938, John Stuart, president, reported yesterday to stockholders. The 1939 profit was equal after preferred dividends to $5.82 a share, compared with $6.87 for 1938.

John Stuart.

Stuart said consolidated earnings from operations amounted to $6,008,304 for 1939—a decline of $771,310 from the 1938 amount but $1,619,371 above 1937. He attributed the decline to the difficulty in getting an adequate supply of quality oats for the company's western mills, the company being forced to pay in the fall months a considerable premium over prices in the Chicago and eastern markets.

Taxes Total $1,706,849.

Taxes in 1939, paid or accrued, totaled $1,706,849, which was equal to $2.43 on each share of common stock, or $415.50 for each employé. Fixed taxes, Stuart said, such as on real estate and personal property, and state franchise and license fees included in the total represent an increase of more than 100 per cent over 1933.

"These steadily growing taxes and expenses increase our cost and reduce profit unless we raise our price to the consumer," he stated. "If we raise our prices the consumer's purchasing power is reduced, and none of us wishes this to happen."

Stuart said 1940 started "quite satisfactorily," but asserted that with world conditions in the present troubled state no one can guess the future.

Foreign Tonnage Grows.

In most foreign areas the company's tonnage volume in 1939 showed encouraging growth, he said. In Canada tonnage was about 3 per cent less than in 1938 and in the United States it was 4 per cent less.

Stuart presented an analysis of the company's foreign business, giving approximate averages reflecting for recent years the relationship of each country to total consolidated volume of business and net income. Foreign business was rated: England and France, approximately 10 per cent.

Holland, Denmark, and other European neutrals, approximately 3 per cent; Canada, approximately 10 per cent, and Germany, less than 1 per cent.

Reports on Retirement Plan.

All other foreign countries, approximately 3 per cent.

Stuart said that since the company's retirement plan was placed in operation on Sept. 1, 1938, a substantial number of employés have been retired. In carrying out the plan the company paid during 1939 $1,028,427 toward the purchase of past service annuities.

The company's balance sheets showed current assets of $32,150,931 as of Dec. 31, 1939, and current liabilities of $4,262,998.

Directors declared the regular quarterly dividends on both the common and preferred stocks.

GRANT $81,572,301 PERMITS FOR WAR SALES TO FRANCE

January Licenses Are Mostly for Aircraft.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16 (AP).—France obtained export licenses for $81,572,301 worth of war materials in January, the highest total for one nation since the license system was instituted, the state department's monthly report of licenses disclosed today. Airplane engines accounted for $56,801,199 of this total, the report showed, and fighting planes made up $17,154,091.

Actual exports of war materials to France during the month amounted to $11,689,772, and consisted entirely of fighting planes and airplane parts and engines.

Britain's Total $908,359.

Great Britain's licenses amounted to $908,359, Australia's to $400,328, and Canada's to $323,378.

The Scandinavian countries also were purchasers of American war equipment. Norway obtained licenses totaling $721,300, mostly for fighting planes, and Sweden $612,650, mostly for airplane engines. Finland was granted licenses for $169,253 worth of ammunition.

Actual exports to Finland in January were $774,260, mostly fighting planes, and to Sweden $967,490, consising of fighting planes and airplane parts.

Nearly All for Warplanes.

Great Britain obtained deliveries in January totaling $4,063,198, mostly of fighting planes. Canada's were $535,383, largely of fighting planes, and Australia's were $3,311,305, almost entirely of fighting planes.

Turkey got actual exports of $1,252,347, three-fourths of which consisted of war planes.

The total licenses for export granted in January were $86,096,775, and actual exports were $23,558,733.

FILE ANSWER IN BANK SUIT ON STOCKHOLDERS

Deny Illegal Acts in Republic Case.

Acting in behalf of several hundred stockholders of the National Republic bancorporation, Attorney Frank Michels yesterday filed an answer in the Superior court of Cook county to a suit brought against the group by depositors of the United American Trust and Savings bank to collect from them under stockholders' double liability. The bank closed in June, 1932, after its deposits had dropped in two years from $11,000,000 to $1,300,000.

The appellate court of Illinois on Dec. 13, 1939, reversed a lower court decision which had freed the National Republic stockholders of double liability in connection with the United American Trust and other state banks. The appellate court held that there was sufficient cause for reopening the case.

Illegal Acts Denied.

Creditors of the closed banks charged that the bancorporation had obtained possession and control of the banks for the purpose of evading Illinois laws with respect to stockholders' liability and with respect to the ban against chain banking.

In his answer Attorney Michels denied that his clients were parties to any illegal acts on the part of the bancorporation. He said that the defendants had no knowledge of the purpose for which the bancorporation was formed except that stated in the charter which listed the activities in which it proposed to take part. He said that none of the defendants had exercised any domination or control of the United American Trust or the other banks named in the complaint except such as would be properly exercised under the laws of Illinois.

The answer contains a detailed account of certain events affecting several banks in the days during which bank troubles piled up to culminate in the 1933 bank holidays. It denied that any of the banks involved in the suit were operated as chain banks contrary to law.

Had Complete Reports.

The answer further states that the defendants had complete reports of all the acts and doing of the officers of the bancorporation. It endeavored to show that the bancorporation held numerous other securities in its portfolio besides bank stocks.

The National Republic Bancorporation, altho in process of formation in 1929, was formally organized on Jan. 9, 1930, with an authorized capital stock of $20,000,000 of common stock. The original subscribers of the capital stock were John A. Lynch, George Woodruff, John W. O'Leary, and the National Republic Investment Trust.

The bancorporation, which once controled 10 banks thru stock ownership, has been in receivership since 1933.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

The range of prices widened abruptly in the market for hogs yesterday as light weights rose to the highest levels since Monday, while heaviest stock held generally at the lowest rates of the week. The spread was the widest of the winter season.

Most action was in stock weighing downwards from 230 pounds. These weights ruled strong to 5 cents higher, with a few spots up to 10 cents. Other hogs were mostly weak to 10 cents lower.

Stronger rates prevailed for the small supply of lambs on sale. The scant supply of steers and yearlings available sold steady. [All prices are in dollars per 100 pounds.]

GENERAL CIGAR.

Did improved purchasing power of cigar smokers in 1939 help General Cigar to larger profits? I would like a report on the company.—G. W.

Answer: Net profit of the General Cigar Company, Inc., in 1939 declined about 27 per cent below that of 1938. Altho an analysis of the company's sales was not available, it was believed the drop was caused by the intense competition in the nickel cigar field.

General Cigar is the leading domestic producer of cigars. Its brands include "Robert Burns," "White Owl," "Wm. Penn," and "Van Dyck." The production methods employed by the company are almost entirely mechanical.

With no funded debt, the company's capitalization consists of 50,000 shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock of $100 par value and 472,982 shares of no par common stock.

Net income of General Cigar and its Cuban subsidiary, earnings per common share, and dividends paid per common share in recent years follow:

	Net income.	Earned per shr.	Div. per shr.
1935	$2,076,000	$3.65	$7.00
1936	1,803,000	3.07	4.00
1937	1,674,000	2.80	3.00
1938	1,207,000	1.81	2.00
1939	879,000	1.12	1.75

Regular dividends of $7 a share each year have been paid on the preferred stock.

LEGITIMATE USED CAR SAVINGS

READ THIS AD OVER VERY CAREFULLY

"BARGAINS" are advertised by dealers everywhere—but how is one to know who REALLY offers the biggest savings? Here is a convincing answer.

Studebaker is one of the biggest used car merchandisers in Chicago, and has been for a long time. The reason is, over a period of years, satisfied purchasers have passed the word around that we have the biggest collection of good used automobiles to offer, priced at lowest figures.

Under these circumstances, don't you think it's worth while to investigate our unusual buys? Also learn the details of the famous Studebaker Used Car Pledge, which gives you 5 days' driving trial on each car, regardless of price.
